HOOVER URGES RUM CONTROL BY STATES WITH NO SALOONS, DRY AREAS PROTECTED

GOV. ROOSEVELT HEARS WALKER DENY CHARGES

HE IS GRANTED RIGHT TO CALL WITNESSES

Possibility Looms Seabury May Face Grilling by Mayor.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 11 (U.P.).—Strung to a high pitch of emotion, his voice breaking into half sobs, Mayor James J. Walker today opened his defense against charges of corruption with a vigorous denunciation of his accusers and a tight-lipped protestation of innocence.

The immaculately clad mayor, called to the stand almost at the outset of the hearing that will determine his fitness to hold his $40,000-a-year office, won a signal victory as the trial opened.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose political fate is strangely enmeshed in the tangled politics involving Tammany and New York City, ruled Walker would be permitted to call and examine such witnesses as he chooses.

Decision Is Roosevelt's.

The governor, sitting as a judge, jury and sole referee as to the mayor's fitness for office, will decide at the conclusion of the case whether Walker shall be removed or permitted to remain in office.

The ruling opened up another dramatic possibility. It now lies within the power of Mayor Walker, if he chooses, to call his chief accuser to the stand—Samuel Seabury, the man who for two persistent years of inquisition has gone into every detail of the mayor's public and private life.

A large crowd, receiving the governor's ruling with cheers for the magnetic mayor, was expectant that the trial may yet see the ruddy-cheeked chief counsel for the Hofstadter committee under the guns of the mayor.

Walker Takes Stand.

But the trial itself, changing suddenly from a debate over legal precedent to the more dramatic taking of testimony, forced Jimmy Walker into the defensive.

He was obviously nervous when he went to the stand. His long fingers drummed incessantly on the arms of his chair, or pressed convulsively on his knees. He burst forth into an appeal that rose from a slow, almost painfully slow recital, into a half-sobbing, half-shrieking denunciation of his tormenters.

"I am being railroaded," he cried. "I am being ruined in 'ex parte' proceedings."

"After 23 years of political life," he continued, quite evidently struggling for control of his voice, "that life will be snuffed out without my ever having had an opportunity to confront my accusers."

Reminded by Governor.

It was evident that, his mind on his testimony, he had completely overlooked the fact that Gov. Roosevelt had ten minutes previously granted his request for the presentation and cross-examination of such witnesses as he might choose to bring.

The governor, accordingly, stirring restively on his dais, broke in to advise the mayor once more that he would be given the right to examine

World Court Vote Upholds Lithuania

Says Dismissal of Memel Council President Was in Order.

The Hague, Netherlands, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—After three months' deliberation, the World Court today decided substantially in favor of Lithuania in a suit brought by Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan.

The action had to do with the dismissal by Lithuanian authorities last February of Otto Boettcher, president of the Council of Memel, which was followed by the appointment of a new council and dissolution of the Memel Diet.

By a vote of ten to five the court decided that the Governor of Memel was entitled to dismiss Boettcher, that the appointment of a new council was in order, but that dissolution of the Diet was not in order.

2,750 Names Listed In Employment Pool

Preferred Group to Be First for New Jobs; Four Former Schedules Are Merged in Most Recent Plan.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The Civil Service Commission yesterday moved to lessen the shock of indefinite furloughs and outright dismissals by combining in one preferential list the four independent registers maintained for reemployment purposes.

The combined list, from which Federal vacancies will be filled, will contain some 2,750 names. Action followed an initial step some weeks ago by President Thomas E. Campbell, who set up a reemployment pool of workers indefinitely furloughed.

A letter will go to President Hoover this week asking him to modify his order giving job precedence to those in the "coordinator's pool," one of the four lists combined by yesterday's action. This is made up only of persons about to be dropped from the service. The commission feels persons actually discharged should be given the same consideration.

The four lists merged comprise the reemployment register created in 1918, on which there are about 35 names; the cordinator's pool, which lists 215 candidates for jobs, the furlough list of about 200 set up recently by Gov. Campbell, and the "departmental survey," now listing some 2,300 employes who have applied for other Federal jobs.

Until President Hoover modifies his order giving first choice to employes still active in the service, those in the first three groups will not be on an equal basis when appointments are made. Workers furloughed, or about to be released, must until then be given precedence over those actually discharged.

The President will be asked to order that workers released from active

HITLER MAY HEAD REICH AFTER TODAY

If Nazi Chief Pledges Rule Under Constitution He Is Likely to Be Chancellor.

Berlin, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Adolf Hitler will lay his claims to the chancellorship before President Paul von Hindenburg tomorrow at a conference arranged by the president himself.

Whether the Nazi leader emerges from the conference with a mandate to head the government apparently depends on his success in satisfying the aged field marshal that Germany would continue to be a constitutionally governed nation under Hitler rule.

At the conclusion of two days of political maneuvering, the line-up tonight was this:

The Nazis were demanding that Hitler be made chancellor as a matter of party prestige.

The Centrist party of former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening was favorable as it believed Hitler's power would be broken once he surrendered his opposition role.

Chancellor Franz von Papen and other members of the cabinet—with the exception of Defense Minister Kurt von Schleicher, whose role was enigmatic and sphynxlike — were ready to yield to Hitler, but they considered the experiment dangerous.

Industry, the business world and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg's Nationalist party were strenuously opposed to a Hitler chancellorship.

The president was known to be personally disinclined to appoint the Nazi leader, although the strength of the party in the Reichstag elections July 31 impelled him to the belief the Nazi claims were strong.

It was assured the president would ask Hitler for indubitable assurances that legality and constitutionality would be maintained.

Germany's political ferment was reflected today in the celebration of the thirteenth "Constitution Day." The outward form of custom was observed in the Reichstag, but the speech of Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, minister of interior, was an attack on the constitution rather than an eulogy of it.

Cuban Magnate Slated As Ambassador to U. S.

Havana, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—It was learned today from an authoritative source that Oscar Cintas, son-in-law of the late Col. Jose N. Tarafa, had been offered an appointment as ambassador to the United States and was considering acceptance. Col. Tarafa, the sugar magnate, died in New York July 25. Orestes Ferrara resigned as ambassador to the United States in May.

Cintas is executive vice president of a Cuban company affiliated with the Amer Car & Foundry Co., and is an executive of the United Railways of Cuba.

Abducted Bank Cashier Sought After Robbery

Silver Creek, Nebr., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Country roads and the brush-covered Platte River bottoms were searched today for a trace of W. C. Logan, bank cashier, who was abducted early this morning by two robbers who took about $3,000 from the Farmers State Bank.

FRIENDS SAY CLARKE TOOK DRUGS OFTEN

Writer Threatened to Kill Himself "in Big Way," State Witnesses.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Haden Clarke was pictured as a morose young man, addicted to narcotics, who threatened to commit suicide "in a big way," at the trial today of Capt. W. N. Lancaster, charged with slaying Clarke.

Clarke, a writer, was mysteriously shot to death here April 21 at the home of Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller, Australian aviatrix, whose love he had won from Lancaster, a former British army pilot. Lancaster and Clarke, who was writing the life story of Mrs. Keith-Miller, were in the same room at the time of the shooting.

Miami and New Orleans acquaintances of Clarke were called by the defense to support its claim that Clarke took his own life because of financial and other worries. Another witness testified in an effort by the defense to show animus against Lancaster by a State witness, who said Lancaster threatened to "get rid" of Clarke.

"Haden told me, in discussing suicide, that if he ever got in a jam he would shoot himself in the head," said Dick Lavender, who related he had lived with Clarke in New Orleans last year.

"He said he would either hide away somewhere or else he would go out in a big way," the witness testified.

Lavender said that Clarke had used narcotics and liquor both in New Orleans and after they came here in February, and that "he was afflicted

Alfonso Denies Part in Uprising

Former King of Spain Issues Statement Through Czech Minister.

Koenigswart Czechoslovakia, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Former King Alfonso XIII of Spain, who is on a vacation here at the castle of Count Metternich, officially notified the Czechoslovakian minister of interior today that he was in no way connected with the uprising in Spain.

His statement was delivered to the minister by the commander of the secret service, which was entrusted with safeguarding the life of the former monarch while in Czechoslovakia.

Alfonso also expressed to those about him a feeling of sorrow at the happenings in the land he once ruled, saying he regretted the bloodshed. He said he expected to stay here until August 28.

Garner Leaves Texas For Conference Here

Uvalde, Tex., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—John Nance Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, departed late today by train for New York and Washington to confer with party leaders.

Mrs. Garner did not accompany him. Later, if he should start on a speaking tour in the East, she expects to join him. Just what route Garner would follow from San Antonio was not known here. His departure was unexpected.

SEVILLE RIOTS FOLLOW CRASH OF REVOLUTION

Mobs Take Vengeance on Monarchists for Aiding Revolt.

SANJURJO, CAPTURED, IS TAKEN TO MADRID

Death Penalty Is Demanded for Leader of Brief Uprising.

Madrid, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Gen. Jose Sanjurjo, leader of yesterday's short-lived revolt against the republic, was brought a captive to Madrid tonight for trial while rioting mobs in Seville took their vengence on Monarchist sympathizers.

Dressed in civilian clothes, the short and burly general, formerly known as one of the bravest men in Spain, was spirited to police headquarters here by Maj. Arturo Mendenez Lopez, national director of public safety.

Shortly afterward, Premier Manuel Azana announced that the general and all other officers and civilians connected with the revolt would be tried by the sixth session of the supreme court. This tribunal is devoted to military affairs.

Confers With Cabinet.

The premier's decision followed conferences with other members of the cabinet, in which the consensus showed a desire to grant the rebels a maximum of constitutional guarantees. Is was a departure from custom in Spain, where military courts-martial were held for all former revolters, including President Niceto Alcala Zamora and other members of the present regime who were tried under the monarchy.

Gen. Sanjurjo who complained that "everybody abandoned me in my undertaking" after his revolt collapsed, was held incommunicado at police headquarters here. He was arrested early today in flight a Huelva after he had asked a rural guard to show him the best way to Portugal.

Congress, meanwhile, unanimously approved Premier Azana's proposal to grant the government authority to reward faithful employes and officials who acted in minor capacities during the revolt and to punish those guilty of aiding the rebels through negligence or passivity.

At Seville, where the revolt cen-

Roosevelt's Widow Sits At Table With Mrs. Gann

Friendliness Seen as Indicating Support for Entire G. O. P. Slate; Differences With Democratic Branch of Family Are Made Clear.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Edith Kermit Roosevelt, the President's widow, flew to the support of the Republican party against a Democratic Roosevelt yesterday and became the center of a buzz of political and social discussion on her old home grounds—the White House lawn.

She smilingly greeted all the guests at President Hoover's notification day luncheon party. She chatted with Cabinet members and party leaders. She appeared as head of a Roosevelt clan which also included two of the younger generation, Ethel Roosevelt Derby and Alice Roosevelt Longworth. And she sat, in friendliest fashion, at the same lawn table with Mrs. Dolly Gann.

"Let's roll up our sleeves and re-elect our President!" Mrs. Roosevelt had exclaimed to Republican women in New York, home State of the Democratic candidate, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Rolled-up sleeves were as far as possible from her correct and characteristically beautiful attire. But she did lay aside the heavy black widow's veil in which she flew from New York to Washington, to don an all-white costume for the garden party.

First, she made clear, dramatically once and for all, the distinction between the Republican Roosevelts and the Democratic Roosevelts, and settled any argument as to how her own clan stands.

Though Candidate Roosevelt is but a distant cousin to the late President Theodore Roosevelt's family, his wife, a Roosevelt before her marriage, was Teddy's niece, and Alice Roosevelt Longworth served as her bridesmaid. But this close consanguinity will not mean any Republican Roosevelt votes for the Democratic Roosevelt.

For Alice, animated as always in smart sports dress of black and white print, was the center of a "keynote" group including Secretary and Mrs. Ogden Mills, with whom she's going yachting. She votes in Cincinnati, never fails to exercise her franchise, and her ballot goes Republican, this year as always.

And Ethel, in green and white, said her plans were not made yet, but she expected to campaign for the Hoover ticket. She's president of a woman's Republican club named for her mother.

Mrs. Roosevelt's second major stroke of strategy was in sitting at the same table with Mrs. Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, for that was interpreted by the onlookers as showing Roosevelian amity toward the entire ticket, in spite of all the pother there was in Chicago about Teddy Roosevelt, jr., wanting the Vice Presidency, and his sister Alice being there to get it for him, if possible, against the full fighting forces of Dolly Gann.

This talk, of course, was accompanied with a complete rehash of the so-called Gann-Roosevelt "social controversy."

But with complete poise and serenity, Mrs. Roosevelt added her full strength to the Republican stronghold. A bit more frail at 71, but still as stately as when mistress of the White House, she might have stepped from her own portrait in the corridor through which the guests passed to the garden.

HOOVER ACCEPTS NOMINATION

Underwood & Underwood.

Text of Hoover's Speech On Accepting Nomination

Mr. Chairman and My Fellow Citizens:

In accepting the great honor you have brought me I desire to speak so simply and so plainly that every man and woman in the United States who may hear or read my words can not misunderstand.

The past three years have been a time of unparalleled economic calamity. They have been years of greater suffering and hardship than any which have come to the American people since the aftermath of the Civil War. As we look back over these troubled years we realize that we have passed through two stages of dislocation and stress.

Before the storm broke we were steadily gaining in prosperity. Our wounds from the war were rapidly healing. Advances in science and invention had opened vast vistas of new progress. Being prosperous, we became optimistic—all of us. From optimism some of us went to overexpansion in anticipation of the future, and from overexpansion to reckless speculation. In the soil poisoned by speculation grew those ugly weeds of waste, exploitation and abuse of financial power. In this overproduction and speculative mania we marched with the rest of the world. Then three years ago came retribution by the inevitable world-wide slump in consumption of goods, in prices and employment. At that juncture it was the normal penalty for a reckless boom such as we have witnessed a score of times in our history. Through such depressions we have always passed safely after a relatively short period of losses, of hardship and adjustment. We adopted policies in the Government which were fitting to the situation. Gradually the country began to right itself. Eighteen months ago there was a solid basis for hope that recovery was in sight.

Then there came to us a new calamity, a blow from abroad of such dangerous character as to strike at the very safety of the Republic. The countries of Europe proved unable to withstand the stress of the depression. The memories of the world had ignored the fact that the insidious diseases left by the Great War had not been cured. The skill and intelligence of millions in Europe had been

Buck Sets Record In Mexico Flight

Youthful Pilot, 18, Hops by Stages From Newark in 24 Hours 5 Minutes.

Mexico City, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Robert Buck, youthful American flier, landed his airplane at the Central Airport here at 1:09 p. m. today and set a new junior speed record for a flight by stages from Newark, N. J., to Mexico City. His total flying time was 24 hours and 5 minutes.

He flew here from Tampico on the last leg of the flight—approximately 225 miles—in 2 hours and 4 minutes. He figured his elapsed time from Newark was 55 hours 9 minutes.

A hundred spectators greeted the red-headed 18-year-old youngster. He said he would hop off Saturday morning for Los Angeles, Calif., via Brownsville, San Antonio, Big Spring and El Paso, Tex.; Tucson and Yuma, Ariz. From Los Angeles, he said, he would go to Cleveland to participate in air races there.

Southern Railway Asks Loan of $9,251,000

PRESIDENT SAYS DEMOCRATS HAVE NOT GIVEN SUBSTITUTE

Outlines Program for Complete Rout of Depression; Stresses World Influence of R. F. C. and Other Projects.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Advancing a program for constructive modification as his party's answer to the Democratic proposal for outright repeal, President Hoover last night suggested the return of the liquor control to the States, but under absolute constitutional guarantees against interstate invasions, and with Federal assurances "that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system."

His reluctant abandonment of the eighteenth amendment as the final solution of the problem was coupled in his acceptance address with a broad-gauge program "to move from defense to powerful attack upon the depression along the whole national front," and with an unequivocal pledge to preserve and defend the essential principles of American government against demagogic appeals and panaceas.

"I have but one desire," the President said, "and that is to see my country again on the road to prosperity which shall be more sane and lasting through the lesson of experience, to see the principles and ideals of the American people perpetuated."

Describes Recovery Plans.

The address was delivered before a colorful and enthusiastic audience in Constitution Hall, and broadcast throughout the world. Thunderous ovations punctuated the President's delivery as he reviewed the details of the three-year battle against world-wide economic dislocation, and catalogued the policies through which he hopes to carry the Nation "through this dark night" to "the dawn of a better day."

In reviewing the successful conquest of the depression the President again acknowledged the patriotic cooperation of those Democratic leaders, in Congress and out, who submerged partisanship to the needs of the hour.

Reaffirming his sympathy with "the high purposes of the eighteenth amendment," and pledging himself unequivocally "to enforce the laws as they exist," Mr. Hoover interpreted the resubmission plank adopted by the Chicago convention as a pledge to "a constructive and not a destructive change."

Urges Sane Solution.

Calling the bootlegger and the speakeasy by their street names, and characterizing the Democratic repeal plank as a threat "to destroy every vestige of constitutional and effective Federal control of the traffic," he declared the new national objective "must be a sane solution, not a blind leap back to old evils."

The Chicago platform, he added, "does not dictate to the conscience of any member of the party."

Convinced that neither the return of the old order nor the continuance of the present era of demoralizing lawlessness would be sanctioned by the American people, the President declared with grave emphasis that American statesmanship is capable of working out a genuine solution and making it effective.

"The Constitution gives the President no power or authority with respect to changes in the Constitution itself; nevertheless my countrymen have a right to know my conclusions upon this matter. They are based upon the broad facts I have stated, upon my experience in this high office, and upon the deep conviction that our purpose must be the

W. C. T. U. TO OPPOSE STATE OPTION MOVE

Dry Leader Declares Plan Would Create More Problems.

Seattle, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, of Brooklyn, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, commenting tonight to the Associated Press on President Hoover's proposal that the States deal with the prohibition question individually, said: "The proposed plan will be opposed by dry forces every step of the way."

Mrs. Boole, here for the national convention of the organization, declared: "The amendment suggested plans for a destructive change." She asserted it will not solve the problem, "but will create new problems even more difficult."

The text of Mrs. Boole's statement follows:

"I am glad that Mr. Hoover states that the first duty of the President is to enforce the laws as they exist, and that he announces that he will continue to do so to the best of his ability.

"The difficulties of enforcement are many but the statistics of the Department of Justice and the Treasury bear witness to increasing efficiency in enforcement, while the Department of Commerce testifies to the economic and social benefits of prohibition.

"The drys recognize the importance of State cooperation but it is the opponents of national prohibition who are seeking to repeal State laws and who are crippling law enforcement. Laws should not be changed at the demand of law violators.

"The proposed amendment which would in effect repeal the eighteenth amendment and destroy national prohibition would give States the right to deal with the problem as they see fit. It will not solve the problem but will create new problems even more difficult. The amendment suggested plans for a destructive change.

"American statesmanship can not

Franco-U. S. Trade Pact Talk Only Preparatory

Paris, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The ministry of commerce announced tonight that conversations between the United States and France relative to a new commercial treaty thus far have been only of a "preparatory character."

"However, the first exchanges of views will be followed up soon in a spirit of collaboration which permits hope that a speedy and satisfactory solution will be given the questions to be settled between the two countries," the announcement said. The discussions are expected to enter the actual conversation stage next week.

HOOVER SCORES RAIDS ON FEDERAL TREASURY

FIRM IN HIS STAND ON TARIFF QUESTION

blotted out by battle, disease, and starvation. Stupendous burdens of national debts had been built up. Poisoned springs of political instability lay in the treaties which closed the war. Fears and hates held armaments to double those before the war. Governments were fallaciously seeking to build back by enlarged borrowing, by subsidizing industry and employment with taxes that slowly sapped the savings upon which industry must be rejuvenated and commerce solidly built. Under these strains the financial systems of many foreign countries crashed one by one.

New blows from decreasing world consumption of goods and from failing financial systems rained upon us. We are part of a world, the disturbance of whose remotest populations affects our financial system, our employment, our markets, and prices of our farm products. Thus, beginning eighteen months ago the world-wide storm rapidly grew to hurricane force and the greatest economic emergency in all history. Unexpected, unforseen, and violent shocks with every month brought new dangers and new emergencies. Fear and apprehension gripped the heart of our people in every village and city.

If we look back over the disasters of these three years, we find that three-quarters of the population of the globe has suffered from the flames of revolution. Many nations have been subject to constant change and vacillation of government. Others have resorted to dictatorship or tyranny in desperate attempts to preserve some sort of social order.

America Weathers the Storm.

I may pause for one short illustration of the character of one single destructive force arising from these causes which we have been compelled to meet. That was its effect upon our financial structure. Foreign countries, in the face of their own failures, not believing that we had the courage or ability to meet this crisis, withdrew from the United States over $2,400,000,000, including a billion in gold. Our own alarmed citizens withdrew over $1,600,000,000 of currency from our banks into hoarding. These actions, combined with fears they generated, caused a shrinkage of credit available for conduct of industry and commerce by several times even these vast sums. Its visible expression was bank and business failures, demoralization of security and real property values, commodity prices and employment. This was but one of the invading forces of destruction.

Two courses were open. We might have done nothing. That would have been utter ruin. Instead, we met the situation with proposals to private business and the Congress of the most gigantic program of economic defense and counterattack ever evolved in the history of the Republic. We put it into action.

Our measures have repelled these attacks of fear and panic. We have maintained the financial integrity of our Government. We have cooperated to restore and stabilize the situation abroad. As a nation we have paid every dollar demanded of us. We have used the credit of the Government to aid and protect our institutions, public and private. We have provided methods and assurances that there shall be none to suffer from hunger and cold. We have instituted measures to assist farmers and home owners. We have created vast agencies for employment. Above all, we have maintained the sanctity of the principles upon which this Republic has grown great.

In a large sense the test of success of our program is simple. Our people, while suffering great hardships have been and will be cared for. In the long view our institutions have been sustained intact, and are now functioning with increasing confidence of the future. As a nation we are undefeated and unafraid. Government by the people has not been defiled.

National Cooperation Victorious.

With the humility of one who by necessity has stood in the midst of this storm I can say with pride that the distinction for these accomplishments belongs not to the Government or to any individual. It is due to the intrepid soul of our people. It is to their character, their fortitude, their initiative, and their courage that we owe these results. We of this generation did not build the great Ship of State. But the policies I have inaugurated have protected and aided its navigation in this storm. These policies and programs have not been partisan. I gladly give tribute to those members of the Democratic party in Congress whose patriotic cooperation against factional and demagogic opposition has assisted in a score of great undertakings. I likewise give credit to Democratic as well as Republican leaders amongst our citizens for their cooperation and help.

A record of these dangers and these policies in the past three years will be set down in books. Much of it is of interest only to history. Our interest now is the future. I dwell upon these policies and problems only where they illustrate the questions of the day and our course in the future. As a government and as a people we still have much to do. We must continue the building of our measures of restoration. We must profit by the lessons of this experience.

The Federal Function Defined.

Before I enter upon a discussion of these policies I wish to say something of my conception of the relation of our Government to the people and of the responsibilities of both, particularly as applied to these times. The spirit and devising of this Government by the people was to sustain a dual purpose—on the one hand to protect our people amongst nations and in domestic emergencies by great national power, and on the other to preserve individual liberty and freedom through local government.

The function of the Federal Government in these times is to use its reserve powers and its strength for the protection of citizens and local government by support to our institutions against forces beyond their control. It is not the function of the Government to relieve individuals of their responsibilites to their neighbors, or to relieve private institutions of their responsibilities to the public, or of local government to the States, or of State governments to the Federal Government. In giving that protection and that aid the Federal Government must insist that all of them exert their responsibilitiees in full. It is vital that the programs of the Government shall not compete with or replace any of them but shall add to their initiative and their strength. It is vital that by the use of public revenues and public credit in emergency the Nation shall be strengthened and not weakened.

American Principles Maintained.

And in all these emergencies and crises and in all our future policies we must also preserve the fundamental principles of our social and economic system. That system is founded upon a conception of ordered freedom. The test of that freedom is that there should be maintained equality of opportunity to every individual so that he may achieve for himself the best to which his character, ability and ambition entitle him. It is only by this release of initiative, this insistence upon individual responsibility, that we accrue the great sums of individual accomplishment which carry this Nation forward. This is not an individualism which permits men to run riot in selfishness or to override equality of opportunity for others. It permits no violation of ordered liberty. In the race after the false gods of materialism men and groups have forgotten their country. Equality of opportunity contains no conception of exploitation by any selfish, ruthless, class-minded men or groups. They have no place in the American system. As against these stand the guiding ideals and concepts of our Nation. I propose to maintain them.

Socialism Is Tyranny.

The solution of our many problems which arise from the shifting scene of national life is not to be found in haphazard experimentation or by revolution. It must be through organic development of our national life under these ideals. It must secure that cooperative action which builds initiative and strength outside of government. It does not follow, because our difficulties are stupendous, because there are some souls timorous enough to doubt the validity and effectiveness of our ideals and our system, that we must turn to a State-controlled or State-directed social or economic system in order to cure our troubles. That is not liberalism; it is tyranny. It is the regimentation of men under autocratic bureaucracy with all its extinction of liberty, of hope, and of opportunity. Of course, no man of understanding says that our system works perfectly. It does not. The human race is not perfect. Nevertheless, the movement of a true civilization is toward freedom rather than regimentation. This is our ideal.

Ofttimes the tendency of democracy in presence of national danger is to strike blindly, to listen to demagogues and slogans, all of which would destroy and would not save. We have refused to be stampeded into such courses. Ofttimes democracy elsewhere in the world has been unable to move fast enough to save itself in emergency. There have been disheartening delays and failures in legislation and private action which have added to the losses of our people, yet this democracy of ours has proved its ability to act.

Emergency Policy

Our emergency measures of the past three years form a definite strategy dominated in the background by these American principles and ideals, forming a continuous campaign waged against the forces of destruction on an ever widening or constantly shifting front.

Thus we have held that the Federal Government should in the presence of great national danger use its powers to give leadership to the initiative, the courage, and the fortitude of the people themselves; but it must insist upon individual, community, and State responsibility. That it should furnish leadership to assure the coordination and unity of all existing agencies, governmental and private, for economic and humanitarian action. That where it becomes necessary to meet emergencies beyond the power of these agencies by the creation of new Government instrumentalities, they should be of such character as not to supplant or weaken, but rather to supplement and strengthen, the initiative and enterprise of the people. That they must, directly or indirectly, serve all the people. Above all, that they should be set up in such form that once the emergency is passed they can and must be demobilized and withdrawn, leaving our governmental, economic, and social structure strong and whole.

We have not feared boldly to adopt unprecedented measures to meet the unprecedented violance of the storm. But, because we have kept ever before us these eternal principles of our Nation, the American Government in its ideals is the same as it was when the people gave the Presidency into my trust. We shall keep it so. We have resolutely rejected the temptation, under pressure of immediate events, to resort to those panaceas and short cuts which, even if temporarily successful, would ultimately undermine and weaken what has slowly been built and molded by experience and effort throughout these 150 years.

The Reconstruction Program.

It was in accordance with these principles that in the first stage of the depression I called the leaders of business and of labor and agriculture to meet with me and induced them, by their own initiative, to organize against panic with all its devastating destruction; to uphold wages until the cost of living was adjusted; to spread existing employment through shortened hours; and to advance construction work, public and private, against future need.

In pursuance of that same policy, I each winter thereafter assumed the leadership in mobilizing all the voluntary and official organizations throughout the country to prevent suffering from hunger and cold, and to protect the million families stricken by drought. When it became advisable to strengthen the States who could not longer carry the full burden of relief to distress, I held that the Federal Government should do so through loans to the States and thus maintain the fundamental responsibility of the States. We stopped the attempt to turn this effort to the politics of selfish sectional demands. We kept it based upon human need.

It is in accordance with these principles that, in aid to unemployment, we are expending some $600,000,000 in Federal construction of such public works as can be justified as bringing early and definite returns. We have opposed the distortion of these needed works into pork-barrel, nonproductive works which impoverish the Nation.

It is in accord with these principles and purposes that we have made provision for $1,500,000,000 of loans to self-supporting works so that we may increase employment in productive labor. We rejected projects of wasteful nonproductive works allocated for the purpose of attracting votes instead of affording relief. Thereby, instead of wasteful drain upon the taxpayer we secure the return of their cost of Government agencies and at the same time we increase the wealth of the Nation.

It was in accordance with these principles that we have strengthened the capital of the Federal land banks—that on the one hand confidence in their securities should not be impaired, and on the other that farmers indebted to them should not be unduly deprived of their homes. The Farm Board by emergency loans to the farmers' cooperatives served to stem panics in agricultural prices and saved hundreds of thousands of farmers and their creditors from bankruptcy. We have created agencies to prevent bankruptcy and failure of their cooperative organizations, and we are erecting new instrumentalities to give credit facilities for livestock growers and the orderly marketing of farm products.

Financial Collapse Averted.

It was in accordance with these principles that in the face of the looming European crisis we sought to change the trend of European economic degeneration by my proposal of the German moratorium and the standstill agreements as to German private debts. We stemmed the tide of collapse in Germany and the consequent ruin of its people, with its repercussion on all other nations of the world. In furtherance of world stability we have made proposals to reduce the cost of world armaments by a billion dollars a year.

It was in accordance with these principles that I first secured the creation by private initiative of the National Credit Association, whose efforts prevented the failure of hundreds of banks, and loss to countless thousands of depositors who had loaned all their savings to them.

As the storm grew in intensity we created the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with a capital of $2,000,000,000, to uphold the credit structure of the Nation, and by thus raising the shield of Government credit we prevented the wholesale failure of banks, of insurance companies, of building and loan associations, of farm mortgage associations, of live stock loan associations, and of railroads, in all of which the public interest is paramount. This disaster has been averted through the saving of more than 5,000 institutions and the knowledge that adequate assistance was available to tide others over the stress. This was done not to save a few stockholders, but to save 25,000,000 of American families, every one of whose very savings and employment might have been wiped out and whose whole future would have been blighted had those institutions gone down.

It was in accordance with these principles that we expanded the functions and powers of the Federal Reserve banks, that they might counteract the stupendous shrinkage of credit due to fear, to hoarding and to foreign withdrawals.

It is in accordance with these principles that we are now in process of establishing a new system of home loan banks, so that through added strength by cooperation in the building and loan associations, the savings banks and the insurance companies we may relax the pressure of forfeiture upon home owners, and procure the release of new resources for the construction of more homes and the employment of more men.

Dormant Forces Aroused.

It was in accordance with these principles that we have insisted upon a reduction of governmental expenses, for no country can squander itself to prosperity on the ruins of its taxpayers, and it was in accordance with these purposes that we have sought new revenues to equalize the diminishing income of the Government in order that the power of the Federal Government to meet the emergency should be impregnable.

It is in accordance with these principles that we have joined in the development of a world economic conference to bulwark the whole international fabric of finance, monetary values and the expansion of world commerce.

It is in accordance with these principles that I am today organizing the private industrial and financial resources of the country to cooperate effectively with the vast governmental instrumentalities which we have in omtion, so that through their united and coordinated efforts we may move from defense to powerful attack upon the depression along the whole national front.

These programs, unparalleled in the history of depressions in any country and in any time, to care for distress, to provide employment, to aid agriculture, to maintain the financial stability of the country, to safeguard the savings of the people, to protect their homes, are not in the past tense—they are in action. I shall propose such other measures, public and private, as may be necessary from time to time to meet the changing situations and to further speed economic recovery. That recovery may be slow, but we will succeed.

And come what may, I shall maintain through all these measures the sanctity of the great principles under which the Republic over a period of 150 years has grown to be the greatest nation on earth.

I should like to digress for one instant for an observation on the past three years which should exhilarate the faith of all Americans—that is the profound growth of the sense of social responsibility which this depression has demonstrated.

No government in Washington has hitherto considered that it held so broad a responsibility for leadership in such times. Despite hardships, the devotion of our men and women to those in distress is demonstrated by the national averages of infant mortality, general mortality and sickness, which are less today than in times of prosperity. For the first time in the history of depressions, dividends, profits and cost of living have been reduced before wages have suffered. We have been more free from industrial conflict through strikes and lockouts and all forms of social disorder than even in normal times. The Nation is building the initiative of men toward new fields of social cooperation and endeavor.

Permanent Policies

So much for the great national emergency and the principles of government for which we stand and their application to the measures we have taken.

There are national policies wider than the emergency, wider than the economic horizon. They are set forth in our platform. Having the responsibility of this office, my views upon them are clearly and often set out in the public record. I may, however, summarize some of them.

Tariff.

1. I am squarely for a protective tariff. I am against the proposal of "a competitive tariff for revenue" as advocated by our opponents. That would place our farmers and our workers in competition with peasant and sweated labor products.

2. I am against their proposals to destroy the usefulness of the bipartisan Tariff Commission, the establishment of whose effective powers we secured during this administration, 25 years after it was first advocated by President Theodore Roosevelt. That instrumentality enables us to correct any injustice and to readjust the rates of duty to shifting economic change, without constantly tinkering and orgies of log-rolling in Congress. If our opponents will descend from vague generalizations to any particular schedule, if it be higher than necessary to protect our people or insufficient for their protection, it can be remedied by this bipartisan commission.

War Debts.

3. My views in opposition to cancellation of war debts are a matter of detailed record in many public statements and a recent message to the Congress. They mark a continuity of that policy maintained by my predecessors. I am hopeful of such drastic reduction of world armament as will save the taxpayers in debtor countries a large part of the cost of their payments to us. If for any particular annual payment we were offered some other tangible form of compensation such as the expansion of markets for American agriculture and labor, and the restoration and maintenance of our prosperity, then I am sure our citizens would consider such a proposal. But it is a certainty that these debts must not be canceled or the burdens transferred to our people.

Armaments.

4. I insist upon an Army and Navy of a strength which guarantees that no foreign soldier will land on American soil. That strength is relative to other nations. I favor every arms reduction which preserves that relationship.

Immigration.

5. I favor rigidly restricted immigration. I have by Executive direction, in order to relieve us of added unemployment, already reduced the inward movement to less than the outward movement. I shall adhere to that policy.

Railroads.

6. I have repeatedly recommended to the Congress a revision of the railway transportation laws, in order that we may create greater stability and greater assurance of vital service in all our transportation. I shall persist in it.

Electric Power.

7. I have repeatedly recommended the Federal regulation of interstate power. I shall persist in that. I have opposed the Federal Government undertaking the operation of the power business. I shall continue that opposition.

Conservation.

8. I have for years supported the conservation of national resources. I have made frequent recommendations to the Congress in respect thereto, including legislation to correct the waste and destruction of these resources through the present interpretations of the antitrust laws. I shall continue to urge such action.

Banking.

9. This depression has exposed many weaknesses in our economic system. There have been exploitation and abuse of financial power. We will fearlessly and unremittingly reform such abuses. I have recommended to the Congress the reform of our banking laws. Unfortunately this legislation has not yet been enacted. The American people must have protection from insecure banking through a stronger system. They must be relieved from conditions which permit the credit machinery of the country to be made available without adequate check for wholesale speculation in securities with ruinous consequences to millions of our citizens and to national economy. I recommended to the Congress emergency relief for depositors in closed banks. For seven years I have repeatedly warned against private loans abroad for nonproductive purposes. I shall persist in those matters.

Taxation.

10. I have insisted upon a balanced budget as the foundation of all public and private financial stability and of all public confidence. I shall insist on the maintenance of that policy. Recent increases in revenues, while temporary, should be again examined, and if they tend to sap the vitality of industry, and thus retard employment, they must be revised.

11. The first necessity of the Nation, the wealth and income of whose citizens has been reduced, is to reduce expenditures on government, National, State, and local. It is the relief of taxes from the backs of men which liberates their powers. It is through lower expenditures that we get lower taxes. This must be done. Considerable reduction in Federal expenditures has been attained. If we except those extraordinary expenditures imposed upon us by the depression, it will be found that the Federal Government is operating for $200,000,000 less annually today than four years ago. The Congress rejected recommendations from the administration which would have saved an additional $150,000,000 this fiscal year. The opposition leadership insisted, as the price of vital reconstruction legislation and over my protest, upon adding $300,000,000 of costs to the taxpayer through public works inadvisable at this time. I shall repeat my proposals for economy. The opposition leadership in the House of Representatives in the past four months secured passage by the House of $3,000,000,000 in such raids. They have been stopped. I shall continue to oppose raids upon the Federal Treasury.

Federal Reorganization.

12. I have repeatedly for seven years urged the Congress either themselves to abolish obsolete bureaus and commissions and to reorganize the whole Government structure in the interest of economy, or to give some one the authority to do so. I have succeeded partially in securing authority, but I regret that no substantial act under it is to be effective until approved by the next Congress.

Agriculture.

13. With the collapse in world prices and depreciated currencies the farmer was never so dependent upon his tariff protection for recovery as he is at the present time. We shall hold to that. We have enacted many measures of emergency relief to agriculture. They are having effect. I shall keep them functioning until the strain is passed. The original purpose of the Farm Board was to strengthen the efforts of the farmer to establish his own farmer-owned, farmer-controlled marketing agencies. It has greatly succeeded in this purpose, even in these times of adversity. The departure of the Farm Board from its original purpose by making loans to farmers' cooperatives to preserve prices from panic served the emergency, but such action in normal times is absolutely destructive to the farmers' interests.

We still have vast problems to serve in agriculture. No power on earth can restore prices except by restoration of general recovery and markets. Every measure we have taken looking to general recovery is of benefit to the farmer. There is no relief to the farmer by extending Government bureaucracy to control his production and thus curtail his liberties, nor by subsidies that bring only more bureaucracy and ultimate collapse. I shall oppose them.

The most practical relief to the farmer today aside from the general economic recovery is a definite program of readjustment and coordination of national, State and local taxation which will relieve real property, especially the farms, from unfair burdens of taxation which the current readjustment in values has brought about. To that purpose I propose to devote myself.

St. Lawrence Waterway.

14. I have always favored the development of rivers and harbors and highways. These improvements have been greatly expedited. We shall continue that work to completion. After twenty years of discussion between the United States and the great nation to the north, I have signed a treaty for the construction of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence seaway. That treaty does not injure the Chicago-to-the-Gulf waterway, the work upon which, together with the whole Mississippi system, I have expedited, and in which I am equally interested. We shall undertake this great seaway, the greatest public improvement upon our continent, with its consequent employment of many men, as quickly as the treaty is ratified.

Currency.

15. Our views upon sound currency require no elucidation. They are indelibly a part of Republican history and policies. We have affirmed them by preventing the Democratic majority in the House from effecting wild schemes of uncontrolled inflation.

Crime.

16. I have furnished to the Congress and to the States authoritative information upon the urgent need of reorganization of law enforcement agencies, the courts and their procedure, that we may reduce the lawlessness and crime in the country. I have recommended specific reforms to the Congress. I shall again press this necessity.

17. Upon my recommendation the Congress has enacted the most extensive measures of prison reform of two generations. As a result, and despite the doubling of the number of persons under Federal restraint in three years, we are today returning them to society far better fitted for citizenship.

18. There are many other important subjects fully set forth in the platform and in my public statements in the past.

Human Welfare.

19. The leadership of the Federal Government is not to be confined to economic and international questions. There are problems of the home, of education of children, of citizenship, the most vital of all to the future of the Nation. Except in the case of aid to States which I have recommended for stimulation of the protection and health of children, they are not matters of legislation. We have given leadership to the initiative of our people for social advancement, through organization against illiteracy, through the White House conferences on protection and health of children, through the National Conference on Home Ownership, through stimulation to social and recreational agencies. These are the visible evidences of spiritual leadership by government. They will be continued and constantly invigorated.

World Peace.

20. My foreign policies have been devoted to strengthening the foundations of world peace. We inaugurated the London naval treaty, which reduced arms and limited the ratios between the fleets of the three powers. We have made concrete proposals at Geneva to reduce armaments of the world by one-third. It would save the taxpayers of the world a billion a year. It would save us over $200,000,000 a year. It would reduce fear and danger of war. We have expanded the arbitration of disputes. I have recommended joining the World Court under proper reservations preserving our freedom of action. We have given leadership in transforming the Kellogg-Briand pact from an inspiring outlawry of war to an organized instrument for peaseful settlements backed by definite mobilization of world public opinion against aggression. We shall, under the spirit of that pact, consult with other nations in times of emergency to promote world peace. We shall enter no agreements committing us to any future course of action or which call for use of force to preserve peace.

Above all, I have projected a new doctrine into international affairs, the doctrine that we do not and never will recognize title to possession of territory gained in violation of the peace pacts. That doctrine has been accepted by all the nations of the world on a recent critical occasion, and within the last few days has been accepted again by all nations of the Western Hemisphere. That is public opinion made tangible and effective.

This world needs peace. It must have peace with justice. I shall continue to strive unceasingly, with every power of mind and spirit, to explore every possible path that leads toward a world in which right triumphs over force, in which reason rules over passion, in which men and women may rear their children not to be devoured by war but to pursue in safety the nobler arts of peace.

I shall continue to build or that design.

IV.

Prohibition

Across the path of the Nation's consideration of these vast problems of economic and social order, there has arisen a bitter controversy over the control of the liquor traffic. I have always sympathized with the high purpose of the eighteenth amendment and I have used every power at my command to make it effective over the entire country. I have hoped it was the final solution of the evils of the liquor traffic against which our people have striven for generations. It has succeeded in great measure in those many communities where the majority sentiment is favorable to it. But in other and increasing number of communities there is a majority sentiment unfavorable to it. Laws opposed by majority sentiment create resentment which undermines enforcement and in the end produces degeneration and crime.

Our opponents pledge the members of their party to destroy every vestige of constitutional and effective Federal control of the traffic. That means over large areas the return of the saloon system with its corruption, its moral and social abuse which debauched the home, its deliberate interference with those States endeavoring to find honest solution, its permeation of political parties, and its pervasion of legislatures, which even touched at the Capital of the Nation. The eighteenth amendment smashed that regime as by a stroke of lightning. I can not consent to the return of that system.

At the same time we must recognize the difficulties which have developed in making the eighteenth amendment effective and that grave abuses have grown up. In order to secure the enforcement of the amendment under our dual form of government, the constitutional provision called for concurrent action on one hand by the State and local authorities and on the other by the Federal Government. Its enforcement requires independent but coincident action of both agencies. An increasing number of States and municipalities are proving themselves unwilling to engage in such enforcement. Due to these forces there is in large sections an increasing illegal traffic in liquor. But worse than this there has been in those areas a spread of disrespect not only for this law, but for all laws, grave dangers of practical nullification of the Constitution, a degeneration in municipal government and an increase in subsidized crime and violence. I can not consent to the continuation of this regime.

I refuse to accept either of these destinies, on the one hand to return to the old saloon with its political and social corruption, or on the other to endure the bootlegger and the speakeasy with their abuses and crime. Either is intolerable. These are not the ways out.

No Backward Step.

Our objective must be a sane solution, not a blind leap back to old evils. Moreover, such a step backward would result in a chaos of new evils never yet experienced, because the local systems of prohibitions and controls which were developed over generations have been in large degree abandoned under the amendment.

The Republican platform recommends submission of the question to the States that the people themselves may determine whether they desire a change, but insists that this submission shall propose a constructive and not a destructive change. It does not dictate to the conscience of any member of the party.

The first duty of the President of the United States is to enforce the laws as they exist. That I shall continue to do to the utmost of my ability. Any other course would be abrogation of the very guaranties of liberty itself.

The Constitution gives the President no power or authority with respect to changes in the Constitution itself; nevertheless, my countrymen have a right to know my conclusions upon this matter. They are clear and need not be misunderstood. They are based upon the broad facts I have stated, upon my experience in this high office, and upon the deep conviction that our purpose must be the elimination of the evils of this traffic from this civilization by practical measures.

It is my belief that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we resummon a proper share of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our Government demands shall rest upon the States and local authorities. That change must avoid the return of the saloon.

It is my conviction that the nature of this change, and one upon which all reasonable people can find common ground, is that each State shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each State from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other States.

V.

A Chart of Progress

My fellow citizens, the discussion of great problems of economic life and of government often seems abstract and cold. But within their right solution lies the happiness and hope of a great people. Without such solution all else is mere verbal sympathy.

Today millions of our fellow countrymen are out of work. Prices of the farmers' products are below a living standard. Many millions more who are in business or hold employment are haunted by fears for the future. No man with a spark of humanity can sit in my place without suffering from the picture of their anxieties and hardships before him day and night. They would be more than human if they were not led to blame their condition upon the government in power. I have understood their sufferings, and have worked to the limits of my strength to produce action that would really help them.

Much remains to be done to attain recovery. The emergency measures now in action represent an unparalleled use of national power to relieve distress, to provide employment, to serve agriculture, to preserve the stability of the Government, to maintain the integrity of our institutions. Our policies prevent unemployment caused by floods of imported goods and laborers. Our policies preserve peace. They embrace cooperation with other nations in those fields in which we can serve. With patience and perseverance these measures will succeed.

Despite the dislocation of economic life, our great tools of production and distribution are more efficient than ever before; our fabulous natural resources, our farms, our homes, our skill, are unimpaired. From the hard-won experience of this depression we shall build stronger methods of prevention and stronger methods of protection to our people from the abuses which have become evident. We shall march to far greater accomplishment.

With united effort we can and will turn the tide toward the restoration of business, employment and agriculture. It will call for the utmost devotion and wisdom. Every reserve of American courage and vision must be called upon to sustain us and to plan wisely for the future.

Through it all our first duty is to preserve unfettered that dominant American spirit which has produced our enterprise and individual character. That is the bedrock of the past, and that is the guaranty of the future. Not regimental mechanisms, but free men is our goal. Herein is the fundamental issue. A representative democracy progressive and unafraid to meet its problems, but meeting them from the foundations of experience, and not upon the wave of emotion or the insensate demands of a radicalism which grasps at every opportunity to exploit the sufferings of a people.

With these courses we shall emerge from this great national strain with our American system of life and government strengthened. Our people will be free to reassert their energy and enterprise in a society eager to reward in full measure those whose industry serves its well being. Our youth will find the doors of equal opportunity still open.

Shifting Moral Ideals.

The problems of the next few years are not only economic. They are also moral and spiritual. The present check to our material success must deeply stir our national conscience upon the purposes of life itself. It must cause us to revalue and reshape our drift, from materialism to a higher note of individual and national ideals.

Underlying every purpose is the spiritual application of moral ideals which are the fundamental basis of happiness in a people. This is a land of homes, churches, schoolhouses dedicated to the sober and enduring satisfactions of family life and the rearing of children in an atmosphere of ideals and religious faith. Only with these high standards can we hold society together, and only from them can government survive or business prosper. They are the sole insurance to the safety of our children and the continuity of the Nation.

If it shall appear that while I have had the honor of the Presidency I have contributed the part required from this high office to bringing the republic through this dark night and if in my administration we shall see the break of dawn to a better day, I shall have done my part in the world. No man can have a greater honor than that.

I have but one desire; that is, to see my country again on the road to prosperity which shall be more sane and lasting through the lesson of experience, to see the principles and ideals of the American people perpetuated.

I rest the case of the Republican party on the intelligence and the just discernment of the American people. Should my countrymen again place upon me the responsibilities of this high office, I shall carry forward the work of reconstruction. I shall hope long before another four years have passed to see the world prosperous and at peace and every American home again in the sunshine of genuine progress and genuine prosperity. I shall seek to maintain unTarnished and unweakened those fundamental traditions and principles upon which our Nation was founded and upon which it has grown. I shall invite and welcome the help of every man and woman in the preservation of the United States for the happiness of its people. This is my pledge to the Nation and to Almighty God.

Highlights of the Address

I refuse to accept either of these destinies, on the one hand the return of the old saloon with its political and social corruption, or on the other to endure the bootlegger and the speakeasy with their abuses and crime. Either is intolerable. I shall continue to oppose raids upon the Federal Treasury.

I am squarely for a protective tariff.

But it is certain that these war debts must not be canceled or the burdens transferred to our people.

We stemmed the tide of collapse in Germany and the consequent ruin of its people, with its repercussion on all other nations of the world.

I have but one desire; that is, to see my country on the road to prosperity which shall be more sane and lasting through the lesson of experience, to see the principles and ideals of the American people perpetuated.

In the soil poisoned by speculation grew those ugly weeds of waste, exploitation and abuse of financial power.

We have given leadership in transforming the Kellogg-Briand pact from an inspiring outlawry of war to an organized instrument for peaceful settlement backed by definite mobilization of world public opinion against aggression. We shall, under the spirit of that pact, consult with other nations in times of emergency to promote world peace. Poisoned springs of political instability lay in the treaties which closed the war.

If it shall appear that while I have had the honor of the Presidency I have contributed the part required from this high office to bringing the Republic through this dark night and if in my administration we shall see the break of dawn to a better day, I shall have done my part in the world. No man can have a greater honor than that.

I rest the case of the Republican party on the intelligence and just discernment of the American people.

Kentucky Names Man Against Will

F. B. Russell Withdraws Too Late From Race for Congress Seat.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Frank B. Russell, Louisville, who withdrew from the Republican race for representative at large too late to have his name taken from the ballot, was nominated regardless.

He ousted former Representative J. Lincoln Newhall, Covington, from the list of nine Republican nominees, nearly complete returns from Saturday's primary showed tonight.

John Y. Brown, speaker of the Kentucky House of Representatives, won a place on the list of nine Democratic nominees and had a chance of moving into eighth and probably seventh place as Jefferson County's remaining 95 precincts were tabulated.

Senator Alben W. Barkley was almost 70,000 votes ahead of former Senator George B. Martin for the Democratic senatorial nomination. Barkley had 133,306 votes to Martin's 55,447. Republicans will select their senatorial nominee in a convention.

SANDERS TO LAUNCH CAMPAIGN AT ONCE

Will Save Heavy Guns for Later; Farley Confers Here With Leaders.

(Associated Press.)

The new Republican campaign machine was put on a working basis yesterday at a meeting of the national executive committee.

Everett Sanders, of Indiana, chairman of the national committee, after presiding over the session announced the party organization was ready to pitch in right after President Hoover's keynote address. An aggressive speaking campaign was determined upon.

Sanders said some speaking would begin right away, but that the heavy guns would not be fired until about the middle of September. Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, of West Virginia, director of the women's division, outlined an extensive campaign in her field.

Democrats Name Veteran.

The appointment of Ralph T. O'Neal, of Kansas, a former national commander of the American Legion, to head the veterans' bureau in the Democratic national committee was announced yesterday by Chairman James A. Farley.

Farley, here to confer with Democratic leaders, told newspapermen he thought O'Neal was en route to New York to take over his duties of swinging the votes of as many war veterans as possible into the Democratic column.

Questioned as to whether the rise in the stock market and commodity prices would not aid the Republican national ticket, Farley said that "what happens in Wall street does not help the eight to ten million people out of work and the business men who have suffered under existing conditions."

Confers With Leaders.

Farley said he conferred yesterday with Senators Swanson, of Virginia; Pittman, of Nevada; Daniel C. Roper, former internal revenue commissioner; Representative O'Connor, of New York; Joe Baker, clerk of the Democratic national congressional committee, and South Trimble, clerk of the House. Farley said so far no money had been solicited and that the only contribution received was $1,600 from Gov. Murray of Oklahoma.

With the exception of a few prominent speakers, he said, most of the speech-making would be done by the prominent Democratic leaders in their respective States.

Farley also disclosed that the campaign literature would be confined to about 12 pamphlets instead of the usual 100 different pieces of literature, and that one standardized picture of Gov. Roosevelt would be distributed.

HOOVER URGES DRY CHANGE

Bans Return of Saloon.

"It is my belief that in order to remedy present evils a change is necessary by which we reassume a proper share of initiative and responsibility, which the very essence of our Government demands shall rest upon the States and local authorities. That change must avoid the return of the saloon.

"It is my conviction that the nature of this change, and one upon which all reasonable people can find common ground, is that each State shall be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine, but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each State against interference and invasion by its neighbors and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other States."

Boldly accepting the challenge of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for a program of economic and social experimentation, the President reaffirmed his allegiance to the traditional principles of American individualism, and outlined in opposition the Republican program for enlightened economic nationalism combined with a policy of generous cooperation abroad.

"The solution of our many problems which arise from the shifting scene of national life is not to be found in haphazard experimentation or by revolution," he said. "It must be through organic development of our national life under these ideals. It must secure that cooperative action which builds initiative and strength outside of government."

Control of Trade Hit.

State-controlled economic and social systems he denounced vigorously as a form of tyranny inconsonant with American ideals of freedom.

A second echo of the historic fight against the dole and the handout in the last session of Congress was bared when the President traced the development of the recovery program presented last December.

Describes R. F. C. Aid.

"As the storm grew in intensity," the President said, "we created the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with a capital of two billions to uphold the credit structure of the Nation, and by thus raising the shield of Government credit we prevented the wholesale failure of banks, of insurance companies, of building and loan associations, of farm mortgage associations, of live-stock loan associations and of railroads—in all of which the public interest is paramount.

"Thus disaster has been averted through the saving of more than 5,000 institutions, and the knowledge that adequate assistance was available, tided others over the stress.

"This was done, not to save a few stockholders, but to save 25,000,000 of American families, every one of whose very savings and employment might have been wiped out and whose future would have been blighted had those institutions gone down."

Although he repeated his oft-proclaimed policy against cancellation of the war debts, Mr. Hoover expressed the belief that substantial armament reduction in Europe, or the promise of effective action toward the rehabilitation of world trade would warrant a reconsideration of the problem.

"But it is a certainty that these debts must not be canceled or transferred to our people," he said emphatically.

An unqualified pledge to consult other powers when the peace of the world is threatened by acts of international aggression was the high point of the President's discussion of foreign policy. He reiterated, indirectly, Secretary Stimson's recent warning to Japan that aggression in Manchuria can not bring results which will be recognized by the civilized world.

Stand on World Peace.

"We have given leadership in transforming the Kellogg-Briand pact from an inspiring outlawry of war to an organized instrument for peaceful settlements backed by definite mobilization of world public opinion against aggression," the President said. "We shall, under the spirit of that pact, consult with other nations in times of emergency to promote world peace. We shall enter no agreements committing us to any future course of action, or which call for the use of force to preserve peace."

Reading his text in a firm and easy monotone, the President exhibited unwonted signs of high emotional stress as he recounted the personal ordeal of piloting the Nation through the economic shoals.

"No man with a spark of humanity can sit in my place without suffering from the picture of their anxieties and hardships before him and day and night," he said in recalling the millions out of work and the homes haunted by fears for the future.

"I have understood their sufferings, and have worked to the limits of my strength to produce action that would really help them."

Pledges to Continue Efforts.

His conclusion was a reaffirmation of the principles and policies which have guided the reconstruction offensive thus far.

"I rest the case of the Republican party on the intelligence and just discernment of the American people.

"Should my countrymen again place upon me the responsibilities of this high office, I shall carry forward the work of reconstruction. I shall hope long before another four years have passed to see the world prosperous and at peace, and every American home again in the sunshine of genuine progress and genuine prosperity. I shall seek to maintain untarnished and unweakened those fundamental traditions and principles upon which our Nation was founded and upon which it has grown. I shall invite and welcome the help of every man and every woman in the preservation of the United States for the happiness of its people.

"This is my pledge to the Nation, and to Almighty God."

Sighting Error Blamed For Shells Hitting Tug

Fort McPherson, Ga., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—A 6-degree error in adjusting the sights of a 155-millimeter gun was assigned by a military board of inquiry as the cause of projectiles from the weapon striking a tug towing a target at Fort Moultrie, S. C., during National Guard maneuvers August 3.

How Editors Commented On Executive's Address

NEW YORK TIMES.

It is no disrespect to the President's speech of acceptance to say that the section about prohibition dwarfs the other parts. Upon it public attention and curiosity were focused in advance. Contradictory reports flew about in regard to what Mr. Hoover would say or omit to say. Now we have the final form in which he has delivered his soul on this irrepressible issue and made it evident that the events of the past four years have wrought a complete change in his convictions about the eighteenth amendment.

This he frankly admits. He confesses that the hopes he cherished in 1928 about making effective "the high purpose of the eighteenth amendment" have been frustrated. He concedes the impossibility of enforcing a law to which the majority sentiment in an increasing number of States and cities is opposed.

What course does he favor? The Republican prohibition plank contained ambiguities, but did leave in option to the voters. They could decide either for repeal or for sustaining and enforcing the amendment. But Mr Hoover has exercised his personal and official option.

The President naturally subscribes to all the cardinal Republican doctrines embodied in the party platform. Upon some of these debate is certain to be animated. This will be especially so with regard to what the President says about "the leadership of the Federal Government," which he asserts is "not to be confined to economic and international questions." But for the present it must suffice to say that the whole address is exceptionally well written and impressive, though the passage about prohibition will necessarily be taken as of overshadowing importance, witnessing as it does to Mr. Hoover's willingness to change his mind, for good reason shown, and to respond to the needs of the hour and the impatient demands of the great body of our citizens.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE.

In his speech of acceptance the President elected to stand before the American people and give a simple and straightforward account of his service. The result is a profoundly moving document. It has dramatic sweep and power by virtue of the march of great events recited—comparable, indeed, in their intensity and scope to those of the great war or our own Civil War. It reveals to an extraordinary degree the heart and mind of the President. We think there will be a general agreement that it was worth waiting for.

The one exception has been prohibition, and in this speech Mr. Hoover has gone far to meet his critics.

The speech breathes a welcome note of generosity toward his opponents in Congress who have cooperated in the adoption of his program. It is cast upon a high plane throughout. He has written not so much a political plea as a declaration of political faith. One would have to go back a number of years to find its equal.

BOSTON HERALD.

The President has declared himself whole heartedly against the eighteenth amendment in its present form, and this declaration is the all-important thing. The rest is but administrative detail. Without quibbling or evasion or straddling, he has gone much farther than the Republican platform makers, and as far as anybody could reasonably expect him to go. He advocates State control. He wants a new order of things, but he won't have the vicious old order. If the Nation were to hold a referendum tomorrow on the question of outright repeal or a new amendment giving all the advantages of repeal plus absolute protection against the saloon we think there would be an overwhelming majority in favor of the amendment.

BALTIMORE SUN.

The interesting feature of Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance is, of course, his treatment of the prohibition question. The disappearance of that mirage of a new economic era which he painted in 1928 is an old tale; so is the defense of his and his predecessor's policies, before and after the deluge. Treatment of that may wait until another day. His present position on prohibition is a fresh story, the public appetite for which has been whetted by news reports of his veering a little bit this way, a little bit that way. Now the great decision is made. Mr. Hoover gives the nets the soup, the tenderloin steak, the vegetables and the bread and butter, and he gives the drys the pretty cream puff. Putting aside all the rather verbose declarations of exalted purpose and exalted resolution, President Hoover's actual position today is very close to that taken four years ago by Alfred E. Smith.

KANSAS CITY STAR.

The President has made no abrupt change in his position. It has been a gradual development. He began his term in profound sympathy with the ideals of the eighteenth amendment, but recognizing evils that had to be corrected, he did his best as Chief Executive to give an honest and efficient administration of the liquor laws. Gradually he became convinced that efficient enforcement was not possible in localities where public sentiment was hostile. So he finally concluded that the practical solution was to give home rule to the States, while at the same time saving the immense advantage that had come with outlawing the saloon.

Has not moderate opinion come along the same road to the same conclusions? And is not his solution, rather than the one supported by Gov. Roosevelt, the practical one? The gains from the abolition of the saloon have been too great for the country to abandon. It probably would accept a substitute for the eighteenth amendment retaining these gains. It would not accept the Democratic proposal for straight repeal and risk the saloon's return.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER.

In spite of a gesture of consideration for the drys, President Hoover, in his acceptance speech goes further than his party in the direction of repeal. His position is nearer that of the Democratic than the Republican platform.

The President declares it his "belief that in order to remedy present evils, a change is necessary by which we resummon a proper share of initiative and responsibility which the very essence of our Government demands shall rest upon the States and local authorities."

This can mean but one thing: an end of the eighteenth amendment. The President thus advocates not only resubmission but repeal conditioned on the acceptance of a substitute plan that will "avoid the return of the saloon."

Mr. Hoover gives his dry friends a spanking, but insists that it hurts him more than it does them.

PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEDGER.

There was so much sound sense in Mr. Hoover's speech last night, accepting the Republican renomination for President, such a strong presentation of his personal and party policies, it is to be regretted that he did not compress it into one quarter or one tenth of the space, emphasizing and bringing the essential points to the fore, thus following the excellent example set by his political opponents with their platform. * * * Mr. Hoover has made clear the issue regarding prohibition between himself and his Democratic opponent. Both would return the responsibility to the States. But Mr. Hoover would protect the dry States and ban the saloon, with a constitutional amendment. The Democratic candidate would leave this to the States themselves. * * * As the campaign develops, it is expected that Mr. Hoover will make further statements of his policies in a limited number of speeches. But his address of acceptance leaves no room for doubt where he stands on the most vital issues before the country today.

Writers Deny Visit To Reds' Quarters

After White House Trip Went to Newspaper Club, Says Protestant.

(Associated Press.)

The five writers who Wednesday protested at the White House against the eviction of the bonus forces by the Army denied yesterday police reports that they had gone later to a Communist headquarters.

White House police who said Wednesday they had received such a report said after hearing of the denial that they were not certain the men who called at the White House were those later reported at a Communist headquarters here.

The writers included Sherwood Anderson, of Marion, Va., novelist; Waldo Frank, of New York; James Rorty, poet, of Westport, Conn.; William Jones, Negro editor, of Baltimore, and Elliot E. Cohen, of New York.

Cohen said they went to a newspaper club.

Defeated World Fliers Welcomed Back Home

Oklahoma City, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Jimmie Mattern and Bennett Griffin, who failed in a world flight attempt after setting a new speed mark for the Atlantic crossing, were greeted affectionately by their wives on their arrival here today.

"Gosh, honey, I'm glad to see you," said Jimmie.

"Darling!" was all Griffin could manage to say.

A huge crowd was at the municipal airport to welcome the fliers back from Russia. Both said they were "anxious to try it again."

Sweeping Victory Seen by Roosevelt

His Prediction Is Heard by Party Convention in West Virginia.

Bluefield, W. Va., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—A prediction by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee, that "Democracy will sweep triumphantly from Mississippi to the Pacific Coast" was read to the Democratic State convention in session here today.

"It may interest delegates to know," Roosevelt said, in a telegram to Herbert Fitzpatrick, West Virginia national committeeman, "that after an all-day series of conferences with leaders from all sections of the West, I have assurance Democracy will sweep triumphantly from Mississippi to the Pacific Coast.

"Coupled with this comes reports fully as encouraging from the East and South. I am sure West Virginia will add its electoral vote to the party's victorious total next fall."

Pay Cut Protested By Illinois Miners

Meanwhile, a State-wide movement to override the action of officials who pronounced the new rate effective last night when theft of referendum ballots halted the vote count took on added impetus.

Petitions were circulated through the southern Illinois coal field calling for a State convention to abrogate the new scale and local and regional protest meetings were called.

A huge mass meeting was planned for Sunday at Benld by the protesting group "for the purpose of taking such steps as are necessary to nullify the contract."

SNELL SEES HOOVER LEADER IN RECOVERY

The following is the text of the address of Representative Bertrand H. Snell, of New York, permanent chairman of the Republican national convention, formally notifying President Hoover of his renomination:

Mr. President: It is the pleasant duty of this committee to notify you that the Republican national convention on June 16, 1932, nominated you by acclamation to be the candidate of the Republican party for President of the United States for the term beginning March 4, 1933.

You were chosen President by the overwhelming vote of the people in November, 1928, in recognition of your preeminent public service, not only in behalf of your native land, but in behalf of all humanity during and after the World War.

There was no indication that your term of office would be marked by any great emergency that would test your powers and tax your strength, but the people, with that intuition which unerringly guides the Nation aright, decided that their destinies would be safest in your hands during the uncertain period of readjustment that inevitably follows every great war.

Disaster Shakes World.

With the suddenness of an earthquake the world was shaken by economic disaster. Upon you, sir, fell the responsibility of exerting all the powers of Government to protect this country.

Manifold calamities menaced the people.

Industry was not only paralyzed, but threatened with extinction.

Private credit disappeared

One foreign government after another became involved in difficulties which reacted upon the United States.

All your experience, all your knowledge, all your energy were called upon to ward off imminent disaster, and to devise and establish a program for lifting the country out of the depression that ravaged the world.

We recognize that it has been impossible for you to impart to the people all the details of the dangers that have confronted them.

In the thick of battle it is not the general's business to issue bulletins. It is his business to fight the enemy.

Has Confidence of People.

The greatest honor that has come to you, Mr. President, has been the steadfast confidence of the people during your administration. They chose you because they knew they could trust you; and when the trial came, you proved worthy of that trust.

Against all the seen and unseen powers of economic evil overspreading the world you have preserved the welfare of your country.

You averted industrial strife, riot and bloodshed which have marked every other depression.

You prevailed upon labor and capital to work hand in hand, in cooperation with the Government.

You mobilized private financial organizations so that they could save themselves.

You averted a financial panic that threatened Europe, and so kept it from our shores.

You devised and brought to execution a plan that relieved the drought-stricken regions without humiliating them with a dole.

Devised Broad Plans.

As the dreadful sweep of this universal depression pressed with unyielding force, you devised the broadest plans known to history for the protection and relief of our people.

At the opening of Congress last December you laid these plans before it, asking for the cooperation of all parties in translating that program into law, and from that day to this you have boldly amassed the resources of the Nation for the relief of need in every part of our land. Every recommendation you have made has been based solely on need, and no other thought or purpose has ever entered your program. During it all you have furnished a determined leadership that has commanded the admiration of the American people.

To the extent that opposing political parties extended this cooperation you gave generous credit.

You were patient, yet persistent in the difficult task of securing legislation from a querulous Congress, one part of which stood in political opposition to you.

Satisfied With Conduct.

The people have noted with satisfaction your enlightened method of dealing with Congress, whereby you obtained the necessary support of political adversaries, not for yourself, but for the welfare of our common country.

Your magnanimous acknowledgment of this support does you honor, while not obscuring the fact that your task was made infinitely difficult because of demagogic political opposition.

We congratulate you, Mr. President, upon your success in preventing the enactment of ill-advised and improvident legislation which would have alike burdened national recovery and imperiled national security.

To oppose this legislation offered by political adversaries, while obtaining from them the support necessary to effectuate your own plans, called forth both courage and tact. These qualities you have exercised unceasingly, to the great advantage of all citizens.

Recovery Plans Enacted.

Your plans for national rehabilitation have been translated into laws. You are engaged now in the great task of administering these laws.

Upon you, sir, depends the recovery of the United States.

We bring you a message of encouragement and support from the people.

The Republican party rejoices that it has furnished to the Nation the one man in this emergency who is preeminently qualified to lead, to serve, to save.

In the midst of your exacting duties we beg you to draw comfort and strength from the knowledge that the people who placed you in your exalted office sustain you now, and will sustain you to the end.

Your work is unfinished.

No one else can perform it.

Go forward, Mr. President, with the task which Providence has imposed upon you.

Cuban Plan Good-Will Flight.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 11 (U.P.).—Plans were completed today for a good-will flight by Capt. Torres Menier and Lieuts. Gustavo Alonson and Rodolfo Herrera, of the Cuban army, to Mexico City. The fliers will leave September 10.

BUSINESS LEADERS TO BE CALLED HERE

(Associated Press.)

High administration leaders last night disclosed that President Hoover—in line with his acceptance speech statement that he was "today organizing the private industrial and financial resources of the country" for a fresh drive—intended to call business men from all sections of the Nation to the White House soon.

Citing the section of the Chief Executive's address in which he envisioned united action enabling the country to move from "defense to powerful attack upon the depression," one official said Mr. Hoover referred to the nine-point program recently enunciated by him.

In that statement the President promised that when this program was advanced sufficiently he would call in groups of leading business men from each Federal Reserve district—organized into "business and industrial committees."

It was said Mr. Hoover's statement last night referred also to a move directed by Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, to assure banking credit for virtually all basic commodities. Under this plan powerful financial interests would assure loans to persons anxious to buy but afraid to have their money too far tied up.

The President himself gave hint of this when, in outlining his nine-point program recently, he said:

"We have also taken up the subject of organized coordination of the wider expansion of credit facilities to business and industry through business, the banks and the Federal Reserve Banks, particularly for the purpose of supplying full credit for production where consumption of goods is assured * * *."

West Virginians Cheer As Hoover Is Lauded

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Former Gov. E. P. Morrow of Kentucky told the Republican State convention tonight that "the common sense of America will register itself at the polls in November with an overwhelming majority for President Hoover."

Introduced by Walter S. Hallahan, of Charleston, who was made permanent chairman of the convention today, Mr. Morrow launched into a bitter attack on Gov. Roosevelt and the Democratic platform.

He was cheered wildly by the crowd that packed the State Fair Exposition Hall.

WALKER, AT HEARING DENIES ALL CHARGES

"any witness whose testimony he questioned as inaccurate."

And then, with abrupt and purposeful manner, the governor leaned over the bench and suggested that Walker take the oath.

In sequence, Gov. Roosevelt ordered Walker to "tell about" the Sisto $26,000 bond deal, and the Reliance Bronze & Steel Co.'s securities he is accused of holding.

Seabury's Accusation.

The accusation made by Samuel Seabury was that Walker had accepted an envelope containing $26,000 in bonds, from a messenger of J. A. Sisto & Co., and that this same Sisto was interested in certain taxicab legislation to limit the number of cabs operating n New York City.

The mayor, his first outburst against the proceedings over, launched into a circumstantial story of his connection with Sisto.

"I was invited to a banquet in Atlantic City by the Motion Pictures Producers Association," he said. "After the banquet we adjourned to a hotel room. Somebody said something about a pool in Cosden Oil, and somebody else suggested that they 'ought to put the mayor in.'"

His story continued smoothly—how he had asked how much it would cost and how he was told that it wouldn't cost anything because all the money already had been put up. And how surprised he was when he received an envelope containing the profits from the deal—his share of the profits.

Didn't Open Envolope.

The mayor didn't open the envelope, he said, and never knew that it contained any bonds for which he might later be questioned.

But it appeared that, as mayor of New York, he had accepted certain convertible bonds of the Reliance Bronze & Steel Co., a concern then selling decorative lighting standards to the City of New York.

The city arter expresaly forbids "any officer" of the city from owning any stock in such a concern.

Walker denied he knew the Reliance company was engaged in any business with the city. He denied any knowledge that the company had any relationship with Sisto, the good fairy of the Cosden Oil deal.

And then, the judge and jury—which are combined in Gov. Roosevelt—being rather tired, the hearing adjourned until 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Billy Sunday Foresees Reelection of Hoover

Staunton, Va., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—"Billy" Sunday, noted evangelist, on his way to address the Bible conference at Massanetta Springs stopped off here long enough today to predict that Herbert Hoover will be elected in November.

"The West," he said, "favors prohibition and Mr. Hoover. I believe the West will carry the election for him."

CHORUS GIRLS TO AID DEMOCRATIC TICKET

Farley Also Recruits Jean Harlow, Marion Davies and Others to Speak.

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—On the movie lots of Hollywood and under the bright lights of Broadway the Roosevelt-Garner managers are seeking talent to aid in Democracy's 1932 ballot drive.

Already, it was announced today, a number of actors, cinema folk, producers and chorus girls have volunteered their services.

Eddie Dowling, comedian, will be chairman of the stage and screen division of the Democratic national committee. No formal appointment has been made yet, but he already is at work.

Trio of Young Orators.

He also is one of a trio of young orators who will be sent to barnstorm New England for the Democratic ticket. The other two are "Jim" Roosevelt, son of the presidential nominee, and Gene Tunney, former prize fighter.

"It is vigorous young men of this type the people want to hear," said Robert Jackson, chairman of the speakers bureau.

All three speak French fluently and will deliver some of their addresses in that language to French-speaking residents of the New England States.

"Jim" Roosevelt opens his stumping tour in Williamstown, Mass., a week from tonight. Tunney starts in Maine on Labor Day. Dowling's itinerary has not been mapped out yet.

It was to Dowling the Democrats turned during the Chicago convention when the resolutions committee failed to report on the platform at the appointed time.

Kept Delegates Happy.

For several hours the comedian kept the delegates from growing restless, as he sang, introduced celebrities and turned the convention temporarily into a "show."

Associated with Dowling as chairman of the screen division is Wayne Pierson, a motion picture executive.

Pierson already has invited Marion Davies, movie star, to head the women's unit. Jean Harlow, he said, has accepted a place on the women's committee.

"Anchors Aweigh," the Navy song, will be the official campaign air, it was announced, but Dowling is going over more than 200 contributions from song writers in search of other tunes.

2,750 CLERKS LISTED FOR REEMPLOYMENT

duty be given equal status on reemployment rolls with those about to be released.

Secretary E. Claude Babcock yesterday sent circulars to each of the Federal departments announcing the new pooling of Federal personnel facilities.

Applications were inclosed for use of employes or former employes seeking entry. A feature of the application form is a question directing applicants to give a statement of their marital status. Under the economy law, persons married and living with husband or wife are the first dropped, and the last appointed, where one or the other already is employed in the Federal service.

The notice sent out to heads of departments yesterday read:

"The commission is establishing a furlough list to contain the names of persons, with a permanent classification status, as follows:

"(a) Employes to be furloughed for three months or more.

"(b) Employes to be dropped for reduction of force within three months.

"(c) Employes who have been furloughed for three months or more.

"(d) Employes who have been dropped for reduction of force within one year. (Removed from furlough list one year from date of separation if not sooner appointed.)

Other Provisions Outlined.

"Persons separated from the service by reduction of force will not be eligible for reemployment so long as there are names on the list of persons who are still in the service or on furlough. (Action by the President may eliminate this provision.)

"The furlough list will be used to fill both permanent and temporary positions.

"No reinstatement will be authorized or certification made from a current register from competitive examination for filling a vacancy in Washington or in the field service if there are persons on the furlough list available for the position.

"The furlough list will not interfere with individual transfers inaugurated by the departments, nor with the recall of furloughed employes to their former positions."

The flood of rulings on the economy act from Comptroller General J. R. McCarl's office slackened noticeably yesterday. One decision, far-reaching in its likely effect on employment in the public building group, was handed down, however. As a result, a large block of Federal projects will be exempted from the 10 per cent building appropriations cut ordered under the economy act.

McCarl Explains Ruling.

McCarl ruled that the restrictive section "will not be held to require reduction in appropriation heretofore made or authorized to be made when on June 30, 1932, the plans and specifications for a building had been completed and approved and a contract let for construction of the substructure thereof."

Reorganization of the Shipping Board, with three members replacing seven, was completed yesterday. Complying with economy act provisions, the President ordered the reduction in membership some time ago. Announcing the reorganization, Chairman O'Connor forecast early liquidation of the organization's vessel property, controlled by the board's Merchant Fleet Corporation.

Money Circulation Drops 21 Million

Spending Is Indicated in Federal Reserve Bank Statement.

(Associated Press.)

Indications that the Nation was beginning to spend money were seen yesterday in the weekly statement of the Federal Reserve Board, which showed that money in circulation had dropped $21,000,000 in the last week to $5,707,000,000.

The amount in circulation, however, is $817,000,000 more than a year ago, when it was estimated that nearly $1,000,000,000 was being hoarded. Last week's drop in circulation was accepted by officials as indicating money was coming out of hiding, going into channels of commerce, and eventually finding its way back into the Treasury.

The report also showed the country's stock of monetary gold had increased $18,000,000 during the last week bringing the total held by the United States to $4,005,000,000. The return flow has amounted to $73,000,000 since July 13, and is believed by officials to be one of the factors leading to a restoration of confidence.

STAND OF STIMSON LAUDED BY HERRIOT

Courage of Declaration on Briand-Kellogg Pact Is Commended.

Paris, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Secretary of State Stimson has not feared "to engage the whole American people" in recognition of the obligation to consult with other nations under the terms of the Briand-Kellogg peace pact when there is danger of war, Premier Edouard Herriot said today.

This assertion came in an interview with the press in which the premier discussed Mr. Stimson's address on the pact last Sunday in New York.

M. Herriot said he had studied the Stimson speech "with much interest, because the Briand-Kellogg pact is Franco-American work and since its conclusion European public opinion never has ceased to desire its development.

"The French government," he continued, "is consequently extremely attentive to and favorable toward anything that may enhance the authority of the pact.

"In Mr. Stimson's speech I recognized once more the sincerity with which the Secretary of State wants to give the pact entire efficacy by bringing about consultations if necessary. It is valuable for us to hear that in the mind of the American statesman the pact carries with it the necessity for such consultation. Under its high moral authority Mr. Stimson has not feared to engage the whole American people in recognition of such obligation.

"France firmly believes it is impossible in the interests of peace to leave the pact in the status of a mere declaration of good will."

Stimson Speech Protest By Japan Not Expected

Tokyo, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Japan probably will not send a formal protest or representations to Washington over Secretary Stimson's New York speech of last Monday, it was said in official quarters today following reports of Ambassador Debuchi's visit to Stimson in Washington yesterday.

It was expected, however, that Baron Uchida, foreign minister, would take an early occasion to reply in general terms to Stimson's implications regarding Japanese aggression in Manchuria. The occasion probably will be the opening of the diet session on August 22.

Pittsburgh Thugs Blamed for Killing

Slain Man Found on Street in Brooklyn Identified as Volpe Friend.

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Gang warfare in Pittsburgh was seen tonight as the answer to the riddle of a badly hacked body, wrapped in a burlap sack and tossed on a Brooklyn street.

The body, pierced by 20 stab wounds and with a rope still tied around the neck, was found Monday and identified today as that of John Bizzano, owner of the Pittsburgh coffee shop in which the three Volpe brothers were slain July 29.

Pittsburgh and Brooklyn police worked on several theories as they launched their investigation. One theory was that Bizzano was killed by the Volpe assassins, who feared identification. Another was that he was victim of Volpe's friends, who decided Bizzano "put them on the spot."

The Volpe brothers were known to frequent Bizzano's shop and there were reports here it had become headquarters of the Volpes, underworld leaders of Pittsburgh. Bizzano was found to have no police record.

McCormick Back Home From Olympic Games

Chicago, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Harold F. McCormick arrived in Chicago today from attending the Olympic games, but denied that he had hurried here to be at the bedside of his divorced wife, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. McCormick said he had been in California in connection with business interests of his brother, Stanley.

There was no further word from Mrs. McCormick's physicians or her relatives today. It has been announced that her recovery is "very doubtful," but that there is no immediate danger.

BOLIVIA MAINTAINS CHACO TRUCE STAND

Says Present Positions Must Be Kept If Fighting Is to Cease.

La Paz, Bolivia, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Bolivia replied to a note of the United States and other American nations today with a declaration that it would accept no suspension of hostilities with Paraguay unless the present positions in the Gran Chaco were maintained.

The neutrals' note had urged arbitration of the Chaco dispute between the two countries.

Congress has approved President Daniel Salamanca's international policies and instructed him to "solve the Chaco problem in conformity with the country's rights and dignity."

The neutral nations' acceptance of the Bolivian truce conditions was received favorably throughout the country.

(Associated Press.)

The Chaco neutrals and Bolivia appeared absorbed yesterday in a neutral proposal to Bolivia for a modus vivendi pending permanent settlement of Bolivia's dispute with Paraguay.

While the neutrals have not made public recent exchanges between themselves and Bolivia, observers said the early neutral proposal that Bolivia and Paraguay resume their positions as of June 1, pending the settlement, was a sticking point in the negotiations.

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 11 (U.P.).—An airplane shuttle service was started today between Rio de Janeiro and the rebel port of Santos to relieve Americans and other foreigners stranded there since the Sao Paulo revolt began, on July 9. A Pan-American-Grace Airways plane, chartered by the United States Embassy, flew to Santos with several Americans this morning and returned tonight carrying nine American citizens.

San Jose, Costa Rica, Aug. 11 (U.P.). — President Ricardo Jimenez signed a bill today authorizing the government to suspend until November 1, 1936, all interest and amortization payments on the 1926 American, 1911 British, and the Pacific Railway bond issues. The new law provides for issuance of 20-year bonds, bearing 5 per cent interest, to be issued in payment of coupons on the affected loans when they become due.

Buenos Aires, Aug. 11 (U.P.).—Argentina's export trade declined 330,115 tons and 10,196,707 gold pesos in value during the first seven months of 1932 as compared to the same period last year, it was announced today.

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 11 (U.P.).—Senorita Caridad Proenza, who sought asylum in the Mexican Embassy here last month after a bomb explosion at her home, will be given a passport to leave Cuba at any time she desires, Foreign Minister Orestes Ferrera informed the Mexican Ambassador today.

Santiago, Chile, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Capt. Alberto Barboza was appointed minister of the navy today, succeeding Admiral Francisco Nieto, who resigned.

Pay Raised 10 Per Cent By Southern Silk Mills

Winston-Salem, N. C., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—An increase from 10 to 12 per cent in wages of employes of the Southern Silk Mills was announced today by John G. Bently, general manager. The increase, effective this week, applies to 225 employes in plants at Kernersville and Greensboro.

Bently said the mills have orders which will keep them running day and night until October. A cut of 10 per cent in wages was made by the mills last January.

Engineer Out of Work Slashes Noted Painting

Paris, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Pierre Guillard, 31, an engineer who recently lost his job with a lighting company, slashed three times with a knife today at Millet's famous painting, "The Angelus," which hangs in the Louvre.

He did it, he said, to call attention to his plight. Authorities of the Louvre said restoration of the canvas would be comparatively easy, since there are only three cuts, one under the arm of the praying woman, one through the thigh of the peasant facing her, and the third a long slash between those figures.

King Made Clerk Of Fairfax Board

New School Official Has Been Resident of County for 12 Years.

James C. King, 21, of Chantilly, was named clerk to the Fairfax County School Board and secretary to Divisional Superintendent of Schools Wilbert T. Woodson, yesterday at a special meeting of the school board. Mr. King has been a resident of Fairfax County or the past twelve years, moving here with his parents from West Virginia. He attended local schools and the George Washington University and Strayer's Business School in Washington. He succeeds Mrs. Louise Trice who has held the position for the past three years and whose resignation becomes effective September 1.

The board lowered the age limit for pupils entering the first grade. According to the resolution adopted yesterday a child can enter the county schools if its sixth birthday comes prior to January 1 of the school year. These pupils will be accepted if they enter school on the first day of the school year and the school is not overcrowded in that grade. Previous to this year the age limit was seven years before entering school.

Most of the day's meeting was devoted to working out the school janitor's schedule and salaries and outlining school bus routes and naming bus drivers. The purchasing of three new school buses by the county was authorized and the contracts awarded.

CHINA VAINLY SEEKS SOLUTION TO CRISIS

Chiang Kai-Shek May Become Dictator, Observers Say.

Shanghai, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Every effort to solve China's cabinet crisis failed today and the government of the nation was at a standstill.

Wang Ching-Wei maintained he was determined to quit as president of the executive council despite appeals from Chiang Kai-Shek, the chief military leader, and Chang Hsiao-Liang, ousted Manchurian governor, that he remain at the helm.

There was no telling what would emerge from the crisis, but many commentators asserted Chiang Kai-Shek appeared to be drifting toward the role of Fascist dictator.

Close adherents of Chang Hsiao-Liang said he definitely had made up his mind to withdraw from the government and at the first opportunity he would go to the country to restore his health, which has been taxed by the political strains of the last few years.

Despite this, foreign observers, including the Japanese, doubted whether Chang would do more than resign such posts as the pacification commissionership in the Nanking government. They said he would retain personal control of his armies, which number 200,000 effectives.

U. S.-SOVIET TRADE PROGRESS REPORTED

Advance in Negotiations Is Signal for New Hope in Business Quarters.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The intensive program to restore Russo-American trade to something like its former $100,000,000 annual volume, which in recent weeks has made marked progress toward a better commercial and banking understanding, today kicked up a furore of new interest in Wall street.

Reports that the Soviet government would seek to finance American trade through the issuance and sale of 10 per cent bonds redeemable in gold on demand drew hundreds of inquiries to New York banks from American manufacturers who would stand to benefit from a resumption of freer commerce between the two nations.

Debt Talk Revived.

Bankers informed questioners, however, that the practicability of selling Soviet bonds here is still remote and said that an easier and more elastic method would have to be evolved before any immediate good could come of the campaign.

At the same time, it was learned on excellent authority that American financial interests have informed the Soviet that something should be done by Bolshevist Russia about recognizing the $75,000,000 debt contracted in 1916 by the imperial Russian government. These authorities have been advised by the Soviet that this matter is not an insurmountable obstacle.

Returning From Moscow.

W. W. Lancaster, of the law firm of Shearman & Sterling, which has its headquarters in the National City Bank Building, has just completed a trip to Moscow. He was said today to be on the way home. While no comment was obtainable at the local bank, it was stated authoritatively that Lancaster had gone to Russia to inquire about the chances of getting some repayment from the Russian Soviet.

The Soviet has pledged its willingness to consider this claim on condition that it also be permitted to bring forward some counter claims against American nationals before any binding agreement is reached. Present negotiations were understood today to have been left at that point.

Millions in Red Bonds Already Have Been Sold

Moscow, Aug. 11 (U.P.).—The Soviet Government will soon begin an organized campaign to attract foreign capital to the Soviet union on a straight investment basis.

The government plans to sell the latest internal loan to foreigners for foreign currency, guarenteeing payment of interest and redemption of the principal on the basis of the gold value of the ruble.

Arrangements already have been made for leading American and English and other banks to act as correspondents in such transactions. Unofficially, it was learned that many millions of dollars in bonds already have been sold to foreigners on this basis, without solicitation.

Hundreds of letters of inquiry are reaching the commissariat of finance department from other sources, influencing the government to organize its campaign on a larger scale.

CLARKE'S FRIENDS TELL OF NARCOTIC HABITS

in New Orleans by the same illness that he had before he was shot."

Mrs. Alma Throop, former restaurant owner, said Clarke ate frequently at her restaurant.

"Did he seem depressed?" asked Defense Attorney James M. Carson.

"I never saw him when he wasn't," she replied.

Richard Richardson, a Miami writer, said he twice heard Clarke discuss suicide, once about a year ago and again at the Keith-Miller home three weeks before his death.

Defense Counsel Carson said he will call to the stand tomorrow the physicians who conducted the autopsy on Clarke's body in an effort to show that he took his own life.

Albert H. Hamilton, ballistics expert, of Auburn, N. Y., also may take the stand tomorrow, Carson said.

Arrangements for the jury and the defendant to view the scene of the fatal shooting, probably some time tomorrow, were completed today.

IMPERIAL PARLEY NEARING SUCCESS

Dominions Trade Pacts Expected Next Thursday; Accord Looms.

Ottawa, Ontario, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Assurance that the imperial economic conference would be a success was given today with an expectation that agreements would be ready for a plenary session of the conference next Thursday, said the Canadian press.

The agreements would provide for increased preferences for products of the dominions in the markets of the United Kingdom, the news agency announced. There were understood to be no difficulties between the delegations which could not be composed.

Negotiations Had Reached Deadlock.

Negotiations between British and Australian delegates to the conference previously had reached a deadlock which indicated that they might have an effect on the agreements that are being sought between Britain and other dominions.

The Australians asked the mother country for a meat preference in the British market of 3 to 4 cents. Britain made a counter-offer of three-quarters of a cent with a stipulation that Australia grant a preference on British textiles. There the negotiations deadlocked.

Canada also has requested a meat preference from Britain, and Prime Minister R. B. Bennett had indicated that the Ottawa government is not prepared to lower textile duties materially.

Two Interpretations Given.

Two interpretations are being placed on Britain's insistence that Australia cut the tariffs on textiles. One is that a similar proposal will be made to Canada. The other is that Great Britain will seek markets for textiles in Australia, where the domestic industry is not as well developed as in Canada, and will concentrate on iron and steel and other products in treating with the Canadians.

British and Canadian experts appeared to have cleared away one difficulty that stood in the path of a trade agreement. Controversy had arisen over Mr. Bennett's estimates of the size of the Canadian market available to the British.

The trouble was that the Canadians were using 1931 trade figures and the British were using statistics covering 1932, in which there has been a material decline. Real progress was reported in the negotiations.

LIEUT. CLARKE DIES; AIR EXPERT OF NAVY

Throat Infection Fatal to Erstwhile Commander of Los Angeles.

Vallejo, Calif., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—One of the United States Navy's most experienced dirigible officers, Lieut. Comdr. Vincent A. Clarke, 41, died of a throat infection at the Mare Island Naval Hospital last night.

Clarke had been attached to the new naval dirigible base at Sunnyvale, Calif., as mooring officer. In that capacity he directed the moorings of the dirigible Akron when that monarch of the air made its base at Sunnyvale on its visit to the Pacific Coast last spring.

Clarke went to a Palo Alto, Calif., hospital August 4 for treatment of a peritonsillar abscess of the throat. When it continued to spread, Clarke asked to be removed to the Mare Island Hospital and this was done Sunday.

The naval officer was commander of the naval dirigible Los Angeles from May, 1930, to May, 1931. In that period he directed maneuvers of the airship in operations of the United States battle fleet at Panama.

He is survived by a daughter, Dorothy Clarke.

Dr. E. P. Bledsoe Dies in Baltimore

Maryland State Hospital Head Was Indicted in Little Rock, Ark.

Baltimore, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Dr. Edwin P. Bledsoe, superintendent of the Maryland State Hospital at Sykesville, who formerly was connected with State institutions in Virginia and Arkansas, died here today. A malady of the stomach was given as the cause of his death.

He was indicted in Little Rock, Ark., in 1930 for alleged embezzlement of funds from the United States Hospital and brought to trial last year. Although denying moral responsibility for the shortage, he agreed to pay the Government $6,635 over a period of two years.

Born in Staunton, Va., Dr. Bledsoe took a position with the Central State Hospital in Petersburg, Va., soon after graduation from Medical College in Baltimore. Later he became superintendent of the Arkansas State Hospital in Little Rock. After the World War he took a place with the Government hospital in Little Rock. He was a graduate of Washington and Lee University.

INDUSTRIES RECALL MORE MEN TO WORK

Illinois Coal Mines Opened; Pennsylvania Railroad Gives Jobs to 2,000.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Illinois Coal Mines, idle for four months during wage negotiations, began to open today under a $5 basic scale. Mine owners predicted 150,000 men soon will be working for mines and railroads as a result.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The Pennsylvania Railroad announced 2,000 employes formerly on furlough were returned to work during July under a plan to distribute all available employment.

Money may be scarce, but the people still are buying yachts. An announcement that the number of pleasure vessels increased 9 per cent this year was made yesterday by the Bureau of Navigation.

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—A prediction that its carloading requirements for the last half of August will be 15 to 18 per cent greater than for the first half was made by the New York Central Railroad.

Chicago, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers Association, said today a survey of the State showed "a better sentiment and business and evidence for a tangible improvement in the immediate future."

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The State of Maryland has sold $3,000,000 in bonds at $5.60 above par for each $100 bond to a Baltimore bank.

Chicago, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The Association of Commerce estimated 7,000 retailers purchased $5,000,000 worth of goods at the Interstate Merchants' Council.

Livingston, Mont., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Forty men, previously working a few days a month, started on a five-day week basis in the Northern Pacific Railroad car shops.

R. F. C. Appoints Engineer's Board

Study of Self-Liquidating Projects Is Planned by Group.

(Associated Press.)

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday began working on the question of financing self-liquidating projects authorized under the relief act.

In an effort to give thorough study to the projects the directors announced the appointment of an engineers' advisory board to make investigations and report to the corporation its recommendations.

Dr. Charles David Marx, of Stanford University, California, was named chairman. Other members are John F. Coleman, of the John F. Coleman Engineering Co., New Orleans; John Lyle Harrington, a consulting engineer of Kansas City, Mo.; John Herbert Gregory, professor of civil and sanitary engineering at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, Chief of Engineers of the United States Army.

Virginia Revokes Bus Line License

Alexandria-Washington Co. Cited in Failure to Pay Taxes Due.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The State corporation commission today revoked the certificate under which Alexandria-Washington Lines, Inc., was authorized to operate interstate passenger service between Alexandria and Washington.

Reasons given were "failure to file reports as required and to pay the taxes due the Commonwealth of Virginia in connection with said certificate of authority."

The commission was informed that the corporation had discontinued service, and it was reported that the corporation had withdrawn its appeal from a recent decision of the commission levying a fine for doing intrastate business in violation of terms of its certificate.

Mrs. Street Refuses To Aid Charity 'Racket'

A new candidate for "is my face red" honors stepped into the local arena yesterday. She is the lady who rang the doorbell at the home of Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, yesterday afternoon and attempted to sell Mrs. Street a chance on a raffle being conducted to "help out a woman in dire necessity."

To Mrs. Street's astonishment, the woman who said she was a Mrs. R. Johnson, used a denunciation of the Community Chest as her chief sales argument. The woman in need, she told Mrs. Street, was a "Mrs. Nina Crim, of the 2200 block of N street northwest."

Investigation was begun at once by the Community Chest. It was learned that an address on Upshur street northwest, near Seventh, was not the home of Mrs. Johnson, nor was she known there. No Mrs. Crim could be located in the 2200 block of N street.

Island Leader Denies Fear of Independence

(Associated Press.)

Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate and independence leader, cabled the island commission here yesterday a denial he ever had expressed a fear of "serious economic troubles if independence is granted."

Saying he wanted to correct "misstatements" in the United States regarding his attitude, Quezon declared independence bills pending in the American Congress "give sufficient time for economic readjustment, and we feel confident we shall be able to adjust ourselves to new conditions when independence is granted."

Ford Dearborn Plant Suspends for 3 Weeks

Detroit, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The Ford Motor Co. announced today that operations in the Dearborn plant and offices will be suspended at midnight tonight, to be resumed on September 6, the day after Labor Day.

A few thousand men will be kept at work during the "vacation period," the announcement said. All of the 35 American branches of the company will continue in production on a three or four day week schedule during the period.

tered, Deputy Jiminez demanded the death penalty for Gen. Sanjurjo.

Numerous buildings were burned by the Seville mobs while the police continued to make wholesale arrests in "mopping up" operations against the revolutionaries and while the rest of Spain gave itself over to public celebrations of the young republic's hardihood in its first great test.

Four persons were critically wounded in a battle between soldiers and a mob attempting to burn the office of the newspaper La Union. The police prevented the attempt to burn the newspaper building and a number of others after a meeting in the building at which leaders urged the crowd to return to work tomorrow.

The torch was applied, however, to the office of the newspaper A. B. C., the Church of San Idlefonso, the famous aristocratic club, La Sanbrera, the Agricultural Club, the Commercial Club and the Mercantile Club.

VIRGINIA DELEGATE DROWNS IN CISTERN

J. S. Denny, State House Member, Is Found Dead Near White Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Joseph S. Denny, 61, a member of the Virginia House of Delegates, was found drowned in a cistern on his farm near White Post late today. The coroner's verdict was accidental death.

He had been absent since before lunch when he said he was unwell and preferred not to eat. He had been troubled with a nervous disorder for several years.

The removal of boards from the cistern floor led to the discovery of his body after relatives and friends had searched the countryside.

Mr. Denny, who served a term in the State Senate, later was elected to the House of Delegates in which he served two terms.

His widow, four children and one brother survive.

Home Loan Bank Move Encourages Richmond

(Associated Press.)

Forces gathering behind the move to get a home loan bank for Richmond, Va., received the encouraging word yesterday from the bank board chairman that Federal Reserve Bank cities were not outside the pale as loan bank seats.

The chairman, Franklin W. Fort, of New Jersey, made this announcement at his press conference shortly before he received Richmond's bid from Senator Swanson. A Federal Reserve Bank is located at Richmond.

Treasurer's Trial Is Opened in Bath

Deputy State Auditor Says Under Oath He Found Funds Short.

Warm Springs, Va., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—L. McCarthy Downes, deputy State auditor, testified today that numerous discrepancies had been found in the accounts of George Venable, former Bath County treasurer, who is charged with a $94,708.03 shortage in his accounts.

His testimony consumed the greater part of the afternoon session and court adjourned with an array of witnesses yet to be heard.

Downes, who told of the discovery of the alleged shortage, went into detail in regard to purported charges in the ledger of the now defunct Bank of Warm Springs, of which Venable was president.

The trial proceeded more briskly than had been anticipated.

Coal Selling Pool Trial Nearing End

Verdict Regarding 135 Mine Operators in South Will Be Delayed.

Asheville, N. C., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Arguments of counsel tomorrow will complete the Government's antitrust suit against Appalachian Coals, Inc., and 136 coal operators of the Southern high volatile field of Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee.

The defense rested this afternoon and the Government did not offer any rebuttal testimony. Upon agreement of the court and counsel, arguments of counsel were postponed until tomorrow.

John Lord O'Brian, the assistant to the Attorney General, will open and close for the Government. Defense speeches will be made by Col. William J. Donovan, New York, and Edgar Greever, of Tazewell, Va.

W. C. T. U. PLANS TO OPPOSE STATE LIQUOR OPTION MOVE

work out a solution that will be effective which will make this country part wet and dry. The proposed plan will be opposed by the dry forces every step of the way."

Chicago, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—D. Leigh Colvin, chairman of the Prohibition party's national committee, tonight attacked the liquor control plan advocated in President Hoover's acceptance speech, asserting "no opponent of liquor can support such an amazing proposal by voting for Mr. Hoover."

In a statement, Mr. Colvin said:

"The change which Mr. Hoover advocates would wipe out national prohibition. It would destroy the present barriers which prevent States from legalizing liquor traffic for the sake of revenue. It would establish States' rights in the Constitution. It would provide an incentive for liquor traffic to reorgaize and pour out millions to corrupt the States, one by one.

"Breweries and distilleries would again dominate politics. They would carry on widespread advertising campaigns.

"Liquor, widely-distributed to the homes of the country, would be worse than having it consumed in saloons.

"No opponent of liquor can support such an amazing proposal by voting for Mr. Hoover."

(Associated Press.)

Leaders of dry and wet organizations in Washington declined last night to comment on President Hoover's pronouncement in favor of a change in prohibition.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, secretary of the National Board of Prohibition Strategy, said he did not feel warranted in "expressing a hurried opinion," but would make a statement later.

Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment, said he probably would issue a statement tonight.

Deets Pickett, research secretary of thte Methodist Board of Prohibition, Temperance and Public Morals, said he might have something to say next week.

Dry Leaders Absent.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., Dr. Clarence True Wilson, Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington and Dr. F. Scott McBride, all prominent in the dry cause, were out of town. Bishop Cannon is in Geneva, Switzerland.

Rufus Lusk, of the Crusaders, an organization opposed to prohibition, said there would be a meeting of the leaders of his group today in Cleveland, and probably a statement would be drawn up then.

Dr. Dinwiddie said in due course a meeting of his board "may be held, but that will probably be subject to the decision of the executive committee, which meets early in September, unless circumstances should warrant a previous call by the chairman and officers of the board."

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, was among the first to hail the address, but he made no reference to prohibition.

"The President who now serves the country and will continue to serve the country for four years more is a constitutional President," Moses said. "His speech of acceptance shows that he is seeking no expedients which have no fundamental basis. • • • His enumerated promises • • • are complete, convincing and conclusive and can not fail to win for him the renewed confidence of his countrymen."

Senator Fess, of Ohio, a leader in the prohibition movement, gave his full indorsement to the Hoover speech and the prohibition reform proposal.

"It was a great state paper covering every problem with a proposal for a sane solution, including prohibition," Fess said. "It will grip the American people as few utterances of public leaders."

Mellon's Comment.

Ambassador Mellon said:

"I think it was a masterful treatment of all subjects. It was clear and left no uncertainty."

Charles D. Hilles, New York, Republican committeeman:

"I think it a great state paper."

Senator Smoot, of Utah, another prohibition stalwart:

"The whole statement was right to the point. It was just what was needed for America. That goes for prohibition and all."

Frank Hitchcock, of Arizona, former Republican national chairman: "It was fine and constructive. We all are very much pleased."

Wet Organizations Pleased.

The Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction League, Inc., which is opposed to national prohibition, announced itself "very much pleased" at the President's expression on prohibition.

In a statement, Dr. F. W. Buck, executive secretary, said of the President:

"He has come around at last to accept what we have been advocating for the last nine years.

"He seems to understand perfectly that no amendment can be ratified that does not protect against the saloon and fully protect the States which wish to remain dry and at the same time eliminate politics from the issue.

"We are satisfied that any resolution passing Congress that didn't include these three protective points couldn't be ratified by the required 36 States.

"Any resolution that couldn't be ratified would delay solution of this problem at least ten years."

MR. HOOVER'S SPEECH.

President Hoover's speech accepting nomination for a second term is a survey of the national economic emergency, the program of the Government in "defense and counterattack," an epitome of his stand on national policies, a statement in some detail of his position on the liquor question, and an outline of the course he will pursue if reelected.

An address covering such an enormous field and dealing with so many economic defense measures is necessarily closely packed and condensed. Some matters which Mr. Hoover has briefly touched upon must be discussed in more detail during the campaign.

The President gives the country a clearer appreciation of the two unprecedented emergencies which smote the country and which forced him to devise bold and novel means of averting disaster and then enabling the country to recover from the shock. The first stage of the battle has been won, and the second is in progress. These combined plans are described by Mr. Hoover as "the most gigantic program of economic defense and counterattack ever evolved in the history of the Republic."

How to devise this program for exerting national energies in untried ways, and still remain within the spirit and framework of the American system, was a problem which the President feels has been successfully solved. "The American Government in its ideals is the same," he says, "as it was when the people gave the Presidency into my trust."

A recapitulation of the economic measures mentioned by the President would be substantially a review of the labors of the Executive and Congress during the last two or three years. The acceptance speech affords an excellent opportunity to every citizen to gain a clear idea of what has been done in actual trial by one of the candidates for the Presidency; how he has done it; what remains to be done, and how he proposes to do it. Naturally, Mr. Hoover's address covers more detail than could be expected from one who has not been a pilot in the midst of the storm. How he has navigated the Ship of State and how he proposes to continue the voyage are matters that are properly the central subjects of campaign discussion.

Only a few words could be devoted by the President to foreign policies, but they are weighty words. He announces worldwide acceptance of his new doctrine which refuses to recognize title to possession of territory gained in violation of peace pledges. The test of the efficacy of this doctrine, which amounts to a new rule of international law, is about to be made in the case of the Japanese adventure in Manchuria.

On the ticklish question of prohibition Mr. Hoover speaks in detail, without any apparent reserve. Instead of outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment he would have a substitute for the existing regime. He opposes the reestablishment of the saloon in any circumstances. He favors submission of the question to the States, so that the people may determine whether they desire a change, but he insists that this submission shall propose "a constructive and not a destructive change." He would have the States assume greater responsibility, with the right to deal with the problem as they may determine, "but subject to absolute guarantees in the Constitution of the United States to protect each State from interference and invasion by its neighbors, and that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system."

The Democratic platform is criticized by Mr. Hoover because it pledges members of the party to destroy every vestige of Federal control of the liquor traffic. "That means over large areas the return of the saloon system," he declares.

Thus the issue between the two parties on the liquor question is more sharply defined. The President suggests that "our objective must be a sane solution, not a blind leap back to old evils." The Democratic national convention by an overwhelming vote adopted the objective of outright repeal and, pending repeal, immediate manufacture of beer as strong as the eighteenth amendment will allow.

In spite of the urgency of economic questions, the campaign evidently will develop a great controversy over the liquor question. Whether or not Mr. Hoover's stand will command the support of extreme wets and drys in the Republican party remains to be determined. Certainly it will not draw support from extreme wets belonging to the opposition.

The Republican party has a traditional sense of solidarity in times of stress. It possesses control of a large part of the Government. The President's platform as expounded in his speech of acceptance doubtless will be approved by the party, and will be cited during the campaign as a record of great achievement in meeting an unparalleled situation. Democrats can not very effectively challenge the President's program, since they joined with him in enacting the laws that are carrying the program into effect. They can, however, appeal to the strong sentiment for outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment and the immediate manufacture of beer.

Gov. Roosevelt's more detailed ideas in regard to solution of the country's economic difficulties will be awaited with increased interest, now that these ideas can be compared with Mr. Hoover's program.

A SOVIET BOND ISSUE.

The recent campaign for recognition of Soviet Russia is fully explained by the reports from New York that the Soviet is planning to sell bonds to the American public to finance its industrial development. Moscow officials undoubtedly have a suspicion that their bonds would go begging in the United States unless the Government at Washington can be influenced to bestow its blessings upon the communistic dictatorship. Hence, friends of the Soviet have been extremely busy trying to show that the State Department is relenting in its attitude toward the reds.

The naivete with which this scheme is put forth is astonishing. American citizens have lost billions of dollars in the last few years by subscribing to foreign bonds. With that memory fresh in mind, how could they be expected to purchase the obligations of a government which the United States does not even recognize? Banks and private individuals in this country now hold $86,000,000 in Russian government bonds that will never be paid. The Soviet government, which now proposes to victimize the American investing public, owes taxpayers of this country $187,500,000 for funds advanced to the Kerensky government. This debt also has been repudiated.

What is the bait which the Soviet holds out to obscure this record of repudiation? An increase in trade for a few American corporations! It is argued that if the Soviet is able to obtain capital from gullible investors, it will be able to resume purchases of agricultural machinery, electrical equipment and automobiles from the United States. Hence the manufacturers of these products are enthusiastic about the project. If they see prospects of expanding their business, they are quite willing to make American investors the goats.

The United States has already had sufficient experience in trading with the Soviet to be chary of any scheme for extending business on credit. In recent years the Soviet has purchased quantities of equipment on credit in the hope of developing great Russian industries that would put the rest of the world out of business. But most of its factories are severely handicapped by inefficiency, lack of experience and political mismanagement. Consequently, the Soviet found it necessary to dump upon the markets of the world foodstuffs and raw materials sorely needed by the Russian people to pay for its extravagant imports. Russian workers were compelled to live on black bread and cabbage soup and producers in other parts of the world, including American farmers, were menaced by a most vicious price-cutting campaign, because the Soviet machine insisted on purchasing equipment that it could not afford.

American business men will not extend further credits to the Soviet. Therefore the American public will be asked to make its contribution to another Soviet dumping orgy. If money is obtained at 10 per cent interest, payable on demand, a dumping spree will be the only alternative to repudiation. It is unthinkable that the American public will join in such a movement, even though international bankers in New York may have the effrontery to sponsor it.

GERMANY PREPARES.

Germany is writing important history. Adolf Hitler's approach to the chancellorship may signalize the end of the republic, the beginning of a new regime in Germany, and great changes in Europe. The Reich is undergoing a semi-peaceful revolution. No one can foresee the outcome at this time, but it seems probable that the trend toward dictatorship will continue.

As leader of the largest party in Germany, Adolf Hitler demands that the reins of government be turned over to him. There seems to be no possibility that his demands will be fully complied with. President von Hindenburg may offer him the chancellorship in a coalition government, with the understanding that the Weimar constitution must be upheld and that the moderate elements shall continue to hold a check upon the Nazis. Whether Hitler will consent to a compromise of this kind is uncertain.

If Hitler were a more powerful leader he would undoubtedly control the situation. Germany seems determined to throw off the obligations she undertook at Versailles and to build a new empire, in fact if not in name. Yet the people seem unwilling to trust the Nazi leader with dictatorial power.

Apparently President von Hindenburg and his non-partisan cabinet are trying to "absorb" Herr Hitler. If the Nazi leader compromises and shares responsibility for the administration of the Reich in this difficult time, his appeal to the imagination of the electorate will be weakened. Within cabinet circles Hitler would probably be dominated, or at least held in check by Gen. von Schleicher, who is credited with being the power behind the present administration.

Hope of avoiding a semi-militaristic dictatorship seems to have passed. The government is now engaged in an attempt to direct the movement and to control it. Even if the rise of Hitler to power should be checked, the movement to centralize power in a strong government will probably go on. Germany is apparently on the verge of a new era in which post-war restraints will be thrown off and a determined effort made to scrap the Treaty of Versailles.

SPAIN'S BRIEF REVOLT.

It is evident that Spain is not as ready to join a revolution as Gen. Jose Sanjurjo imagined. The monarchist uprising, led by the former chief of King Alfonso's civil guard, failed absolutely in Madrid, and the occupation of Seville by rebel forces lasted barely one day. With the rapid concentration of loyalist troops, and the failure of surrounding provinces to lend anticipated support, Gen. Sanjurjo quickly realized the abortive nature of his revolt and sought safety in flight, only to be arrested in company with his chief aides.

While it was avowed that the intention of the uprising was to enthrone the third son of Alfonso, Prince Juan Carlos, at present a cadet in the British navy, there is no tangible evidence that Alfonso, who is hunting in Czechoslovakia, was in any way associated with the movement. It came as a surprise to many that the first outbreak against the republic should come from the monarchists. The agrarian unrest, fanned by Communist agitators, has been more noisy of late than the monarchical party. It is highly significant that the labor organizations promptly came to the support of the government.

Considering the bitterness of the long debates in the Cortes over the agrarian question and Catalonia's demand for autonomous government, it is considered remarkable by many that the new republic was able to weather a year of existence before encountering a serious disturbance. Premier Azana's desire to postpone the troublesome land question has aroused the fierce resentment of agrarian leaders, who were elected upon the issue of immediate division of the great estates.

That the republic has been able to suppress so promptly an incipient rebellion against its authority speaks well for its organization and the loyalty of the great majority of the army.

SENATORS NOT VOTING

From the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

When the roll is called in the Senate, a member of that body may be recorded any one of several ways. The entry may be yea or nay, paired for or paired against, announced for or announced against, or it may be "unrecorded." A review of the record of the members of the Senate on the twenty outstanding roll calls of the last session reveals the fact that less than one-fourth of that body took a definite stand on each question.

Some senators were so lax in failing to indicate their views that it must be charged against them that they were habitual in the practice. There is no excuse for such records of those of Morrison, of North Carolina, and Long, of Louisiana, who each went unrecorded thirteen times, almost as many times as Senator Swanson, of Virginia, who was in Geneva during the greater part of the session.

The people of Illinois in particular have something to learn from the survey. Senator Glenn, of that State, took no stand on ten of the twenty leading questions, and his colleague, James Hamilton Lewis, took no stand on seven. Thereby the voters of Illinois, the third largest State in the Union, received less representation on the issues before the Senate than the voters of any other State. Gore, of Oklahoma, and Stephens, of Mississippi, were unrecorded nine of the twenty times and Hastings, of Delaware, and Black, of Alabama, six times. Those who failed to take a stand on five of the issues were Fess, of Ohio; Dickinson, of Iowa; Robinson, of Indiana; Smith, of South Carolina; Shipstead, of Minnesota; Broussard, of Louisiana, and Pittman, of Nevada. Besides, these, 15 senators went unrecorded three times, 10 went unrecorded twice and 26 went unrecorded once.

As may be expected, Senator Norris let the people of Nebraska know where he stood on every question, and he did by voting, yea or nay, and not by being paired or "announced" for or against. Other senators who were recorded on each of the twenty issues included Costigan, of Colorado; Vandenberg, of Michigan; Moses, of New Hampshire; Sheppard, of Texas; Reed, of Pennsylvania; Nye and Frazier, of North Dakota; Capper and McGill, of Kansas, and White and Hale, of Maine. The three last named States are the only ones which know how their senators stood on each issue.

Manifestly, the least that a senator can do is to let his constituents know by his votes how he stands on questions. If he is unavoidably absent when a vote is taken, he should announce his position, as some diligently do. If he takes no stand, the voters have no means of judging him, other than that he is wanting in the ability to make decisions or the necessary forthrightness, or both.

That alone disqualifies him for service as a representative under our plan of popular government.

POST HASTE

TRINITY CHURCHYARD,
NEW YORK CITY, August 10.

Arrived too late to write that elegy here in the old Trinity graveyard on the Deserted Village that was Wall Street. Not long ago the circumambient atmosphere gave the impression that the confines of this sepulchral ground had been extended clear down to the East River to provide space for the interment of forlorn hopes.

Came June and downtown Manhattan was so lonesome that you could occasionally get a seat in the subway, and when that happens New Yorkers are sad indeed. But what has happened? The underground is jammed with the same old good-natured milling crowd, happy even to the last one in the door with the guard's knee in his back, or hers. The subway's a great place for equal rights.

Of course, they haven't all got their jobs back yet, but some have and the others are hopeful. When the tickers strike a 5,000,000-share stride the gloom clouds lift from the financial district. New York has been a long time realizing that the incipient signs that Old Man Depression is reaching for his hat were real, but when the metrop woke up to the fact, Father Knickerbocker was for buying him a new one if necessary to hasten his departure.

Feeling somewhat humiliated over tardy recognition of the situation he seems a bit inclined now to overdo things, which gives the croaker who knew the market would never come back the chance to set up a howl that it's going too fast and can't last. No sane person expects or desires to see this bull market continue without reactions, but it won't hurt to get some of those stocks back to where their price is equal to the corporation's cash assets.

The funniest thing in New York this week was the solemn pronouncement, from a meeting of Democratic leaders with Chairman Farley, to the effect that the present business spurt is due to the general feeling that Gov. Roosevelt is going to be the next President.

Just what has caused this expression of confidence by New York, in the only language it knows? An active, rising stock market here means the same thing as industrial activity in New England, better prices for cotton in the South, and higher commodity prices everywhere. It displays the same spirit of faith in the country that is evident in Kansas City and Los Angeles.

The average man will give you only three guesses as to whether this returning confidence is caused by promises from Albany and Uvalde of a series of experiments in governmental economics and finance, or whether it is due to tangible evidences of improved conditions that are the result of sound measures in the program inaugurated through the demands of the present administration.

The Democrats most entitled to a share of credit for dispelling the depressing fear which stifled the Nation are those who helped Republicans kill the wild measures that were sponsored by Democrats in Congress.

If the bull market is just a Republican trick the supporting company is not confined to professionals. The buying public is demanding admission, not only at home, but from abroad. Naturally, don't be surprised if, after this Olympic sprint, Wall Street rests while industry and commerce see what they can do.

PAUL HUDSON.

Way to Overcome an Unconquerable Enemy Is to Work With Him as an Ally

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE is a way to solve the world's problems.

It is a simple, practical and obvious way.

It is the only possible way, and it never has failed to work, yet men in conflict are so blinded by the lust to conquer that they never think of it until they are bled white.

The way is a state of mind.

Wherever two living creatures dwell there is conflict of interests.

And where there is conflict of interests there are but two possible solutions of the problem.

The life the deer would preserve is coveted by the tiger. The conflict of interests is terminated by the strong destroying the weak.

The other method is adopted by the wolf pack. Seven wolves desire the flesh of a buck deer. Their conflicting interests might justify a fight from which the strongest alone would emerge alive. Yet they cooperate in the chase and share their kill.

When men or factions or nations are in conflict, there are but two ways to establish peace.

The strong must conquer and subject the weak, or they must work together in a spirit of cooperation.

The spirit of cooperation is the one hope of a world exhausted by conflict.

A great nation can overcome a small one and establish lasting peace despite conflict of interests by demonstrating that further struggle is useless.

But no great nation can hold another subject. The cost would be greater than the profit. Leaders may demand and promise, but a race of millions can not be forced to do anything against its will.

Japan's armies can "defeat" China, but the helpless Chinese can destroy Japan by refusing to buy Japanese goods.

The world has become an economic unit. To kill an "enemy" is to kill a good customer. To shut out an alien's goods is to destroy a market for your own.

Statesmen are bankrupting the world. Purge them of their short-sighted selfishness and their lust for triumph and the spirit of cooperation will begin a new era of prosperity and peace.

It is stubborn pride—the will to rule or ruin—that is now destroying civilization. Nations are sacrificing themselves in order to injure one another.

Solving the world's problems requires no superhuman wisdom. The spirit of cooperation will leave no problems to solve.

Brothers trying to divide an inherited farm are handicapped by greed, envy and suspicion, but every difficulty disappears when they decide to work the land as partners.

"Veteran" at 12 Years.
Anamosa (Iowa) Eureka.

A carload of five "bonus army veterans" from California was in Anamosa this week soliciting aid of local legionnaires and business men. The men declared themselves in a receptive mood for food, gas and oil, financial assistance, clothing, or what-have-you. They were on their way to Washington, D. C., where they plan to camp until they receive their bonus claims.

One of the group, while walking in his sleep, fell from an upstairs window in the Herman Schwartz home, where they had obtained lodging for the night. His companions insisted that he be brought in to the hospital for treatment and when they were asked in regard to paying for his care, they shrugged their shoulders and replied that the county would have to take care of that. When told that the county was not responsible for nonresidents, but that they might obtain employment at the county gravel pit and work out their buddy's hospital bill, they gave a loud haw-haw and declared that in 1917-18 they were considered heroes and any county would have been proud to claim them. But the fly in the ointment appeared when the injured member gave his age as 26. This would have made him 12 years old at the time he claimed to have fought for his country.

Democrats Failed.
Mankato (Minn.) Free Press.

One outstanding fact is clear. Offered the opportunity to rise to a great responsibility, the Democratic convention has failed the Nation. When the public was calling earnestly and sincerely for a courageous leader, it has been furnished merely with another politician.

Oversubscribed Federal Loans.
Brooklyn Eagle.

Prompt subscription to the Federal Treasury's offerings of new issues of obligations of the United States Government is announced; also a heavy excess of subscriptions over the amount of the offerings. Both, and especially the latter, will give general satisfaction.

A ready market for these obligations has several reassuring features. It indicates, first of all, that the Government will meet no immediate difficulty in supplying the needs of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It suggests further that the people subscribing to the latest offering look forward with equanimity to subsequent probable borrowing for the corporation's later needs; that they do not apprehend that it will make any early trouble for the Government's credit.

Speaker Garner's Role.
New York Times.

Bargains at Chicago made it obligatory that Mr. Garner be nominated for Vice President, but campaign strategy requires that he be hailed as a great political asset and the spontaneous choice of the convention. Not often is a vice presidential candidate a campaign issue, but in addition to being Speaker, Mr. Garner has spectacular personal qualities. The Republicans would have made a great pother over Charles W. Bryan in 1924 had it been necessary. This year such tactics are both necessary and promising.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Danger of Another Invasion by Unemployed Calls for Definition of "Peaceable Assembly" and for Method of Presenting Petitions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In its "State Bonus Camps" editorial The Post mentions the fact that sites for camps have already been offered to the "Khaki Shirts" in Texas, California, Michigan, Alabama, Georgia, Florida and North Carolina.

In its conclusion that such groups of "bonus veterans" could not be held together when they are not self-supporting I believe The Post is right, as well as when it questions whether the States "will permit 'semi-military' groups to establish themselves."

But permit me to suggest that, while actual encampments like those from which Washington was recently delivered may not be permanently established, the "army" of the "Khaki Shirts" is likely to be continued as a national organization. The communist comradeship will attend to that.

As a cover for seditious plotting and red propaganda in general a so-called veterans' organization would be well suited to the purpose of enemies of our system of government.

Accordingly, the next march of the unemployed—and I feel positive that before returning prosperity is fully restored there will be a next—will threaten a much more serious invasion of the National Capital than that of this year.

Under the circumstances Congress will be neglectful of its duty if it does not, in accordance with the first amendment of the Constitution, provide an enactment defining what is a peaceable assembly in the premises and prescribing a suitable method of petition on the part of grouped citizens, including, under the direction of the Federal authorities, a limitation of the number of petitioners who may enter the District of Columbia in any particular case.

FEDERALIST.

Killing of Policeman Kennedy May Be Evil Fruit of Bonus Riot.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The fatal assault on Police Officer Kennedy by an unruly gang at Logan Circle was on a small scale similar to that of the bonus campers when they threatened to overpower and did succeed in stopping an emergency police detail in the performance of its duty. In both cases there was the propensity of ignorant men to magnify their rights as citizens. The Logan Circle gang as well as the bonus men depended mostly on bricks as weapons in the settlement of their grievances against municipal authority. In fact, it is not improbable that the former, in supplying themselves with bricks beforehand for their attack on Officer Kennedy, were inspired newspaper accounts of the tactics of the bonus rioters against the police. Undoubtedly lawbreakers everywhere read the accounts with satisfaction. The underworld takes advantage of every opportunity to charge the police with acts of brutality, and law-abiding citizens should be very careful how they take sides against the police in favor of mobs with a grievance, whether they be reputed war heroes or otherwise. Needy Wife of Bonus Marcher Asks Information as to His Whereabouts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am writing you in regard to my husband, W. J. Bishop, who was in Camp Bartlett, Washington, D. C., where he served as a cook. He is 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighs about 140 pounds, is dark complexioned, has blue eyes and his hair is between a dark and a gray color. In fact, he is almost bald. His upper teeth are out and he has a tattooed figure of a woman on his right arm. If you could put this in the paper to help me locate him, I will be so thankful.

He is the father of my three children. He went to Camp Bartlett with the bonus men. He has two checks here in the postoffice and I can't get them. My three children and I need his help very much. Please try to help me locate him, and let me hear something.

MRS. W. J. BISHOP.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

HAVE DONE WITH PITY.

When someone you know who has suffered a blow
Comes in with a trinket to sell,
Don't open your eyes with a look of surprise.
Don't ask him his hard luck to tell
Don't give him a moment to wail.
Don't share in his sob, he is back on the job!
It's not pity he needs, but a sale!

The time has gone by when it's proper to sigh;
Feeling sorry for men doesn't aid.
When an old friend comes in fighting once more to win,
Don't mention the blunders he's made.
Don't say: "It's too bad, once a fortune you had!"
For the world has grown sick of that tale.
It's not pity he needs, but a sale.

We have wiped out the past. To the future at last
Every one of us now has to turn.
All that counts is the man? So assist when you can
And your pride in his grit let him learn.
Don't belittle his deeds, but remember his needs.
It's not pity he wants, but a sale!

NOTES OF INTEREST TO CAPITAL SOCIETY

White House Party Honors Guests at Notification.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER entertained yesterday in the White House at a buffet luncheon for about 500 officials, political leaders and friends who were in the Capital to attend the notification ceremonies which took place last evening.

The guests assembled in the East Room and were received by the President and the First Lady in the Blue Room. Col. Campbell Hodges, military aid to the President, made the introductions to Mr. Everett Sanders, national chairman of the Republican national committee, who in turn presented the guests to Mr. Hoover. Mrs. Hoover stood in the receiving line with the President, and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former President, who is visiting at the Executive Mansion. Mrs. Hoover wore a gown of navy blue chiffon fashioned on tailored lines with a vest and cuffs of Alencon lace. Her hat was of navy blue faced with white. Mrs. Roosevelt wore a gown of white crepe made with a short jacket, and a white straw hat with a small brim.

From the Blue Room the guests passed on to the south portico and into the gardens, where a buffet luncheon was served at small tables from two marquees. The Marine Band played lively and appropriate music during the luncheon, while the guests visited around the grounds.

President and Mrs. Hoover Present in Garden.

The President and Mrs. Hoover mingled with their guests during luncheon.

Among those seen at the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, the Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Ogden L. Mills, the Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, the Attorney General, Mr. William De Witt Mitchell; the Postmaster General and Mrs. Brown and the new Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Roy D. Chapin, who made their first appearance officially in Washington. Mrs. Chapin wore a frock of royal blue and white printed crepe, with a blue hat trimmed in white.

Others present were Senator James J. Davis, the United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Mr. Andrew W. Mellon; the former Attorney General, Mr. John G. Sargent; the former Postmaster General, Mr. Frank Hitchcock; the new Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. James H. Douglas, the latter wearing a beige and dark blue printed chiffon frock; the Assistant Secretary of War, Mr. Frederick H. Payne; the Assistant Attorney General and Mrs. Seth Richardson, the Assistant Attorney General, Mr. Aaron G. Youngquist; the Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, Col. Clarence M. Young; Representaitve Edith Nourse Rogers, Representative James M. Beck, former Senator Lawrence C. Phipps, Representative Adam Wyant, Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, wife of Representative Bacon; the Bishop of Washington, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman; the President of Georgetown University, the Rev. Coleman Nevils; Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who is the guest while in Washington, of Mrs. Robert Low Bacon, and Mrs. George Mesta, who came from Newport to attend the notification ceremonies.

Also the Chief of the Veterans' Administration and Mrs. Frank T. Hines, Mr. and Mrs. William P. MacCracken, jr., the Chief of the Buildings Division of the Department of State, Mr. Keith Merrill; Mr. C. Bascom Slemp, Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Fleming, Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver LaGorce and Mrs. James Carroll Frazier.

President and Mrs. Hoover Entertain Informally at Dinner.

The President and Mrs. Hoover entertained informally at dinner last evening at the White House for their out-of-town guests before going to Constitution Hall.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann has as her guest Mrs. George H. Lorimer, of Bergraeme, Wycote, Pa., who came to the Capital to attend the notification ceremonies at Constitution Hall last evening and the luncheon which was given earlier in the day in the White House gardens.

Mrs. Gann will leave Washington Sunday, for Topeka, Kan., to join Vice President Curtis, for the official notification ceremonies of his renomination for Vice President. She will return to the Capital Sunday, August 21.

The Minister of Roumania, Mr. Charles A. Davila, who has been spending the summer at the Atlantic Beach Club on Long Island, will go to Newport tomorrow to remain through tennis week at Pine Lodge.

The Egyptian Minister, Sesostris Sidarouss Pasha and the members of the legation staff are observing a period of mourning for the death of Prince Kemal El-Din-Hussein, nephew of King Fuad. He was the only son of Sultan Hussein, who died in October, 1917. The prince was a great explorer and passed a great part of his time hunting in the Libyan Desert. He was a great benefactor and created numerous institutions of welfare and education for the progress of his country.

Senator Daniel O. Hastings arrived in Washington yesterday from New York to attend the notification ceremonies and the White House luncheon. He will leave today to join Mrs. Hastings in their home in Delaware.

Senator and Mrs. Smoot Hosts at Small Dinner.

Senator and Mrs. Reed Smoot entertained at a small dinner last evening for Mrs. Ralph Woolley, of Salt Lake City, who came to attend the notification ceremonies and the White House luncheon.

TELEGRAPHIC DISPATCHES

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Court testimony revealed today that the father and son of Gilda Gray, who left a Milwaukee suburb to achieve fame as a dancer, recently have been receiving aid from the county outdoor relief department.

Yellowstone Park, Wyo., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—A cold geyser which spouts soda water has been discovered in Yellowstone National Park. Playing to a height of about 3 feet, the water is filled with bubbles, casued by carbon dioxide gas. The water, however, is not flavored.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted Pasadena, Calif., physicist, plans to pursue his study of the cosmic ray by airplane. Arrangements for a flight by Dr. Millikan 20,000 feet above Seattle were announced here today by Maj. Robert Breene, commandant of the 116th Observation Squadron of the Washington National Guard.

Clay Center, Kans., Aug. 11 (A.P.). While crawling through a fence with his shotgun to dispatch a troublesome dog, Jesse Reed, 45, farmer, northwest of Clay Center, accidentally discharged the weapon and killed himself. He is survived by his widow and four children.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The Rev. S. A. Berrie, charged with poisoning his first wife, pleaded not guilty to a murder charge in district court today and was remanded to the city jail. Judge Enloe V. Vernor denied a motion to quash the murder indictment.

Kansas City, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Dr. John D. Brock, who believes flying is both safe and practical for the business man, and offers in evidence his piloting of his own airplane on daily trips for 1,000 consecutive days, was guest of honor at a public dinner here tonight. He flew to St. Louis and back today. Dr. Brock has visited all the State capitals of the Nation as a flier.

San Francisco, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The consulting board of engineers of the San Francisco-Oakland Bridge project today announced it had approved "in final design" the plans for a $75,000,000 span across San Francisco Bay.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Gov. Henry H. Horton, operated on today for the removal of an infected gland, was reported tonight by his surgeon as "resting very well." The physician said the operation was not serious.

World Boatsman at Jamaica.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Lac du Bonnet, Man., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German transatlantic flier, and three companions brought their giant flying boat down at the airport here today after a short flight from Wayzata, Minn., which carried them a lap farther on a leisurely trip around the world.

Punta Delgado, Azores, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—More than 3,000 persons, left homeless by an earthquake several days ago, are sleeping in the fields around the eastern villages of this island. They are still panic-stricken for since the first shock there have been intermittent lighter shocks, which have added to the original damage. The government is giving aid and improvised shelters are under construction.

Dublin, Irish Free State, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—J. A. Mollison, who is contemplating a round-trip flight to the United States, flew from here to Galway today with his wife, the former Amy Johnson, to inspect Clifden Beach, which he is considering as a point of departure.

Rome, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Premier Mussolini presided today at the first meeting of his reorganized cabinet, in which he holds the posts of foreign minister, minister of the interior and minister of corporations. The cabinet approved a plan submitted by the minister of war to build subway stations in Rome in such a manner they may be used as refuges in case of attack from the air.

London, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Mrs. Victor Bruce failed again today in her attempt to establish a new world record for endurance flying. Her "flying bungalow" came down at Felixstowe after having been in the air less than 60 hours. Mrs. Bruce broke the British endurance record of 50 hours 38 minutes at 3 p. m. The world record, established in 1930 by Forest O'Brine and Dale Jackson, is more than 647 hours.

Paris, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales and his brother, Prince George, arrived here by airplane today from England and stopped for dinner before going by train to Venice and Corfu, where they will inspect the British Mediterranean fleet.

Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 11 (A.P.). Prof. Auguste Piccard decided today, because of unfavorable weather reports, that he would not take off for his second flight into the stratosphere before Saturday.

Attitude of Germany Toward Poland Is Hit

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 11 (A.P.). Revision of the German state of mind, not of her frontiers, offers the sole hope of cooperation between Germany and Poland, Edward Weintal, press attache of the Polish Embassy at Washington, told the Institute of Politics today.

Weintal blamed Germany for the agitation between the two countries due, he said, to her "superiority complex toward Poland" and to her making of a "purely optical unpleasantness of the map" an issue which threatens the peace of Europe. Any attempt on Germany's part to annex Poland will bring war, he said.

ARE THEIR FACES RED?

1—The fellow who boasted that he was through with Wall Street.

2—The fellow who predicted that stocks would sink five or ten points lower before they would stage any "real" rally.

3—The expert who declared knowingly, "It is absurd to expect common stocks to make any gains before there is a marked spurt in bonds."

4—The fellow who said, "Don't let anybody fool you; this market hasn't begun to see bottom."

5—The cheerful little earful who insisted that even at the June levels the market was too high.

6—The writer who wrote, "The public is cured and it will take years to get it back into the market."

7—The philosopher who coined the old saying, "A burnt child dreads the fire."

8—The great mind that announced, "A few preferred issues may be bought with a reasonable expectancy of long-pull profit, but no one who would conserve his funds would touch common stocks until there are positive signs that the business revival is under way."

9—The broker who sent out the statement about two weeks ago, "We would advise our clients to remain on the sidelines."

10—The market letter writer who said, "Obviously the market can make no broad advance for the present. The European situation must be settled first."

11—The bright little boy who was fond of repeating, "There is little possibility of any rise in the stock market until the election is out of the way."

13—The student of finance who was so positive that "you'll be an old man before you see another five-million-share day."

15—The fellow who told you, "Telephone will go to 50."

16—The customer's man who said, "I get it from people who ought to know that Steel preferred will hit 35 before it hits 70."

17—The fellow who said, "Nobody of intelligence thinks that there can be any broad advance of common stocks until business has definitely turned the corner."

18—The wife who, when her husband spoke of getting some A. T. & T. at 70, said, "I have a hunch you will pick it up cheaper. We've lost enough money already without taking any more chances."

19—The husband who, when his wife said, "Dearie, I feel like putting a few thousand dollars in Standard of New Jersey at 19," chirped sagely, "Don't be a nitwit, honey. The oil business is on the rocks."

20—The couple who sold everything to take a tax loss and failed to buy back in time for the rise. Oh, doctor!

Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL.

A GROUP of radio officials and radio writers were hosts at a party in honor of Judge E. O. Sykes at the National Press Club last night, the eve of the commissioner's departure for the International Radiotelegraph Conference in Madrid, Spain, early next month.

Among those invited to be present were Commissioner H. A. Lafount, Commander T. A. M. Craven, Philip Loucks, Leroy Mark, John Littlepage, Martin Codel, Sol Taishoff, Paul Segal, Frank M. Russell, Vincent F. Callahan, Harry C. Butcher, Louis Witten and A. D. Ring.

Mary C. Duffy, of East Orange, N. J., supreme regent of the Catholic Daughters of America, will talk over Station WOL at 7:50 o'clock tonight. In a ten-minute broadcast, Miss Duffy will sketch the history of her order, one of the youngest in America.

The Russian Balalaika Orchestra and its spirited string music will be featured on Jat Shilkret's Week-End Hour (WMAL, 8 o'clock) tonight. It will offer "Shining Moon" and two continental tunes, "Red Sarafan" and "Pod du Goi."

Nichola Berezowsky will conduct the Columbia Symphony Orchestra in the following program (WMAL, 10:30 o'clock) tonight:

Entrance of the Bayarderes (Halvorsen), "Minuet" (Debussy), selection from "Fourth Symphony" (Brahms), "Gondoliers," from suite "A Day in Venice" (Nevin); "Rosenkavalier" waltzes (Strauss), and "A Night in Seville" (Albeniz).

THE NBC will introduce the "Thee Keys," a colored trio with a guitar, over the WJZ network at 9:30 o'clock tonight * * *. The musical score of the popular English talking picture, "Good Night, Vienna," soon to be shown in the United States as "Magic Night," will be heard by the American radio audience for the first time previous to the release of the picture in this country during the Cities Service Hour (WRC, 7 p. m.). The Countess Albani is featured. * * * Lanny Ross, tenor, will sing "Sheltered by the Stars" and "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses" (WRC, 6:30 p. m.) * * * Harold Veo, the radio director, will conduct the Meyer Davis orchestra at Rossdhu Castle for the next few weeks. * * * A radio adaptation of James Sheridan Knowles' play, "The Hunchback," will be the Radio Guild presentation (WRC, 3:15 p. m.) * * * Arthur Tracy will feature his own versions of "Masquerade," "O Sole Mio" and "Laugh, Clown, Laugh" (WMAL, 9 p. m.) * * * Frank Parker, of the A. & P. Gypsies, will forsake his broadcasts for the first time in three years when he sails for Italy and France for a month's vacation.

HOWARD CLANEY is one of the most versatile members of the NBC announcing staff. He has been painter, sculptor, actor theatrical director, cartoonist, soldier and—for only a few days—one of Uncle Sam's mailmen. His parents originally wanted him to be a clergyman.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

BACK SEAT DRIVERS ESCAPE THIS.

THOSE in search of new diseases are offered automobile neuritis. They are warned in advance of purchase that this is an old disease—very old and badly shopworn—but now offered under a new name.

Before beginning consideration of the disease itself it is in order to discuss the implication that we purchase the disease. The fact is we purchase most of our diseases. Sometimes we get them by our own acts, sometimes by reason of the acts of others, and sometimes by a combination of the two.

If we sit in an automobile so as to press on the sciatic nerve and keep that position for hours daily for a long time we purchase neuritis by our own acts. If we live in a community where the water supply is polluted and where cleanliness is disregarded and typhoid prevails we purchase that disease by associating with indifferent people. If, in addition, we use the polluted water without boiling it, tolerate flies, and refuse typhoid vaccination there is group and individual responsibility we purchase by a combination.

The old disease referred to is neuritis due to pressure. It manifests itself by a steady toothache kind of pain, by tingling, by "foot went to sleep" sensation. The pain may be referred to a joint such as the knee or ankle. The new name, automobile neuritis, is given because so many of the complainants are automobile drivers.

The persons who get it are those who climb in and take the wheel in the morning and stay there many hours. The man who complains of the symptoms is liable to boast that he drives ten to twenty thousand miles a year. The driver generally sits in a rather unnatural position—one that other sitters do not take. His legs are extended and his feet work pedals that have a good deal to do with the running of the machinery. The length of the human leg varies considerably. Some must reach considerably to work the pedals. Others must keep their legs in rather cramped, doubled-up positions. Between the position held and the work done the legs are subject to considerable pressure in certain areas. The large nerve, the sciatic, runs down the back of the leg and in several areas is rather readily compressed against bone or other unyielding tissues. To add to the difficulty there is some jolting. All in all, the stage is pretty well set for a pressure neuritis.

It is often advisable for the sufferer to give up driving—at least from the front seat. In some instances the sufferer can continue driving, provided he will sit on an air cushion or some kind of pad that is thick and soft and does not pack. Or he may change the tilt of the seat or adjust the pedals. The objective is to take the pressure off the leg nerve. This is all that is needed in more than nine cases out of ten.

PROBABLY NOT.

L. M. writes: Would a strain on the voice have any bad effect on an overactive thyroid gland?

REPLY.

I don't think so.

WHOOPING COUGH.

Mrs. G. E. B. writes: You advised a woman whose son vomited when he had the whooping cough. My 6-year-old son also vomited until he was skin and bone. Finally, my doctor told me to give him liquids only between meals and not until three hours after eating. I cooked cereal and served with sugar and a little butter, and other foods likewise. He would beg so hard for a drink after eating that I would give in. Even if it was two hours after, he would vomit. If he would wait three hours, he would hold everything.

PRURITUS A SYMPTOM.

Trenton writes: What are the symptoms of pruritus? What is the cause? Is it contagious? What part of the body does it affect? Is there any cure for it?

REPLY.

Pruritus means itching. It is a symptom and not a disease. One has a great variety of locations from which to choose. One may itch anywhere, from stern to gudgeon.

Seven year itch is contagious. Most kinds are not.

When the word pruritus is used it is generally combined with some other word to designate its cause or location. We speak of diabetic pruritus, meaning the itch which is sometimes a symptom of diabetes; senile pruritus, that due to the dry skin of old age.

TEACHING CHILD TO EAT.

Mrs. F. writes: My little girl is 4 years old and I have never been able to teach her to eat. The only meal she enjoys is her breakfast, and I have to feed her every bit of that. Would you advise a tonic? My family doctor advises me to let her alone and she will eat when she gets hungry, but it seems that I have waited long enough.

REPLY.

Your doctor is right. Your child is likely to eat as she should if you will let her alone at meal times. If you continue to try she will get worse. The very best plan is to have her eat with a group of children of about her age. They will teach her. Within a month of such teaching and control you will find that she is cured, that is, provided you will keep in the background.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Fur sets to be chic must have more than one version. (Seen on Fifth avenue).

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Tickle, tickle and a pouff! Wot nex', golla . . . now 'tis ostrich feather trimming on miladi's nightie!

Oh, well, maybe not to sleep in, but ennyhow, it's there. 'Corse she has the wits to put the trimming on the part of the nightie that is removable . . . well, have it your way, then . . . it is a breakfast jacket!

But the new breakfast jackets, or whatever they really are, are so diff'r'nt! They are something that furnishes sleeves and a scarf or some sort of covering for the decolletage of the gown, really, yet they are a part of the nightgown ensemble in themselves. Maybe they match in color and not in fabric. Then again maybe they match in fabric and not in color . . . or whatever. But always they are so much a part of the gown that you simply can't wear the removable whatnot with any other nightie or sleeping pajama.

And then as to trimming, my deah, . . . How they are trimmed, and finished! One could wear them to a ball, really . . . and, sh-h-h-h, maybe some of us do!

The new nightgown ensembles, with their matching removable tops and sleeves, are what I am talking about.

* * * * *

Wear out your silk socks and never quaver, dahrlings. Because you have to have all new ones this autumn, ennyhow!

Yes, and the new ones have to be bronzy in color. This is the autumn color for hosiery, you see. And it just fits in very well with black and browns and even all the new colors of autumn. In fact, the only place I should say that this hosiery color might not be too good is with gray. But the dark reds, and bronzy browns, well, any bronzy shade of hosiery is perfect with this type of autumn color!

* * * * *

Oh, it's not a matter of economy a'tall, a'tall! It's a matter rather of ennui—milady has ever and always tired of her wardrobe before it was anywhere near worn out, and wise Dame Fashion is considering that more and more often. She's a woman, remember!

This autumn fur trimmings in your wardrobe are going to have many versions, and each one is going to have at least two, maybe three, uses. Take the scarf arrangement that I sketched for you today on the larger figure, for instance. Twisted together and worn around the back of the neck it makes a collar from which shoulder capes hang over each arm. Then, worn as the figure in the upper right is wearing it, it makes another kind of a fur finishing again. Or take the little upstanding collar, stiffened in the lining, at the lower right. Turn this around and see what you have above, at the left! Aren't they cunning?

Au revoir!

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

404.

REDEEMING A BAD OPENING.

IT is almost impossible for the average player to realize when it is inadvisable to take whatever immediate tricks are held. The most serious errors perpetrated in defense are those at the outset of the hand.

The other day I watched a player, through failure to appreciate this principle, make an Opening lead which threatened to allow the adversaries to make their contract. Fortunately, this player's partner was a brilliant analyst, and was able to save the day through an exceptionally fine, though unusual, method of defense.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♡	2◇	Pass	Pass
2♡(1)	3♣	Double(2)	3◇
Double(3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

(1) The hand holds no Rebid values in honor-tricks but is strong distributionally. South desires to drive his opponents higher.

(2) Not a good Double, since North is not prepared to double diamonds, which East and West will almost certainly run to.

(3) With a sure diamond trick, 2 probable heart tricks, spades well in control and a partner who is doubling clubs, South is convinced that the contract can not be made.

North pondered a long time over his Opening, and finally chose the worst possible one—namely, the club Ace. He reasoned that if his partner could rebid hearts and double diamonds he must certainly be short in clubs and, consequently, could ruff the second lead. He neglected to consider, however, that even if this were true there would be no appreciable gain, since his partner would be shortened in trumps and Declarer's clubs would be almost certainly established. South felt the same way about the matter, but had nothing to do but disgustedly trump the second round of clubs. He then laid down the heart King and stopped to consider the situation. He knew that West was a sound bidder, and would not have overcalled twice, vulnerable, without considerable justification. He must hold at least nine cards in diamonds and clubs, and must also hold the spade Ace. This last card was also marked in Declarer's hand, as North would certainly have bid something over the diamonds had he held a six-card suit and two Aces. Declarer, therefore, held at the most two hearts, and if he were allowed in the lead on the third round of hearts, he would be able to lay his hand down for the rest of the tricks. South's trump trick was no longer existent, due to North's Opening lead. One chance remained, however, and South proceeded to take it. He led the heart 5. North took the trick with the Ten, and returned a club, which South ruffed for the setting trick.

South's play was brilliant, and he deserves all credit for it, but had North properly appreciated the principle of the waiting policy, he would have opened either a heart or a diamond, in which case the contract would be defeated at least 2, and probably 3 tricks.

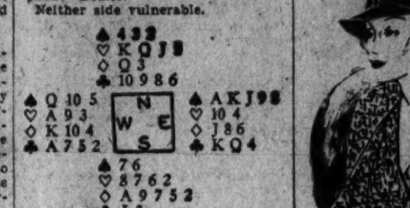
Today's Pointer.

Defense at Bridge, by its very nature, is extremely difficult, as the Declarer, who has no partner to deceive, has a much better opportunity to play his combined holdings effectively. The one outstanding advantage held by the defense is the Opening lead, which gives the defending players an opportunity to utilize the time factor. An unwise choice of an Opening lead often permits the making of an otherwise unattainable contract.

Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

East—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it, and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

THE physician of a children's camp was lecturing to them about taking the proper precautions to prevent infection. "I'd rather have you come to me with the tiniest scratch and let me bathe it with a disinfectant than to have you take a careless attitude, because a tiny scratch through neglect may cause trouble."

And it can. I have known of several instances. One young girl had a bleeding scratch on her leg. She neglected it and the dye from her silk stocking did the damage. She spent five painful weeks in the hospital and medicine bills used up all her vacation time and money.

One woman's glasses made an angry raw spot on the bridge of her nose. She put a bit of salve on the spot, but it was worse the next day and the next. She merely put on more salve, when she should have gone to her doctor instead. Infection set in and when she finally called her doctor he had a difficult touch-and-go task to save her eyesight.

Another woman drove her car on a long, dusty trip when she had a cold sore on her nostril and was continually using her handkerchief. She reached home Saturday night, but waited until Monday to call her doctor. By that time the pain was so intense and face, nose and eyes so swollen that she was thoroughly frightened. So was her doctor. So much so that he swathed her face with cotton wet with disinfectant and called in a trained nurse.

For Mothers.

Mothers, just as you teach your young children to make a habit of taking an umbrella when it rains, so teach them to come for treatment of cut fingers, sore knees, splinters and scratches. At an early age they should know what precautionary measures to take to disinfect a bleeding scratch or abrasion. Have handy in your medicine cabinet a bottle of plainly labelled disinfectant. And use it freely on scratches, pinpricks, pimples. Cleanse, disinfect and seal all sore spots promptly so that no tiny, treacherous germ will decide to stay in the abraded skin. There are many effective disinfectants on the market today that are both stainless and odorless and have cleansing and sealing properties, acting as disinfectant and astringent elements in one. Let me remind you that an application which seals without cleansing and disinfecting is dangerous.

Fever blisters and sore pimples should be touched with such astringent disinfectant several times daily. Sore nostrils resulting from excessive use of a kerchief when suffering from colds should receive the same treatment. In fact, kerchiefs should not be used under such conditions; soft, cleansing tissues like those you use for the removal of cold cream are preferable. And don't rub inflamed nostrils, blot them. It may seem drastic to use a stinging disinfectant instead of a gentle salve, but the discomfort is only for a second, and the cure far more rapid.

What Today Means to You

"LEO."

IF August 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 8:30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 a. m. to 10:15 a. m., and from 2 p. m. to 3:25 p. m.

A lazy atmosphere will "get into your bones" on August 12 during the first part of the day, and the morning hours will be wasted. A go-ahead spirit will take hold of you, however, as the astrological influences change, and night will be turned into day in your effort to use up your then surplus energy. A poor time for concentrated effort.

The child born on this August 12 should be a picture of fresh new life and happiness, for the stars indicate a splendid vitality and a cheerful disposition as its birthright. It will not be afraid to go "all out" for the things which it wants, and will work, not whine, for them. It will be lively spirited and quick witted.

You try, if born on August 12, to progress with the times, and to keep in touch with the things which every intelligent, wide-awake person should know. You are not a style chaser unless a style suits your individual taste, but you like to be "in the know" of things. You are not afraid, however, to be old fashioned, if it pleases your mode or increases your comfort. You are wisely discriminating.

You never allow personal dignity, or egotism, or authority to insulate you from the common weal. If you be a big business man, you are not a hermit of the board room, nor glued to a revolving chair and mahogany desk. You keep in touch personally with all departments, and with the wishes of the public. If you be the lady of the house—in cottage or mansion—you are ably in control of the home economic situation, and are an efficient manager.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

DELIGHTFUL SPORTS TYPE.

PARIS has cast a favorable eye on short sleeves and moderately low cut necklins at the back. So this little frock has at least two voguish features. No! It has more, the skirt is slim and straight. Inverted plaits at either side provide interesting fullness.

Its original, in white washing silk had vivid orangy-red button trim, and orangy-red bindings finishing the belt. Or if you like, you can wear a leather belt to tone with the buttons.

Then again you may prefer to have a pale blue pique dress. It would be adorable with the inset vest of white pique dotted in blue. Striped linen is charming in this model with the vest and buttons to tone with the predominating color of the print.

In pale colored washing silks, it looks fresh and charming with the vest of cotton mesh in white or matching shade.

You'll find it so attractive, too, for sheer cotton voile prints so cool and conservative in their dark backgrounds for general daytime wear. And they tub so beautifully.

You'll find it an especially easy dress to make. The long shoulders form kimono sleeves. The two-piece slightly circular skirt is pressed into inverted plaits at either side and attached to the hip yoke. The skirt joins the waist under the removable belt.

Style No. 2755 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust. It takes but 3¼ yards of 39-inch material to make it for the 36-inch size. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Our Summer Fashion Magazine shows all the new and interesting styles for vacation and every-day wear. Every page in color.

You can save the price of the book over and over again, and look your very best.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

(United States Department of Agriculture.)

Rice is first of all an energy food, containing, like all other grains, a high percentage of starch. It may be used in any meal. It is generally served as a cooked breakfast cereal with cream or milk and sugar. For lunch or dinner one finds it in soup or with meat gravy and vegetables or used as dessert. We sometimes speak of rice as a good "food extender" because it takes the flavor of other foods readily. It is therefore good as a stuffing and useful in mixtures with meat, gravy, vegetables or fruits. When rice is cooked in milk or in a mixture of half milk and half water, it makes a creamy dish of high food value at low cost. It may then be served as a breakfast cereal, with or without fruit, or as a dessert with sugar, flavoring, spices, fruits or chopped nuts. If cooked until fairly soft it may be molded and served with preserved or fresh fruits.

Rice broken in milling is sold as "broken rice" or "brewers' rice." Though less attractive looking, it has all the food value of whole rice, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and it sells for less. Broken rice and all the cheaper grades can be used in any dish except boiled rice, where the grains should stand apart.

The familiar white polished rice is ordinarily the cheapest. Brown rice has higher food value because it is unpolished, and still has the outer coat of the grain which contains most of the mineral, much of the protein, and practically all of the vitamin values of the rice. In oriental countries, where rice is the principal food, the deficiency disease known as beriberi is common among people who depend upon polished rice, but does not occur when brown rice is used because the outer coat contains vitamin B.

Brown rice is sold in packages in many grocery stores, and sometimes in bulk. Rice polishings can be had at the rice mill. They are a desirable addition to wheat flour and corn meal because they contain the minerals and vitamin B which were removed from the grain in the milling.

The grains of plain boiled rice should be white or creamy white, tender yet unbroken, and should stand apart. This is accomplished by boiling the rice gently in an excess of water (2 quarts of salted water to a cup of rice) until the grains are tender, then draining and pouring water over them to remove any starch that may cling to them. Brown rice, after gentle boiling, should be covered and allowed to simmer until the rice is cooked through and the water is absorbed.

IN DEPTHS OF DESPAIR

MRS. MARY JONAS lives in New England. Every month was a nightmare to her. Her letter says, "I suffered periodical pains through my head, backache and female weakness."

She tried everything. Visited clinics. Nothing helped her. Finally she gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial . . . scarcely hoping it would succeed where more expensive things had failed.

But she was surprised. Through its tonic action, it built up her health . . . lessened her pain. She says, "My backache is completely relieved."

Firemen at Convention Compete in Rescue Work

Delegates at Alexandria Also Vie in Handling Equipment and in Foot Races; Huge Parade of Men and Trucks Scheduled Today.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Races and rescue work featured the third day of the annual convention of the Virginia State Firemen's convention in Alexandria yesterday. The Staunton team won the reel race, which carried with it a prize of $100 and the permanent possession of the State silver trumpet, the rules requiring that the latter must be won two years in succession before becoming the permanent property of the winner. The time of the winning team was 29½ seconds, while Covington was second with 32½ seconds.

The 100-yard dash, open to members of reel teams, was won by Leck Williams, of Covington, in 11 1-5 seconds, and he received a prize of a pair of rubber boots. Harry Craig, of Staunton, and Ralph Brown, of Covington, ran second and third, respectively. The judges were Sergt. A. J. Bargagni and Battalion Chief E. O'Connor, of the District of Columbia Fire Department, and J. Reiners, of Mount Ida. Timers were Gardner L. Boothe 2d and Joseph Duncan. The starter was Thomas Moncure.

Orange won first prize in the six-man ladder-raising contest, while Shawsville was the winner of the four-man ladder-raising competition. The Manassas Team won the four-man hose-coupling prize, and a Manassas fireman, Mason D. Mayhugh, won first prize for hose coupling by an individual.

In the first aid rescue work the Chambersburg, Pa., Good Will Rescue Squad was the winner. Other competing teams were Mount Rainier, Md., and Pohick, Va., Rescue Squad No. 5. The problems presented the rescue squads were the supposed amputation of an arm at the elbow, electrocution and a broken thigh. Judges of this contest were Ira Lee Law, director of the Red Cross, Washington; C. C. Wolz and H. P. Gary, of Washington. Red Cross medals were presented to the winners of the winning team, who were Capt. Oscar McCowan, Paul Schatzer, Lee Caldwell, Paul Spangler, Keller, Cleary, and Maj. C. Edward Bietsch, in charge.

Interest in the convention proved profitable for the Boys Independent Band of Washington last night. It was the only band to report for the scheduled band contest and was awarded the contest cup and the Virginia Association first prize of $75. A silver cup, which was to have gone as the association's second prize, was presented to the Citizens Band of Alexandria in appreciation of its work at the convention.

Many additional visiting fire companies are expected to reach Alexandria this morning to participate in the parade. Fire Chief George S. Watson, of Washington, will be the grand marshal, and Charles W. King, of Alexandria, chief of staff. Brig. Gen. Perry L. Miles will be the chief judge of the parade. The route of the parade will be from Prince and Washington streets east on Prince to Royal, north to King, west on King to West street, and north to Alexandria High School grounds, where a barbecue will be served to participants and others attending the convention. Mayor Edmund F. Ticer yesterday requested Alexandria merchants who can do so to close their places of business during the parade, which will start at 2 o'clock, to enable their employes to participate or view the parade.

Charles O. Oyler, of Harrisburg, Pa., was elected president of the Cumberland Valley Volunteer Fireman's Association. Mr. Oyler has served as executive committeeman of the organization for the past year and in the absence of the president, J. L. Redman, presided over the sessions here.

Other officers chosen by the association include Louis Wagner, of Waynesboro, Pa., first vice president; W. H. Bush, Winchester, Va., second vice president; J. W. Kastle, jr., Martinsburg, W. Va., third vice president; C. L. Jacobs, Waynesboro, Pa., secretary; W. H. Richter, Chambersburg, Pa., treasurer; the Rev. B. E. Blubaugh, Myersville, Md., chaplain, and P. M. Affleck, Winchester, Va., delegate to the Pennsylvania State Firemen's Association convention.

The city for the 1933 annual convention of the association was not chosen, the matter being left in the hands of the executive committee.

The Harrisburg, Pa., company attending the annual firemen's convention in Alexandria yesterday gave a demonstration at the George Mason Hotel of every phase of a fireman's duties, including the various methods of fighting fires in a tall building, and different methods of saving lives. There were eighteen different exercises on the program.

In pursuance of the provisions of the sewer ordinance recently adopted by the city council of Alexandria, City Manager Wallace Lawrence is sending out notices requiring the payment of $20 for sewer service from all properties subject to this charge, the list of which was prepared by City Engineer E. C. Dunn.

The $20 charge applies to all properties originally connected with privately constructed sewers in various subdivisions, the majority of which emptied directly into Hooffs Run prior to the construction of the Hooffs Run sewer by the city at a cost of approximately $60,000. These subdivision sewers now are connected with the city sewer system, and the city is required to maintain them.

When the property owner connects directly with a city-constructed sewer, the charge is $2 per front foot, to cover cost of construction, plus $20 service charge.

The principal areas affected by the $20 charge are the various sections of Rosemont, Rosemont Park, Temple Park, Mount Vernon Park Addition, and parts of Braddock. Potomac and Mount Ida are not affected, since the properties there have already paid for their sewer connections and service.

While the first aid demonstration was in progress yesterday on the Alexandria High School, in connection with the firemen's convention now in progress, Mrs. Lillie Fisher, of Staunton, Va., fell on the concrete steps and strained her knee. Lieut. Le Due Stroble and members of Rescue Squad No. 2, of Alexandria, came to her assistance and gave a practical demonstration of their work. After receiving first-aid treatment, Mrs. Fisher was taken to the Alexandria hospital, where she received further treatment.

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

RKO-KEITH'S

"AMERICAN MADNESS." Columbia Pictures' filmization of a story by Robert Riskin, featuring Walter Huston, Constance Cummings, Kay Johnson and Pat O'Brien. Directed by Frank Capra. Previewed last Saturday midnight.

By NELSON B. BELL.

In addition to a superb brand of showmanship, it took courage to make this picture; courage, in a period of depression, to make a run on a powerful bank the action's climax, and courage to lash out and put the blame for a good deal of the spirit of panic precisely where it belongs. Incidentally, we are led to believe that it belongs, at least in part, squarely on the shoulders of short-sighted financiers who place questionable collateral above character and subordinate men to money as an item of fixed policy.

It is in the opposite type of banker that Walter Huston finds inspiration for one of his most effective portrayals. As Dickson, president of a huge financial institution that has never lost a dollar under his practice of trusting reliable customers, this admirable actor carries over into his performance something of the rugged Americanism that characterized his work in (and as) "Abraham Lincoln." He is a sound average American, not too punctilious in the matter of dress, nor yet in the little social amenities sometimes colloquially referred to as "manners," who triumphs over his board of directors at the very moment when a domestic crisis threatens the happiness of his home.

If the picture has a weakness, it is, perhaps, in the not too convincing attempt that has been made to weld the home life of the Dicksons with the problems of the bank, but such incongruities as there are become negligible in the cyclonic development of a story that is timely, human, melodramatically moving and unfalteringly interesting.

The cumulative intensity of the events attending the run on the bank—precipitated by the merest fragment of gossip growing out of an attempted robbery—has been remarkably well built up, and Dickson's rescue from certain failure by the small merchants he has befriended is a deftly maneuvered, if wholly theatrical, touch. As to that, this part of the narrative is said to reproduce an actual experience of that California genius, Giannini, of the West Coast Bancamerica.

The action is threaded by an unbroken vein of quiet comedy, punctuated by intervals of sheer melodrama, and illuminated by brilliant performances on the part of Edwin Maxwell, Pat O'Brien, Burton Churchill and Robert Emmett O'Connor, with substantial support by Constance Cummings, Gavin Gordon, Robert Ellis, Arthur Hoyt, Anderson Lawler and hosts of others. Kay Johnson, as Mrs. Dickson, is the least compelling of the many principals.

Mickey Mouse in "In Arabia," John Hix's picturized Post feature, "Strange As It Seems," and a new issue of the Pathe News, augment the first bill of a "Greater Movie Season" that gives rich promise of really being one.

Senator Fess' Son Weds in Maryland

Charles S. Fess Marries Myrtle Kirkpatrick in Rockville.

Charles Sumner Fess, 35, of New York, son of Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, was married yesterday at noon in Rockville, Md., to Myrtle Esther Kirkpatrick, 33, of Washington.

The Rev. Frank A. Tyler, of the Rockville Methodist Episcopal Church South, performed the ceremony in the parsonage. The bridal couple were accompanied to Rockville by four young woman friends from Washington.

When the ceremony was performed Senator Fess was attending a luncheon and garden party at the White House. Members of his staff had not been informed of the marriage.

The pair obtained a marriage license from Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the Circuit Court for Montgomery County. Both were divorced after previous marriages, they said in getting the license.

County Democrats Map Organization

Arlington Committee Plans to Perfect Precinct Groups Soon.

The Arlington County Democratic committee, meeting last night at the courthouse, formulated plans looking to the perfecting of an organization in every precinct in the county, in the near future. BANK FILES ORDERED IN TRIAL OF BALL

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 369. Clarendon, Va.

A petition filed in the circuit court of Arlington County yesterday by Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas asked that certain records be produced in court on Monday in connection with the case of E. Wade Ball, former county treasurer, who goes on trial on charges of grand larceny of public funds. Judge Walter T. McCarthy entered an order directing the clerk to issue forthwith subpenas directing banks to produce in court records of certain alleged transactions.

The banking institutions named are the Arlington Trust Co., Clarendon Trust Co., Peoples State Bank of Cherrydale, Alexandria National Bank, First National Bank of Alexandria, Citizens National Bank of Alexandria, Burke & Herbert banking house, of Alexandria, and the Potomac Savings Bank of Washington.

The order of the court specifically demands that the banking institutions produce in court at the opening of the trial the ledger account sheets of Ball covering months of June and July, 1930; June, July and December 1931 and January February and March 1932; deposit slips showing deposits of Ball's account on June 30 1930 and June 30 1931; Liability ledger accounts both county and perrsonal both as maker and indorser for the calendar years of 1930 1931 and 1932 and transit letters showing all foreign checks or drafts deposited to his credit and or E. Wade Ball, treasurer of Arlington County on June 30 1930 and June 30 1931.

Service was made last night by Sheriff Howard B. Fields on all the banks within the limits of Arlington County, including officials of the Potomac Savings Bank of Washington, residents of the county. Papers for bank officers in Alexandria will be served today.

Meeting in special session last night, the Arlington County Republican Club completed its program to cooperate with the committee on arrangements for the Eighth Republican Congressional District convention, which meets at the Washington Lee High School, Monday, August 22, by the appointment of a committee to arrange transportation for the delegates to the convention and to have charge of the tour to points of interest during the convention.

President Victor Meyers appointed the following members as the committe: Edgar W. Pumphrey, chairman; Carl Marshall, C. W. Clever, Floyd McCord, H. S. Omohundro and Charles W. Harris.

Assurance of the club's cooperation with the newly appointed county committee was conveyed to County Chairman L. C. MacPherson by President Myers.

Colin MacPherson was elected chairman of a committee to proceed with the organizing of separate clubs in all sections of the county. C. H. Bowbeer was elected treasurer.

Concluding the short business meeting the members heard the address of acceptance of President Hoover as the party's nominee for reelection in November.

John W. Philp, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, is announced as the principal speaker at the Eighth Republican Congressional District convention, which meets at the Washington-Lee High School, Arlington County, Monday morning, August 22, by the committee on arrangements.

The convention will select a candidate to oppose Representative Howard W. Smith and elect a district chairman and district committeemen.

The newly appointed county Republican committee will meet tonight at the headquarters located in the Rucker Building at Clarendon.

County Chairman L. C. MacPherson asks that all members attend, as plans for the coming campaign will be outlined and consideration given to selection of precinct workers in the eleven voting precincts.

Fairfax Road Law Vote Is Officially Certified

COMMUNITY MARKET DECISION IS DELAYED

9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4295.

Action by either side in the controversy over the proposed location of the Montgomery County Farm Women's Market at Edgemoor has been postponed until the return of Miss Blanche Corwin, home demonstration agent for the county, Monday, from New Jersey. The truce was declared after a conference of representatives of both sides.

The committee appointed by the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce and interested communities to oppose the market has agreed not to ask the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission for rezoning of the property to residential. Walter Bachrach, owner of the property, has agreed not to ask a permit for construction of the building. The county commissioners and building inspector will issue the permit if it is requested, since the farm market group has complied with all legal requirements.

It was generally felt yesterday that an amicable solution of the question will be reached.

An interdenominational Young People's Institute will open tonight at the auditorium in Washington Grove, Md. The institute will continue through Saturday. The courses and faculty are: Peace and war, the Rev. Asbury Smith, of Baltimore; recreation and amusements, D. Stewart Patterson, of Washington, president of the Baltimore Conference of the Epworth League; personal problems of young people, the Rev. Philip Edwards, of Washington Grove, and worship, the Rev. W. Clark Main, of Damascus.

While driving along Chestnut street in Chevy Chase, Md., yesterday, James D. Leonard was startled by a shot. The bullet entered one window of his car and passed out the other, missing him. Investigation revealed Fred Peterkins, colored, standing on the second floor porch of a nearby house, with a revolver in his hand. Peterkins told county police that the revolver was discharged accidentally.

Two colored men yesterday were charged with operating a numbers game as the result of a speed arrest made by Deputy Sheriffs Charles Orme and Z. M. Waters. The sheriffs arrested Rudolph T. Neal, colored, 5934 Conduit road, on a charge of exceeding 60 miles an hour. They found books used in the game in the car.

As a result, Rudolph Iverson, colored, was arrested by Constable J. H. Davis, and Arthur Dove, colored, was arrested by County Policemen Webb Hersperger and Thomas DeNell. Both were charged with operating a numbers game.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

As Beatrice Lillie used to chant, "There is life in the old girl yet."

I mean, vaudeville is to come into its own—to filch a pat expression just coined by the national exploitation department of the RKO theaters—during the season of 1932-33. Everywhere, says Master Terry Turner, in charge of the bureau of blurbs, interest is stirring for a marked return of a favorite American amusement. In 133 communities, by actual poll, the Messrs. Harold B. Franklin, head of the RKO Theaters, and Martin Beck, managing director of vaudeville in those houses, have found that music hall attractions are in greater demand than they have been at any time since the year 1900; the golden age of vaudeville.

Instead of the 28 weeks of playing time recently announced by Variety, RKO already is prepared to offer 40 weeks of booking to such headline artists as Olsen and Johnson, Bill Robinson, Sisters of the Skillet, Kate Smith, dozens of radio orchestras and radio stars and several score American and foreign topnotchers.

With the opening of the International Music Hall in Rockefeller Center, the new community of arts in the heart of New York, in the autumn another link will be added to the mammoth vaudeville chain that is being forged by RKO.

Well-known favorites are rehearsing new acts and many celebrat' playwrights are busily engaged writing sketches. In short, vaudeville has not witnessed such activity 'r promised such a rousing renaissance since Oscar Hammerstein's tapering plug hat disappeared from Times Square.

At least that's what they tell me, and I thought you'd like to know.

Speaking of Olsen and Johnson, the nuts on the air with Rudy Vallee last night, these two filberts are to begin a vaudeville tour at the Palace in New York on August 26 in a brand new act, embracing as many completely goofy comedians as it is possible to pack on a single stage. That ought to be crazy enough to interest the folks over on the Anacostia hills!

Next week's headline attraction at the Earle—beginning a week from today, that is—will be Nick Lucas, the guitaring troubadour whose fame was vastly magnified by his overnight hit on the screen with Winnie Lightner 'way back yonder in "Gold Diggers of Broadway," the best of the Warner Brothers' Technicolor productions. If you will look back on your calendar, you will find it was just a year ago that Nick was here last. He will stand repeating oftener than that.

Sometimes we are inclined to lament the absence from the local amusement scene during the heated term of those widely diverse forms of entertainment that comprise the winter-time menu. I wonder how we get that way?

If we think we are experiencing a positive deprivation, how must Chicago feel? Out in the second city of the country there is not a single legitimate theater in operation. Inside the loop—which means in the downtown business area—there are only two motion picture houses open. Burlesque is staggering along on its last legs, with one tenacious house singing the last feeble notes of its swan song. Vaudeville is similarly in the doldrums.

Come on, get your hat and let's go to a show!

Elissa Landi is coming along. "A Passport to Hell" attracted the biggest week-end crowds that have ever greeted one of her stellar vehicles and business held up remarkably well, everything considered, throughout the week. That was Sam Wheeler of the Fox Washington branch film exchange you heard cheering.

Real Estate Plot To Be Sold in Debt

Strathmeade Faces Public Auction for Failure to Meet Interest.

Strathmeade, the planned real estate development in Falls Church Magisterial District of Fairfax County, Va., will be sold at public auction on September 13 to satisfy a deed of trust.

The property is advertised for sale by F. Shield McCandlish, of Fairfax, who is named as trustee under the deed of trust executed by the C. H. Galliher Co., a Delaware corporation. The reason for the foreclosure was given as "default in the payment of interest and principal due."

The tract, which was known as the Camp Alger tract where an Army camp was established during the Spanish-American War by the Federal Government, contains 1,311.51 acres. It is located on the Lee highway about 9 miles from Washington.

PLEA SEEKS TO OUST POLICEMAN OF TOWN

Capitol Heights Councilman Asks Court Order Against Bailiff Campbell.

Alleging that Elvin Campbell is holding the office of bailiff of Capitol Heights, Md., unlawfully, Robert E. Ennis, a councilman of the town, yesterday filed in Prince Georges County circuit court a petition for a court order to oust the policeman.

Mr. Ennis says that Mr. Campbell's bond, required by law, has not been approved by the council, and that the council has never agreed to his appointment. Mr. Campbell, the councilman says, was sworn into office on June 2 by direction of the mayor of the town, but his name was not presented to the council until July 18, after seven council meetings had been held. At this time, the council split evenly on Mr. Campbell's appointment, three members favoring him and three opposing him.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly set August 29 as a date for Mr. Campbell to show cause why the order ousting him from office should not be granted. The dispute over Mr. Campbell is the latest of a series of controversies which began at the last election when the two factions in the town gained equal representation on the council.

Edward A. Fuller, jr., of Hyattsville, has been elected president of the Young Men's Democratic Club of Prince Georges County, which has effected its permanent organization with an enrollment of about 50 members.

Other officers of the club are Col. E. Francis Riggs, of Chillum, first vice president; Kent B. Mullikin, of Laurel, second vice president; Egbert F. Tingley, of Hyattsville, secretary, and J. Robert Sherwood, of Mount Rainier, treasurer. These officers will serve until the second Thursday in January, 1933, when new officers will be elected for terms of one year.

It costs less to live in the lower than in the upper section of Prince Georges County, the State roads commission has ruled in setting two minimum wage scales for workmen on road projects in the State. On the Eastern Shore and in the southern parts of Maryland, including part of Prince Georges, the minimum wage for unskilled labor is set at 25 cents per hour. Outside these limits it will be 35 cents.

Construction of the new girls' dormitory at the University of Maryland at College Park was assured yesterday by the sale of $3,000,000 in State bonds. Of this amount, $106,000 will be spent at College Park for the new building and for the purchase of land near the campus. The bonds, paying 4½ per cent interest, sold for $105.60.

MISS HOLM WINS OLYMPIC BACKSTROKE FOR U. S.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

BENNY LEONARD, plodding up the comeback trail, scores his twenty-first straight victory by beating Paulie Walker last night, either proving that the present-day welterweights are a poor lot, or that Leonard retains the skill with which he held the lightweight title for eight years.

This department chooses to believe that the current crop in Leonard's class are not to be mentioned in the same breath with Leonard in his prime. When Leonard, now 36 and 15 pounds heavier than the lightweight limit, can compile 21 straight wins, it is not a compliment to the class of his opposition.

Young Van, Washington middleweight hope, now is not so hopeful. His string of victories stopped when he couldn't absorb one of Sammy Britt's rights to the chin and was kayoed in the first round and he provided another sensation when he was stopped by Britt in round one of their second bout last Wednesday.

The excuse for Young Van in the first Britt bout was that he arose too quickly after being floored, taking only the count of two and allowing no time for his head to clear. The answer in the second bout is easy. Van didn't arise quick enough, and took the count of ten. He ought to find a happy medium somewhere.

Handsome Van's defeat was a shock to the feminine contingent who were admitted to the bouts free with paying escorts. One fair admirer, who was apprised of the result of the bout the next morning, ventured the opinion that perhaps Van's chin hadn't healed from the previous week's knockout.

When last seen, Van was foregoing his lunch hour in favor of roadwork with the avowed intention of meeting Britt some time again in the future, and the further intention of keeping his chin behind his shoulder.

One of the safest bets of the summer season is that Gene Sarazen will be among those present in the national pro tournament despite his failure to qualify. It is within the power of the P. G. A. to qualify him automatically despite his refusal of its first offer, and then, too, there is the question of deflated gate receipts with Sarazen on the sidelines.

The Cubs are being investigated for promiscuous betting on the horse races, which keeps the ball players' mind off their work, but if there is any truth in the reports that the boys are betting the races, Owner Wrigley should install a track around Wrigley Field. The Cubs took the league lead yesterday.

And at the rate Jimmy Foxx has hit his 42 home runs this season, he will not better Babe Ruth's mark of 60. If Foxx maintains his present average, he will have hit 58 8-11 homers when the seasons ends.

Johnson Hit Hard; Nats Lose, 9-8

Pounded for 5 Runs by Youngstown in First Inning.

Special to The Washington Post.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Aug. 11.—The reputation of Walter Johnson's pitching prowess held no terrors for the Youngstown Middle Atlantic League ball players this afternoon and a five-run rally against the former king of smoke-ball pitchers in the first inning sent the team down to defeat in an exhibition game. The final score was 9 to 8.

The famed battery of Johnson and Ainsmith—the same Eddie Ainsmith who had received the speedballs in the heyday of the Big Train—failed to instill any dread in the minor leaguers and the Nats were swamped under the five-run barrage in the first inning.

The feature of this attack on Johnson at the outset was a home run over the distant right-field fence by Babe Phelps, stocky catcher and one of the several rookies optioned to the Youngstown club by the Nats. It came with a man on base and applied the finishing touches to the first-inning rally.

After the first inning, Johnson permitted only one more run until he gave way to Ed Edelin, Mount St. Mary's pitcher, now with the Nats. This run eventuated from the bat of Alvin Powell, another former Washington rookie, who slammed a homer.

Close Decision Won By Benny Leonard

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, won his twenty-first straight victory of his comeback campaign tonight by taking a close decision over Paulie Walker, of Trenton, N. J., in the ten-round feature bout at Ebbets Field. Leonard scaled 151 pounds, 2 more than Walker.

Leonard lost at least four of the first seven rounds and seemed doomed to defeat. A rally in the last three rounds, however, won him the verdict.

Washington's Printers Win Tourney Game

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 11.—"Heine" Webb, veteran Washington pitcher, held Indianapolis to five hits today as his mates pounded out an 11-1 victory in the opening game of the twenty-second annual Union Printers international baseball tournament here today. Washington is defending its title. The Capital City delegation collected nine hits, and were helped to victory by five miscues by the Indians.

Department Net Title to Treasury

Sweeping all five of its matches with Veterans' Administration, Treasury Department yesterday captured the 1932 championship of the Departmental Tennis League. The victory placed the new title holders one full game ahead of Navy, with a record of 28 wins against 7 defeats. Navy and Treasury tied for the honors last season, the sailors gaining the honors in a play-off.

Playground to Open Net League Monday

The Playground Tennis League, which numbers 40 teams, will start Monday. The league is divided into twenty senior and twenty junior teams, the former for boys between 16 and 18 and the latter for boys under 16.

Matches will consist of three singles and one doubles. The seniors will play each Monday and Thursday and the juniors every Tuesday and Saturday.

Four Balls Put Pitcher On Other Team's Bench

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Manager C. A. (Runt) Marr, of the Muskogee Team of the Western Association, received four balls tonight and one of his young pitchers took a walk.

Marr faced the problem of obtaining new baseballs for Muskogee's game with Hutchison here. The club had no money, so Marr traded George Hubbell, southpaw brother of Carl Hubbell, of the New York Giants, to Hutchinson for four balls and the game proceeded. Muskogee won, 12 to 2.

CUBS REGAIN LEAD; BEAT BUCS, 3-2

Error by Vaughan in Tenth Paves Way for Victory.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Floyd Vaughan, young Pirate shortstop, "cracked" at a crucial moment in the tenth inning today and the result was a 3-to-2 victory for the Chicago Cubs that dropped the Pirates out of the National League lead for the first time since June 26.

With one out in the tenth and the score tied at 2-2, Vaughan made a low throw to first on Kiki Cuyler's grounder and the runner was safe. Riggs Stephenson advanced him to third with a single and Moore's fly sent home the winning run.

The clash started out with Lonnie Warneke and Steve Swetonic, leading pitchers of the league, on the mound, but neither finished.

Race Betting By Cubs Is Probed

Baseball Czar Silent; Guy Bush's Name Linked With Bets.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—If there was truth in reports that Commissioner K. M. Landis came to Pittsburgh today to investigate charges of gambling among the Chicago Cubs, the baseball "czar" kept his mission to himself.

Beyond stating that "I always am investigating something," Landis refused to comment on the purpose of his visit.

The reports had it that the high commissioner is investigating charges that the Cubs gambled heavily on horse races while Rogers Hornsby was their manager. Hornsby was ousted last week and was succeeded by Charley Grimm, first baseman.

Landis said he may have a statement later, but that it probably will not be forthcoming while he is in Pittsburgh.

Bush Not Guilty Says Grimm.

This dispatch said that the commissioner came to Pittsburgh to open the inquiry, and that while he refused to discuss the investigation, he told reporters to "draw your ow conclusions."

Both Manager Grimm and Bush said Landis said nothing to them regarding the charges. Grimm put in a word for Bush.

"You can say that Pitcher Bush is not guilty of gambling," he stated. "Bush's ticket has been bought for St. Louis, and he will accompany the club there tonight."

Under his contract with organized baseball, Landis has unlimited authority to act as he sees fit in any emergency that may arise. The rules provide that the president of the National League "shall have power, upon proper proof, to suspend for a definite period and to impose fine of not exceeding $200 upon any league manager or player guilty, in public, of gross misbehavior, including intoxication, fighting, quarreling, indecency or other scandalous conduct, whether on or off the playing field."

Hornsby Denies Betting By Cubs During Regime

St. Louis, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the Chicago Cubs, said tonight he knew of no gambling among members of the team while he was manager.

"I have no comment to make on what they might be saying," Hornsby said at his home near here.

Bobby Burke Reports Sick, Returned to Nats

Pitcher Bobby Burke, tall southpaw, who was hustled from Cleveland to Chattanooga to help the Lookouts win the Southern Association pennant, reported ill when he arrived in the Tennessee city and is being returned to the Nationals. This is a bad break all around. The player hoped to get an opportunity to work regularly and thus get back to top form—and, if it did, both the Lookouts and Nationals would derive benefits.

Burke is expected to arrive here tomorrow or Sunday and will be allowed to rest until he reports himself fit and then will stick around pitching to batters and taking an occasional relief shift.

Babe Didrikson, Golf Novice, Sees Self as 1932 Champion

DALLAS, Tex., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Mildred Babe Didrikson, the wonder girl of sports, is out to capture a new title—the women's national golf championship.

Arriving home by plane today from the Olympic games in which she set new world's records in the 80-meter hurdles and the javelin throw, Babe announced she would enter the national links tourney for women at Peabody, Mass., September 27.

Until then the 19-year-old all-round athlete will concentrate on developing her golf. She is a novice, but a good many men who have been swinging clubs for years might well envy her long, powerful drives. After touring eighteen holes only twelve times in her life, she turned in an 82.

Asked if she intended to accept several offers to turn professional, she replied:

"If I decide to turn pro, it will not be for 60 days or more. I am definitely going to enter the national golf tournament for women next month, and what's more, I believe I'll win it. From now on I am going to forget about track and field events and play golf daily, in order to be on my game for the national."

As she stepped from the plane she threw her arms around Col. Melvin Jackson McCombs, her coach, who remained at home while Babe won the National Girls' A. A. U. track meet at Chicago and then startled the world with her feats in the Olympics. Miss Didrikson admitted she had a number of professional offers, some of them going into pretty big money for her. She makes $80 a month pounding a typewriter at a Dallas insurance office.

BABE DIDRIKSON.

After the reception at Love Field, a parade was formed and the Babe was given a "Broadway welcome" up main street while thousands lined the street and cheered.

Victory Given Garibaldi On Foul

8,000 See Wrestlers in Even Battle; Dusek Wins.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE long-awaited final round of Joe Turner's beef tournament staged for the purpose of picking somebody to meet Jim Londos the next time the Greek gets around this way came to a scrambled ending last night when Jim McMillen was disqualified for planting several kicks upon the already mismatched features of Gino Garibaldi in full view of nearly 8,000 fans.

Scenes unrivaled since the riot which attended the second Londos-Dusek match last summer visited the ball pasture after the disqualification. Benny Bortnick, the referee who recently suffered a blow on the head with a blunt instrument and now wants to be both a wrestler and a fighter, was the central figure of the disqualification. It was he who pulled the seemingly frenzied form of McMillen off the prostrate Garibaldi; it was he who pitched heavily to the ground and enacted a great bar-room brawl with McMillen and it was he who gained his feet and swung many roundhouse rights and lefts in the general direction of the pugnacious McMillen.

Cops Carry Benny Away.

It was he, too, who was lugged like a huge sack of damp meal off the scene by a couple of cops, amidst a tremendous half boo and half cheer and a rain of cigar butts from the upper stands, while Garibaldi, the winnah, slunk almost unnoticed into the dressing room. In the eyes of about 60 per cent of the crowd Benny was the winner of the elimination tournament, and earned the right to meet Jim Londos for the championship of something. In the eyes of the remaining 40 per cent he was not much more than a terrific blunderer who stopped a good wrestling match before the boys hardly had warmed up.

McMillen and Garibaldi lived up to advance notices, displaying a speed and vigor of attack which stunned even the cynics. Honors were exactly even for the 38 minutes they labored. They threw each other out of the ring seven times apiece, and twice they went out together, clubbing each other as they crawled back before the umpire counted ten. It was not all blood and thunder stuff, however, the bruisers showing much real wrestling, particularly good leg work.

The end developed when McMillen threw Garibaldi heavily into the ropes, in which he became impaled, with his legs high overhead and resting his weight upon the back of his neck. Then Jim began to step on his face, which after all was just one of the minor indignities of the bout. When Bortnick and Garibaldi were safely off the scene, after the bout, McMillen remained in the ring to get a huge cheer, in which there were but a minority of the Bronx type.

There's not much doubt that there will be a rematch.

Other results: Herman Hickman bounced John Maxos, 17 minutes; Lou Plummer held Fred "Deitrichs" Grobmeier to a draw; Rudy Dusek made Frank Brunowicz say "onkle," 19 minutes, and Pat O'Shocker outfisted the grand old Frankenstein of the mat, Chief White Feather, in 43 minutes.

Browns Beat Chisox, 6-5, as Stewart Stars

Chicago, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Walter Stewart's able relief pitching today helped the St. Louis Browns to a 6-to-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the opening of the series.

Stewart gave only two hits during the last four innings, after Sam Gray, Charlie Fischer and Chad Kimsey had failed.

U. S. BOXERS ADVANCE IN OLYMPICS

Flynn and Salica Win Olympic Tests in Afternoon.

By RUSSELL J. NEWLAND.

OLYMPIC AUDITORIUM, Los Angeles, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Two Americans advanced and another was eliminated as candidates for Olympic boxing crowns whittled down the field in the 1932 championships today.

While Louis Salica, of Brooklyn, and Eddie Flynn, of New Orleans, chalked up victories in quarter-final bouts, Nat Bor, of Fall River, Mass., the United States' entry in the lightweight division, saw his opponent's arm raised in a semifinal.

Bor lost the decision to Thure Ahlqvist, of Sweden, stringbean 135-pounder who made good use of his height and weight advantage. Bor appeared sluggish and clinched frequently. The Swede bored in steadily.

In the fastest flyweight bout of the program, Salica defeated Werner Spannagel, of Germany. The little fellow went at it hammer and tongs. Salica was the better boxer. Spannagel proved a rough, tough customer, however, and drove forward all the time.

South African Floored By Flynn.

Flynn moved into a semifinalist position with a decision over Robert Barton, rangy lad from South Africa. The New Orleans boy jumped into the lead by scoring a short knockdown in the first round. Barton went down from a left hook. The American held the advantage in the second session, but lost the third round when Barton tore in with a two-fisted attack. Flynn's margin in the preceding rounds was sufficient, however, to win the verdict.

Ten more combatants were eliminated by the bouts.

One record unusual in amateur boxing was maintained. Not a knockout has been registered in 46 fights thus far.

Standout fighters included Stephen Enekes, of Hungary, flyweight champion of Europe; Lawrence Stevens, lightweight from South Africa, and Bruno Ahlberg, of Finland, who made the best impression in the welterweight bouts.

112-POUND CLASS QUARTER FINALS.
Thomas Pardoe, Great Britain, decision over Kiyonobu Murakami, Japan.
Francisco Cabanes, Mexico, decision over Isaac Duke, South Africa.

Steffen Rides Favorite to Victory

HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, Ill., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—French Duchess, a 3-year-old daughter of Epinard, racing in the colors of Mrs. John D. Hertz, outclassed a field of fillies of her age today to win the Shadyside purse at Hawthorne.

Jockey Earl Steffen booted French Duchess into the lead at the fall of the flag, and kept her there to win by 2½ lengths eased up, over Colonial Belle. Three lengths back of the second horse was Bo'ly Maureen.

The Hertz thoroughbred ran the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5, and as the favorite, paid $3.52 to win.

Grand Time Wins At Saratoga.

Saratoga Race Track, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Grand Time, a son of High Time, which shows improvement with each start, turned in a smart effort over a sloppy track to win the Albany Handicap of 6 furlongs here this afternoon. The bearer of William Ziegler Jr.'s silks had to give every ounce to get home a neck before Balois, from the stable of H. C. Phipps. Third money went to W. R. Coe's Pomponius, which finished two lengths behind.

Grand Time, a recent winner over this track, liked the going and under Harvey Elston's strong handling, displayed fine gameness to collect the $3,950 purse. Held at the lucrative odds of 8 to 1, the colt raced the distance in 1:14 1-5.

Poppyman, which won so easily a few days ago, was added by Mrs. John Hay Whitney, but in marked contrast to his last endeavor, the colt never was able to reach a contending position.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

They again scratched Alma yesterday because Asbestos played it, so the little fox is picking her again today for the third time. Martie Flynn, our long shot, ran second, paying $6 and $4.06. The roll is $45.41.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: HAWTHORNE RACE TRACK, CHICAGO, AUG. 11.

Tomorrow is Friday, and while not the thirteenth it might as well be, from the looks of the card. Jockey Wright, who was riding in better form than any of the boys, is in the hospital and the promising apprentice, Saunders, is away for a spell. Bobbie Jones has gone to Saratoga, so there is not an outstanding jock at Hawthorne. The horses take turns about beating one another, so as good a system as any is to pick out one and stick to him until you run him down.

Tomorrow, Tombereau breaks from No. 1 post position, and I will promise to have him a couple of lengths in front at the half, if you can nurse him home.

Over at Saratoga, where the course is muddy, Bolilee has better than a look-in and Blind Bowboy should be able to win in spite of having to carry "Pete" Bostwick. Take your time, Al, they will be racing this time next year.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—If depression has not hit you, it will soon, if you continue to monkey with these maiden 2-year-old affairs CHAT EAGLE, POPO, and MONK'S DUDE in the order named.

SECOND RACE—Should WAR TIME show a return to his early season form he could tow rope this field. HAMILTON and LINE RIDER for what's left.

THIRD RACE—DON ROMIRO may forget to stop. Should he get leg weary, PANCHIO will be knocking at the door. FERVOR is long overdue.

FOURTH RACE—Going to stick to TOMBEREAU, with the erratic CAMP BOSS second and SARAZEN II third.

FIFTH RACE—SOBIEHA and Jockey Knight should be a winning combination. WATCH HIM for place. DIS DAT has a chance to get all the money.

SIXTH RACE—Must stick to ZIDA, even though Jocke Wright will not be in the pilot house. GABBO and CULLODEN for what's left.

SEVENTH RACE—Play the field. Haven't any idea who will be in it, but you w'l have two or more "dogs" running for you, instead of one. QUIBBLER, BUNCH OF LILIES and WRIGLEY FIELD, if you must have a guess.

EIGHTH RACE—What was said about the seventh goes double for the eighth. BALLYHOO, UNCLE HENRY, POT FULL.

JIMMY REED REMATCHED AT LAUREL

To Fight Ray Collins, of Erie, Pa., in Cofeature.

JIMMY REED, cocksure 140-pounder from Jacksonville, Fla., with the dynamite punch, again will explode his fistic artillery Monday night at the Twin City Arena at Laurel against Ray Collins, Erie, Pa., welterweight, in one of the feature eight-round bouts of a double windup program which also will bring into action Ray Bowen, of Washington, and "Tug" Phillips, heralded as a rugged Erie, Pa., scrapper.

Reed returns to his ring wars in this section fresh from a victory over Maxie Strub, who it is recalled had beaten Jimmy five times previously. Against Collins Reed will trade punches with a smart fighter. A newcomer hereabouts, Collins defeated Reed in ten rounds in 1930. Reed, full of confidence, is determined to gain revenge.

The matching of Bowen and Phillips, also new to this section, is expected to come as pleasing news to boxing fans. Victory for Young Bowen will probably carry with it a shot at boastful Jimmy Reed. Bowen recently knocked out Henry Jancko, of Lawrence, Mass.

In announcing the double windup yesterday Matchmaker Charlie Cornell indicated that Joe Chaney, hard-hitting Baltimore fighter who made a successful comeback at Alexandria last week, would be on the card. A six and two fours will round out 30 rounds of boxing.

Glen Echo Is Scene Of Swimming Meet

Shoreham and Bay Shore Teams Clash in A. A. U. Swim Monday.

With both teams reported in good shape, swimming fans of Washington are turning eyes to Glen Echo Park's crystal pool, where the Shoreham Swimming Club, of Washington, and the Bay Shore Swimming Club, of Baltimore, will meet Monday night in a dual meet sponsored by the District A. A. U.

The meet will be made up in a 180-yard medley relay and 120-yard events in the freestyle, backstroke and breaststroke, as well as fancy diving. There will also be a life-saving exhibition.

COEN WINNER IN UPSET AT RYE

Perry Eliminated in 3 Sets; Mangin Stops Avory.

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The British threat in the men's singles division of the Eastern grass court tennis championships was cut in half today as Fred Perry and Edward R. Avory both suffered elimination in the third round.

Perry, the defending champion, bowed to Wilbur Coen, of Kansas City, 4—6, 9—7, 6—4. The Briton obviously had not yet rid himself of his sea legs and was content to experiment with his repertoire of strokes.

Avory was eliminated by Gregory Mangin, of Newark, 7—5, 5—7, 6—3.

Advancing with Coen and Mangin to the quarter-finals here, H. W. (Bunny) Austin and John S. Olliff, of England; Manuel Alonso, former Spanish Davis Cup player; Elbert H. Lewis, of Los Angeles, and Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans. The eighth member of the last eight was Dr. Eugene McCauliff, of Yonkers, who reached the quarter-finals yesterday.

Austin Winner In Duel.

Austin beat Jack Tidball, Hollywood, in a great duel, 14—12, 5—7, 6—4, and Olliff scored an upset victory over Brant Grant, jr., of Atlanta, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Alonso won from John McDiarmid, of Fort Worth, 6—1, 6—2, and Sutter likewise was unextended as he put out Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles, 6—3, 6—2. Lewis was forced to travel 39 games to eliminate Edward Burnso, New York, 2—6, 12—10, 6—3.

The two English stars, Mrs. J. B. Pittman and Joan Ridley, for the second time in as many years reached the finals of the women's singles. Last year they split two sets of their final-round meeting and then declined to play any more. Both players denied today there was any possibility of a repetition of that incident.

Mrs. Pittman defeated Marjorie Sachs, of Boston, 7—5, 6—1, and Miss Ridley conquered Penelope McBride, of New York, 6—4, 6—2.

Speer to Tackle McCready Tuesday

One of the most highly esteemed heavyweights among the younger crop of "rasslers" will endeavor to mar the sensational stride of audacious Frank Speer at Bolling Field Tuesday night.

Earl McCready, former Oklahoma A. and M. football star and considered by many the likeliest youngster in the business, is scheduled to toss about with the former Georgia Tech gridironer in two of three falls.

Stepping into prominence some months ago when he upset Dick Shikat in sensational fashion, McCready since has progressed smartly.

Stocks Halted Again in Rise By Wave of Profit-Taking

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—A flat wheat market helped apply the brakes to stocks' advance today, and closing share prices averaged lower for the second time this week.

Heavy profit-taking swarmed over the list at frequent intervals, particularly in the last hour, although previously bulls had been able to maintain enthusiasm with demonstrations in rail and farm implement issues. The average net loss was trifling, a few leaders losing a point or so on the day. Volume remained high, totaling 4,402,410 shares.

At its best, the market was up about 1 to 4 points; at its worst there was roughly the same range of decline. Between times, prices churned about erratically, although a tendency toward easiness was slightly more in evidence.

Such leading stocks as American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Allied Chemical, Borden, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, Chrysler and Consolidated Gas closed lower, but International Harvester and J. I. Case, although under their highs, showed more than a point to the good. Johns-Manville was strong, up 3 net. Union Pacific met heavy profit-taking on maintenance of its dividend rate, but made up most of a 3-point dip. Preferred stocks were generally strong. Metals improved, especially those stocks which have an interest in silver.

Farm implement shares got a lift from reports of possible Russian purchases of American goods, to be financed, according to the purported plan, by Soviet bond issues.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Thurs-day.	Wednes-day.
Number of advances	876	582
Number of declines	297	88
Stocks unchanged	141	93
Total issues traded in	814	763

Stocks.

Buoyant trading's gains of 1 to 4 points halted by profit-taking. The average loss was fractional. The turnover was 4,402,410 shares.

Bonds.

Upward march maintained in record sale of $19,225,000. Rails led. The average gain was seven-tenths.

Curb.

Wheat.

United States and Canadian crop reports sent wheat down. The drop was up to 1¼. Corn gained.

Cotton.

Prices were boosted $1.55 per bale. December closed at 7.63. May reached 8 cents.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

London—Wall street's continued firmness reflected increased activity and buoyancy in international shares, and prices were firm. British funds were further benefited by new investment demand. The close was firm.

Paris—Although the bourse made a better showing, the approaching Assumption day holidays resulted in some realizing, which was easily absorbed. French rentes finished strong and bank shares and international issues were firm. The closing tone was steady.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was hesitant, awaiting political clarification and prices closed slightly higher.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—A reduction of 3 cents a barrel for Pennsylvania crude oil was announced by leading purchasing agencies today.

CURB PRICES HIGHER IN CHEERFUL TRADING

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The curb market encountered considerable profit-taking today, but managed to close irregularly higher, in the most active trading of the year. The turnover approximated 600,000 shares.

The utilities bulged up in the early trading but lost some of their advance later. Electric Bond and Share rose 3 points, but closed up only a fraction. Associated Gas A rose a point, and American Gas was firm. Cities Service, which also has important utility properties, closed ¼ point higher, at 5⅛.

Industrials and specialties were mixed. Aluminum Co. shot up 9 points to 88½, then lost half its rise.

Maryland High Bond Price Is Laid to Budget System

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The sale of more than $3,000,000 in bonds for one of the highest prices ever received in Maryland's history was credited by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to the State's budget system.

The Mercantile Trust Co. of Baltimore and associates paid $105.6979 for each $100 par value bond at the sale at the State treasurer's office yesterday. The total amount of the issue was $3,078,000, to bear 4½ per cent interest.

NATIONAL BANKS CUT 2 BILLION IN ASSETS

Combined Resources Placed at $22,367,711,000; 6,150 Report.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Total resources of 6,150 reporting national banks in continental United States, Alaska and Hawaii June 30, date set for statements of condition by the last call of Comptroller of the Currency John W. Pole, aggregated $22,367,711,000, a decrease of $2,204,575,000 from those of December 31, 1931, date fixed by the last preceding call, Comptroller Pole announced yesterday.

There were 6,373 banks responding to the December call for statements. Comparison with the figures shown by the call issued for statements as at end of business June 30, 1931, reveals a decline of $5,274,987,000 from the total of the latest call date. On June 30, 1931, 6,805 banks made reports.

Loans and discounts, including rediscounts, on June 30, 1932, totaled $10,261,676,000 and showed recessions in the six and twelve month periods of $1,639,713,000 and $2,895,809,000, respectively.

Holdings of United States Government securities aggregated $3,352,668,000, which was an increase of $176,191,000 since December, and one of $96,393,000 in the year. Other miscellaneous bonds, stocks and securities owned totaled $3,843,986,000, a decrease of $180,964,000 since December and one of $574,383,000 in the year.

Balances due from correspondent banks and bankers of $3,106,729,000, which amount included reserve with Federal Reserve Banks of $1,150,575,000, were $324,346,000 less than in December and $1,458,318,000 less than reported a year ago. Cash in banks of $338,404,000 showed decreases in the six and twelve month period of $41,696,000 and $30,185,000, respectively.

The paid-in capital stock of the reporting associations aggregated $1,562,983,000, which was a decrease of $52,466,000 since December and one of $118,630,000 in the year. Surplus funds of $1,259,425,000 and net undivided profits, excluding reserve accounts, of $302,521,000, a total of $1,561,945,000, showed decreases in the six and twelve month periods of $171,283,000 and $5[illegible] respectively.

Liability of the reporting banks on account of circulating notes outstanding was $652,168,000 in comparison with $627,490,000 on December 31, 1931, and $639,304,000 on June 30, 1931.

Lanston Monotype Machine Co. has declared a dividend of $1.50 payable August 31 to stockholders of record August 19.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad had net operating deficit of about $1,200,000 in July, according to preliminary estimates. This contrasted with net operating income of $1,383,864 a year ago.

Continued optimism in commodity markets is reflected in Bradstreet's food index. For the week ended August 9 it rose 1.1 per cent to $1.78, the highest point since March but still 20.4 per cent under a year ago.

Bradstreet's said today that bank clearings registered a period of decline in the week ended August 10, "but fell much more sharply than the season warrants, in spite of continued stock market activity." Clearings in 47 leading cities totaled $4,245,073,000, a loss of 16.5 per cent from the previous week.

Savings bank transactions in New York State followed their normal trend last month for the first July since the depression started, says Henry R. Kinsey, president of the State Savings Bank Association. New deposits in mutual banks total $155,796,084 against withdrawals of $184,745,941.

Beginning next Monday the New York Stock Exchange will quote premiums on security loans in round figures instead of fractions. Under the new arrangement the premiums will be established on the basis of dollars per hundred shares which the exchange asserts will involve less clerical calculation than is necessary under the present system. Stocks loaning at premiums are those which are in short supply in the loan crowd and carry a special charge to the borrowers against their short sales.

ADVANCES IN COTTON ADD $1.55 PER BALE

December Sells at 7.63, as 8 Cents Is Reached for May Contracts.

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Cotton strengthened again today, reaching the highest levels of the movement in the late trading. December contracts after an early dip from 7.57 to 7.37, advanced to 7.65, or $1.55 per bale above yesterday's close and $11.75 per bale above the low records of early last June. That delivery closed at 7.63, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 31 to 33 points. October sold up to 7.40 and March to 7.80, with active months showing net gains of 24 to 26 points during the first few minutes, but these prices attracted realizing.

The advance put 8-cent cotton back on the quotation board here for the first time since the market broke on the August 1 crop indication of last year, with May selling at 8.00 and July at 8.14. Weather reports showing clearing conditions in the East with a few scattered showers in the Southwest attracted little attention.

Liverpool cables repored covering with local and Bombay buying in that market.

U. S. GOLD INCREASE NEARS $100,000,000

France May Soon Boost Amount in Payment of $50,000,000.

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Since it reached low ebb during the recent heavy outflow of gold, the Nation's monetary gold stock has increased nearly $100,000,000.

A major financing undertaking, involving the retirement by the Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean Railroad Co. of approximately $50,000,000 of its bonds, gives virtual assurance of crossing $100,000,000 in the early future. The funds, which are being provided to take care of this repayment, are coming mainly from France's gold supply still left under "earmark" in New York, and not counted in the American gold stock.

The monetary gold stock of the United States on June 15 was $3,909,000,00. August 3, the latest date for which Federal Reserve figures are now available, the supply stood at $3,967,000,000, an increase of $78,000,000. Since then, the Nation has gained $14,378,000 of gold, according to the daily tabulations furnished by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The daily gold statements show that imports of gold between August 4 and August 10, inclusive, totaled $3,911,000. In addition, there was a net gain of $10,887,000 in our gold supply, due to the release of that amount of gold which had been under earmark for foreign account.

There were no exports during the period except for a shipment of $5,995,300 to France.

O'Neal Assails $30,000,000 Proposal and Cutten as Menace.

Council Bluffs, Iowa, Aug. 11 (A.P.) Edward O'Neal, president of the American Farm Federation Bureau, in an address prepared for delivery today, said that through strong organization the farmers could benefit on recent advances in grain prices, could gain economic independence and could make Congress listen to their plea.

In his address he denounced the proposed formation of a $30,000,000 wheat pool by Arthur W. Cutten, whom O'Neal described as "a Canadian adventurer and Chicago Board of Trade operator." Mr. Cutten has denied connection with such a pool.

"I doubt if any of Mr. Cutten's prospective profits will ever reach the pockets of an Iowa farmer, or any farmer elsewhere in the United States," Mr. O'Neal declared.

"There is one way, however, by which farmers can get some of Mr. Cutten's profits. That way leads through the cooperative marketing associations, against which the grain trade has been directing its poison pen propaganda campaign."

Mr. Cutten's proposal, the president continued, emphasized the need of agriculture for strong organization, close cooperation which will enable farmers to "get a fair price for the products of their toil" and to control 100 per cent of the things they produce.

UNION PACIFIC VOTES $1.50 FOR COMMON

Basis of $6 Established Recently Is Maintained; Seger Retires.

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Union Pacific Railroad today declared a dividend of $1.50 a share on the common stock, thus maintaining the $6 annual basis established three months ago when the yearly rate was cut from $10.

The company announced the resignation of Charles B. Seger as chairman of the executive committee, to be succeeded by F. W. Charske, who has been vice chairman of the executive committee. W. M. Jeffers, former vice president in charge of operations, was elected to the newly created office of executive vice president. The offices of vice president in charge of operations and vice chairman of the executive committee have been abolished.

Mr. Seger also retired as chairman of the executive committee of the Oregon Short Line Railroad, Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation Co. and the Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad, subsidiaries. These offices will be filled by Mr. Charske, who will continue as a director of the parent company.

The Underwood Elliott Fisher Co. today declared a dividend of 12½ cents on the common stock, payable September 30 to stock of record September 12. Previously the company paid 25 cents quarterly.

Youngstown, Ohio.—Newton Steel Co. today reported net loss for the first half of $346,943, as compared with net loss of $198,038 for the first half of 1931.

Eastern Railway Heads Hold Wage Discussion

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Heads of the Eastern railroads held a protracted conference at the Bankers' Club this afternoon at which wages and other problems were discussed.

Leonor F. Loree, chairman, said as the meeting broke up, "I think there would be no formal statement, but acknowledged that wages had been among the matters under consideration.

Others unchanged.

NEW YORK.

SUGAR—Raw was unchanged early today at 3.15 for spots. The heavy buying of yesterday apparently satisfied the demands of refiners. Offerings are not plentiful, with holders in most instances asking further advances or 3.18 for spots. In refined all refiners continued to quote 4.10 for fine granulated, as the contemplated advance to 4.15 was postponed until tonight at the close, while an out-of-town refiner came in to announce the 4.25 announced he would only advance to 4.15. Business was of fair proportions, and it was said that the trade had covered requirements for some little time to come.

PHILADELPHIA.

DRESSED POULTRY—Fowls, fresh killed, in boxes, 14@19; other articles unchanged.

EGGS—Receipts, 3,180. Market ruled firmer following advices of sharp advance at New York. Buyers were conservative and trading spotty. Receipts closely graded Midwest stock light and readily cleared. Intermediate quality slow. Nearby fancy whites clearing fairly well. Receipts mixed colors nearby very light and prices largely nominal.

STUDYING OF LIVING MATTER ADVANCED

Discovery of New Method of Seeing Minute Parts Is Announced.

New York, Aug. 11 (A.P.)—Discovery of a new method of seeing hitherto invisible or vague parts of living matter was announced today in Science by Dr. Gordon H. Scott, of Washington University, St. Louis.

The little dash of minerals in a man, or any other living thing, furnished the clew.

When a living cell is burned carefully, it leaves a trace of these minerals lying in position like the bones of a skeleton. They can be photographed under a microscope.

But this ultraviolet is only partly satisfactory because it does not show everything. It is "selective," that is, reveals some substances clearly and others hardly at all.

Dr. Scott confirmed his suspicion that the clearly revealed substances under ultraviolet correspond in position, topography and shape to the mineral skeletons. Whether the minerals are actually what the ultraviolet photographs or only focus it in some manner he has not decided.

But the combination furnished science a method of reading the ultraviolet photos which Dr. Scott calls "A new and valuable method for the investigation of the chemical construction of living matter."

Catholic Women Set Parley Plans

Daughters to Lay Wreaths on Washington's Tomb on Tomorrow.

Miss Mary C. Duffy, of East Orange, N. J., supreme regent of the Catholic Daughters of America, will arrive in Washington today to make final preparations for the meeting of the national directorate, to be held here August 14 to 18.

Tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock the national officers will journey to Mount Vernon to lay a wreath on the tomb of the First President. On Sunday flowers will be placed on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington.

Held in honor of the Bicentennial of the birth of George Washington, the meeting of the national directorate will be called Monday morning at 9 o'clock, in headquarters established in the Mayflower Hotel. It is believed than an extensive building campaign will be discussed, plans calling for the construction and remodeling of clubhouses in every city in the United States where the Catholic Daughters of America have courts or local branches. The membership of the order is now well over the 200,000 mark.

Staff of Shipping Board Realigned

(Associated Press.)

Reorganization of the Shipping Board under three commissioners instead of seven was completed yesterday and an announcement forecast early liquidation of the Government's remaining vessel property.

Four bureaus and two offices hereafter will carry on the work of the board with the reorganization looked upon by Chairman O'Connor and the other two members as a realignment since the functions of the board are fixed by law.

The reduction of the board membership was accomplished a few weeks ago by President Hoover under powers granted him to reorganize Federal agencies by the economy law.

In its announcement, the board said:

"The reorganization takes cognizance of the fact that the dwindling activities of the board's Merchant Fleet Corporation forecast the early liquidation of the Government's remaining vessel property and the growing importance of the board as a regulatory and promotional body."

Byrd Road Plan Not to Lift Cost

Richmond, Va., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Addition of 11 counties to the 85 already in the Byrd plan, as the result of Tuesday's elections, will not change the original estimate that the State will not have to pay more than $500,000 for county road equipment taken over in pursuance of the law establishing the secondary system of highways, Commissioner Henry G. Shirley said today.

He added that present indications were that the entire cost of such equipment would not run as high as $500,000.

The commissioner explained that the commission had expected that ten or eleven of the counties holding Byrd plan elections would vote to accept the plan, and the estimate included them.

The law provides that the State shall pay the counties for the road equipment in two installments, half this year and half next year. Many of the counties already have been paid for the current year.

Engineers Get Behind Emergency Relief Act

Richmond, Va., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—The American Engineering Council, of New York, representing 62,000 professional engineers, announced that it has forwarded to Dean E. B. Norris, of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Blacksburg, chairman of the Virginia committee on engineers and employment, a communication explaining the purposes of the emergency relief act and urging immediate and effective cooperation of the Virginia committee.

The relief act was said by the council to be the most important measure from the standpoint of engineering and employment with which these State committees have had to deal since they were organized last year to mobilize the engineering profession behind the President's rehabilitation program.

Congress Inquiry Delves Into Competition With Private Business.

Lawton, Okla., Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Between peppery sessions of his inquiry into the Government's alleged competition with private trade, Representative Joseph Shannon (Democrat), Missouri, looked for himself today into the activities of the Fort Sill Post Exchange.

The congressional investigator visited the Army post store this afternoon, after scolding the exchange steward for not "speaking out" during the public hearing into the affairs of the establishment, which Lawton merchants have bitterly assailed.

Irked because W. F. Godlove, the steward, frequently replied, "I don't know," when asked about total sales and purchases, Shannon told him to refresh his memory from the books of the exchange and then to report back.

The steward said he had not sold goods to civilians since an order was issued in 1929, and explained that goods were sold now only to officers, enlisted men, Reserve officers and National Guardsmen on active duty, and to some of the exchange employes.

The representative asked if the statement of Representative Johnson, of Oklahoma, in Washington, to the effect that the post exchange did $1,500,000 worth of business in a year was correct. Godlove said he thought it was exaggerated.

Former Mayor Charles Powell was called to the stand and testified Godlove told him last fall he believed the store would be a $1,000,000 concern that year.

Jack Frasier, former exchange employe, said the store was under orders not to sell to civilians, but "sometimes did." He also said Godlove had traveled to Norman to solicit business from R. O. T. C. students at the University of Oklahoma.

LINEMAN IS KILLED AS TRUCK HITS POLE

Odin Carr, 24-year-old Potomac Electric Power Co. lineman, of 1322 B street southeast, was instantly killed when a truck owned by the power company and driven by Thomas Carter, of 819 Delafield street northwest, crashed into two successive telephone poles on the Marlboro pike early last night near Meadows, Md.

Carter apparently was uninjured and according to witnesses, whose names Prince Georges County police have, ran dazedly down the road. He was picked up by a private car and brought into the city.

County and State police said they would question Carter today as to why he left the scene of the accident and about an argument he was said to have had shortly before the accident in Marlboro with Carr as to who should drive the truck.

Seen Prior to Accident.

The men were seen by a number of persons in Marlboro shortly before the accident. They had been working in the county and were preparing to return home.

Just a few hundred yards west of Meadows the truck crashed into a telephone pole, tearing the cab of the vehicle loose. Approximately 175 feet farther, the truck struck and knocked down another telephone pole.

Electric power and telephone service from Marlboro to Washington and along the way was cut off for more than half an hour. Emergency workers righted the lines, however.

Wires Endanger Crowds.

Forestville and Marlboro fire departments rushed to the scene of the accident and helped keep crowds away from the high voltage wires that lay on the ground until power company workers righted them. Carr was pronounced dead when pulled from the wreckage of the machine by Dr. I. Boyd, of Forestville.

Justice of the Peace Harry I. Anderson scheduled an inquest in the death for next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. The inquiry will be held in the courthouse at Marlboro.

Carr was unmarried and lived with a married sister. His parents are both dead, it was said by neighbors last night.

Three in Family Hurt In Waldorf Car Crash

One man received probable serious injuries, two other persons were slightly injured and two others escaped harm when a car they were riding got out of control and turned over near Waldorf, Md., last night.

George W. Cooper, 31, of 5341 Twenty-eighth street northwest, the driver of the car, was brought to Casualty Hospital suffering with a concussion of the brain and painful lacerations about the face and head. Mrs. Margaret Cooper, 54, of 203 Auburn avenue, Bethesda, Md., received lacerations about the face, and Mrs. Marie Cooper, wife of Mr. Cooper, received abrasions to her right side and elbow.

Other occupants of the car were George S. Cooper, 55, and Tom Cooper, 19, both of the Bethesda address, and father and brother, respectively. of the more injured operator of the machine. No explanation as to the cause of the accident could be leranced last night. The automobile was badly damaged.

Mother and Girl Hurt When 3 Autos Collide

A mother and her 4-year-old daughter were painfully injured in a triple automobile accident last night in Hyattsville. The automobile in which they were riding crashed into two others which had collided at a stop light.

Mrs. Emma C. Reynolds, 30, was treated at Emergency Hospital for possible rib fractures, and her daughter, Mary, was treated for lacerations and possible fracture of the right arm. Walter Atkinson, said to be a soldier stationed at Fort Meade, was released under $500 on a reckless driving charge.

10 Taxicab Operators Still Use Old Licenses

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday turned over to Superintendant of Licenses Wade Coombs, the names of ten taxicab drivers who are still operating with licenses purchased the last few days in June at the former $9 a year rate.

Twenty-one hackers had purchased these licenses when the new license law setting $25 as the new rate, became effective July 1. Half of these since have paid the additional $16 as ordered by the superintendent of licenses. The other licenses will be revoked unless the added fee is paid.

COLLECTOR ROBBED OF $30 IN HOLDUP

Chain Restaurant Employe Gives Up Day's Receipts at Pistol Point.

J. Ramsey Maxwell, 35, collector for the Little Tavern chain of restaurants, was robbed at a pistol point of about $30 by two young men last night as he left the company's establishment at 1344 G street northwest.

Maxwell told police that a coatless man armed with a pistol held him up as he left the rear of the restaurant to get into his car and continue his collecting rounds. He was forced to hand over the bag containing the money.

The bandit, who had a single companion, backed Maxwell down a basement areaway. The two then ran down the alley toward Thirteenth street. Maxwell hurried into the restaurant and called police. He was not able to state the exact amount of money taken, but thought that it would not exceed $30.

Detective Sergt. Charles Mansfield said that he believed the men were familiar with the collector's habits and were lurking in the alley waiting for him. Maxwell was able to furnish a complete description of the man who held the gun, but could not describe the second.

Maxwell lives at 930 Emerson street.

Jefferson Smith, of 1207 Eleventh street northwest, was robbed of $4 in cash last night by a colored man who held him up at pistol point in an alley in the rear of his home.

W. R. T. to Operate Buses on Highway

Speed Limited to 22 Miles an Hour, However, to Mount Vernon.

With the proviso that its buses maintain a speed of not more than 22 miles an hour, the Washington Rapid Transit Co. yesterday was granted permission by Capt. E. N. Chisolm, jr., acting director of public buildings and parks, to operate two buses daily on the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway between Mount Vernon and Washington.

The new service will begin immediately and will enable the bus company to travel from Union Station and various designated hotels to pick up passengers for Mount Vernon. It was made clear to the bus company that their buses will not be allowed to stop along the highway except at regularly appointed stops designated by the parks office.

Announcement was made also by Capt. Chisolm that a 22-mile-an-hour speed limit will obtain henceforth on Arlington Memorial Bridge with a 30-mile limit on the highway until the railroad underpass southward of Highway Bridge is cleared when the regular 45-mile-an-hour rate for passenger cars will obtain.

Two Pals Died Recently of Old Age; Trio Answered 700 Alarms.

A gong is sounding in the old building that once housed No. 8 Fire Engine Company. Barney stirs restlessly. Gene glances at Tom. Several times the bell rings, then ceases. Minutes elapse. Again the loud clang, pounding out an alarm of fire, sounds—1, 2, 3, 4——That's the number!

Barney, Gene and Tom. That number is theirs. Even before the gong has finished ringing they are stamping about their stalls, waiting to be liberated. The gates are opened. In less than a minute the three are tearing madly along the city streets, drawing behind them the bright red apparatus of No. 8 Engine Company.

Every one who remembers "way back" remember Barney, Gene and Tom. They were the last of the District's veteran fire horses. Never again will they hear the clanging of bells. Never again will they ever be together—in this world.

Tom, youngest of the trio, is the sole survivor. Barney and Gene have passed away—to a land of rewards for their valiant efforts on earth.

Gene was the first to go. It was a quiet moonlight night about a month ago. He had no regrets. His purpose had been fulfilled well, and he had reached the ripe old age of 19. Barney and Tom stood beside him in a pasture of the District Home for the Aged and Infirm at Blue Plains.

"Carry on, old pals," were Gene's last words to his comrades, "and hold your heads high when you march along Pennsylvania avenue in the Labor Day parade."

His companions vowed to uphold honors for all three. But a week later Barney was found dead near the same spot. He was 21 years old. Tom had wandered away and stood looking into the distance at a far corner of the pasture.

Yesterday Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, of the Fire Department, and originator of the firemen's parade on Labor Day, went to Blue Plains to see Tom and find out if he was willing to appear in the line of march without his partners.

"My eyesight isn't what it used to be," Tom told the sergeant, "but I promised Gene and Barney to carry on, so whenever you say the word, I'm ready."

Sergt. Bargagni said that Tom would be teamed with two big bays. Tom is pure white, and will be in the center of the pair, carrying floral tributes to his departed comrades. The trio will pull one of the early types of fire apparatus.

During the career of Barney, Gene and Tom, it was estimated they answered more than 700 alarms. The smell of smoke and screech of sirens was all they lived for. They never moved in their stalls until the number calling their station into action was sounded on the gong over the door.

In 1925 the trio were retired and sent to the farm at Blue Plains. Only on Labor Day were they returned to the scene of former days of action. They were purchased by the department when Tom was 5 years old. He is 17 now.

PEPCO TO TAP THREE SOURCES FOR POWER

Executive Says Plans Under Way to Avoid Possible Crippling of City.

Washington soon will have three independent sources of electric power instead of the one plant now located at Benning, C. Melvin Sharpe, executive assistant to the president of the Potomac Electric Power Co., said yesterday in a talk before the Cosmopolitan Club luncheon at the Carlton Hotel.

Sharpe said a plot to destroy the bridge across the Anacostia River, which carries the current to Washington from the plant at Benning, was "definitely traced to a group of 'reds' encamped here at the time of the bonus army occupation." This could have cut off all lighting, crippled the water supply, paralyzed the Police Department, stopped hospital work and generally demoralized the city, said Sharpe.

Such an eventuality will be prevented under the plans now under way, the speaker said. As soon as the Pennsylvania Railroad extends its tracks from the Navy Yard to Buzzards Point, he said, the power company is ready to begin its $7,000,000 plant there. Negotiations are under way with the Pennsylvania Power Co. to furnish power for this city, thus making the third source available to the city.

Plans are also ready for two new transformer stations at Takoma Park and Brightwood, said Mr. Sharpe. Connection will be made with the Pennsylvania Power Co. lines at Elkton, Md., and stepped down at the two new transformer stations.

Parents Seek Boy, 12, Missing Since Saturday

An appeal was made to the Post yesterday in an effort to locate Herman Tingen, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Tingen, 510 Maine avenue southwest. Herman disappeared from his home last Saturday.

The youth's only out-of-town relatives, who live in North Carolina, were notified to be on the lookout. Herman is described as being five feet tall, weighing 130 pounds, with brown eyes and hair. When last seen he was wearing khaki pants, blue shirt, tennis shoes.

Advertising Contest Won by F. C. Wheeler

The idea day contest of the Washington Advertising Club, held yesterday at the weekly luncheon at the Raleigh Hotel, was won by F. C. Wheeler. The prize was a large box of flowers.

"Three cardinal principles for successful retailing," he said, "are: first, to have something people want; second, to let them know you have it, and third, to know your market and endeavor to control it."

Tifereth Israel Plans For Outing Completed

Arrangements have been completed by the Tifereth Israel Congregation and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the synagogue for the annual outing of the two organizations at Seaside Park, Chesapeaks Beach, Sunday.

Among the guests on the excursion will be Rabbi George Silverstone, the Rev. M. Goldman and Cantor Joseph Weltz. Mrs. Yetta Katzman, president of the auxiliary, and A. L. Schiller head the excursion committees.

Music Features Kiwanis Session

Jules Brazil, of Florida, One of Entertainers on Program.

Music occupied a prominent spot yesterday on the luncheon program of the Kiwanis Club. Jules Brazil, of Sarasota, Fla., nationally known as an entertainer as well as Kiwanis International music chairman, made a one-man quartet of himself in a humorous song to his own accompaniment, carrying all four voices of a quartet.

The Jewell Downs quartet was also on the program, composed of Mrs. Erna Embrey, Earle Nalls, Mrs. Jessie Werner and George Lambert, accompanied by Mrs. Jewell Downs.

Augustus Gumpert, of the Washington Board of Trade, urged the club to aid in stirring civic interest in the national air derby August 20. Edwin F. Hill, president of the club, spoke of the Kehoboth Beach anniversary Kiwanis meeting to be held August 17.

2 HOUSE MEMBERS BLAMED FOR RIOTS

Bonus Payment Agitation of Rankin and Patman Seen Reason for B. E. F.

Charges that two members of Congress are alone responsible for results of the bonus march on Washington, and that President Hoover called out troops to handle the situation only after the District Commissioners had declared the Metropolitan Police Department was "unable to cope with the rioters," were made yesterday in a statement issued by Edward F. Colladay, Republican national committeeman for the District of Columbia.

Mr. Colladay's statement was in answer to a charge by John F. Costello, Democratic national committeeman for the District, that the veterans were driven from the city by President Hoover "so their presence would not prove embarrassing when he accepted the Republican presidential nomination.

Costello Is Attacked.

"Mr. Costello," the statement declared, "is proving a most apt pupil in the Democratic school, organized for the purpose of teaching the very best and latest methods of concealing facts under a barrage of political misrepresentation."

"There is no resident of the District of Columbia," Mr. Colladay's statement continued, "who has made even a pretense of reading the news, who is not aware that the troops were ordered out by President Hoover only after he had received a written request for such action from the District Commissioners. The Commissioners stated that the Metropolitan Police were unable to cope with the rioters and that already there had been bloodshed and death."

Mr. Colladay pointed out that there was no reason for those "misguided and misdirected" men to become a charge upon the city. He stressed the fact that although the mayor of Johnstown, Pa., invited the veterans to that city, it was only a short time after their arrival that they were again asked to move on.

Wright and Patman Cited.

"If Mr. Costello is incere in his desire to place the blame for events in the Nation's Capital," the statement read, "he could single out two members of Congress, who are of his own party—Representative Wright Patman, of Texas, and Representative John Rankin, of Mississippi."

The statement charged that these two members of Congress agitated for the bonus when they knew it was impossible for the Government to pay it.

"They invited the bonus marchers to Washington," Mr. Colladay said, "and they are responsible for what happened."

Edith Riley Claim Is Held Unfounded

Edith Riley, 13-year-old "cupboard child," was declared again last night by the Women's Bureau of the Police Department, after an investigation, to be the child of the first wife of Harry N. Riley, who, with his second wife, Mrs. Elsie Riley, is serving a two-year jail sentence for maltreatment of the girl.

Mrs. Catherine Virginia Martin, living near Annapolis, Md., had written to the district attorney's office, claiming Edith was the child kidnaped from her nine years ago. She asked blood tests be made to determine the girl's parentage.

Mrs. Ruby Brandt, of the Women's Bureau, said she was confident that Mrs. Martin's contentions were unfounded. She said the birth certificate of Edith was on file at the District Building and that Mrs. Margaret Annadale, maternal grandmother of the child, is positive of the parentage of Edith. Edith was born in Mrs. Annadale's home, it was said. Mrs. Martin once before raised the same question in the matter, it was said, and investigation threw no light on her claim.

Brother Sued for Return Of Stock and Accounting

A mandatory injunction was sought in the District Supreme Court yesterday by R. Lee Horton, 1200 Hamilton street northwest, to compel his brother, Maurice E. Horton, of M. E. Horton, Inc., of 618 C street southwest, to return to him 40 shares of the stock of the company. In addition, the court was asked to refer the financial affairs of the company to the Supreme Court auditor for an accounting.

Through Attorneys Mark P. Friedlander and Bernard H. Conn, Mr. Horton charged that in 1918 his brother, Maurice, persuaded him to give up his own private business and join the brother in business, which he did. In 1919 the company was incorporated and he was given 40 shares. July 1, last, he claimed his brother Maurice had discharged him as assistant treasurer of the company without any action of the board of directors.

Steam Shovel Victim's Death Ruled Accident

Harvey Young, 25, of 1121 New Hamshre avenue northwest, who was crushed to death by a steam shovel in the rear of Naval Hospital Wednesday afternoon, met his death accidentally, a coroner's jury decided yesterday.

Andrew M. Baker, 44, of 4222 Chewton avenue, Boulevard Heights, operator of the machine, had been held pending the outcome of the inquest. Young was driving stakes to guide operations of the shovel when he was killed. Baker told police he did not see Young until too late.

Capital Youth Gets M. I. T. Award.

Norman G. Bull, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Bull, 3709 Northampton street northwest, has been awarded one of the fifteen competitive scholarships at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge, Mass., according to a recent announcement from the institute. The award was made on the basis of high quality entrance examination records.

Apartment Death Accidental.

A verdict of accidental death was given by a coroner's jury yesterday in the case of Anderson Thrift, 36, 1011 Fifth street northwest, crushed to death against the wall of an apartment building helping to move an automatic refrigerator. He died at Gallinger Hospital, August 6.

Annual Fireworks Display In Heavens Gets Under Way

Scores of Falling Stars Seen First Night of 2-Night Show.

The first night of a two-night stand of the annual heavenly fireworks display was adjudged a success last night by those who watched the northeast sky.

Counting stars, falling stars, which blazed and streaked down through the sky, was the pastime of those who were outdoors after the moon had sunk.

The shower of stars occurs each August and is visible on two consecutive nights. As many as 100 falling flashes of fire may be seen in a single hour.

This time each year the earth whirls through a veil composed of dust and stones which circle a beaten path around the sun. They are called perseids.

As these bits of matter strike the earth's atmosphere at a speed of 1,200 miles per hour the friction generated by the contact causes them to burn with a flash of light.

Usually they are completely consumed before they near the surface of the earth, although large ones sometimes reach the surface as meteorites.

Tonight again the meteoric shower will be visible just above Capella, the brightest star in the northeast heavens, but by tomorrow the earth will have whirled through the veil for another year.

Farmer Is Nearly Hit By Meteor Fragment

Kansas City, Aug. 11 (A.P.).—Earl and Harry Christiansen, Archie Mo., farmers, are taking more than a scientific interest in the current perseid meteor showers.

The Christiansens, brothers, said three fragments, tentatively identified by E. S. Haynes, professor of astromomy at the University of Missouri, as parts of a perseid meteor, whistled down on their farm late yesterday, one drilling a hole within 6 feet of where Harry was standing in a field. It weighed half a ton. The others fell nearby. Both said they noticed puffs of smoke in the sky. The time was 4:30 p. m. Said Prof. Haynes:

"The fragments probably were outriders of the perseid stream."

Young Love Laughs at Law, But Law Has Last Laugh

Virginia Couple, Balked by Sheriff in Hymeneal Purpose, Win Parents' Consent Only to Be Thwarted Again by Legal Technicality.

Although they surmounted difficulties, they were unsuccessful. But then, love laughs at yesterday.

The story is of William Wood and Virginia Embrey, 20 and 16 years old, of Lovington, Nelson County, Va.

They wished to be married and left home for that purpose. Virginia's father went to Sheriff K. M. Baker, who issued a warrant for William.

In Rockville, Md., police had received a description of the two. When they arrived and applied for a license, Clayton K. Watkins, clerk of the circuit court, recognized them. He called police, who took both to headquarters. The Virginia sheriff was notified.

Sheriff Baker brought Virginia's father to the telephone. The girl talked with her father and he gave permission for the marriage and asked Montgomery County police to release both.

All seemed well, until they were told they were too young to marry in Maryland without written consent of their parents. They drove away, saying that they would seek a place where they could be married.

Investigation of Poisoning Of Dogs Will Be Launched

Animal welfare organizations yesterday began an investigation of the reported wholesale poisoning of dogs in Southeast Washington as early in the day a seventh dog was reported mysteriously dead.

The Animal Rescue League said it planned to look into the matter and so did the Washington Humane Society. First steps were the requesting of police to look into the deaths of the dogs. However, at the Fourth Precinct last night it was said no inquiry was being made by police.

Yesterday's victim of the reported poisoner was Lightning, pet dog of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson, 1711 B street southeast. This development spread the area several blocks from the original scene of canine casualties which centered around Eighteenth and A streets southeast.

The Animal Rescue League yesterday held to its previous contention that the police dog, Sniper, pet of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Westcott, 1821 A street, was a heat victim. Residents of the stricken neighborhood, however, maintained that the dog showed every symptom of poisoning. It was well on its way to recovery last night.

Child's Free Ride in Taxicab Gives Rise to Kidnap Scare

"I wanna wide!" Raymond told Campbell.

The child's brother, Howard, 12, was playing a short distance away and saw Raymond climb into the cab. He ran to his apartment house to give the alarm that Raymond was kidnaped. Their mother, Mrs. Alma Eckert, was greatly alarmed and all the neighbors shared her fear. The Third Precinct Police Station was swamped with calls.

Meantime Raymond and Campbell were having a glorious time. They visited the pool at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue, then rode some more and finally came home safe and sound just as the police cars were arriving to take up their trail.

Boy, 8, Falls Two Stories.

Raymond Frazier, 8, 322 Sixteenth street southeast, fell from the second story porch of his home yesterday afternoon, suffering head injuries and shock. He was taken to Gallinger Hospital. X-ray will be made to determine the extent of the injuries.

AMERICAS' HARMONY IN CULTURE IS URGED

Understanding of Nordic and Spanish Trends Stressed in G. W. U. Speech.

"Americans of the North need to realize more fully the culture of that other America, and there is equal need for the Hispanic American to have a greater appreciation of the cultural life of North America," Dr. James Alexander Robertson, editor of the Hispanic American Historial Review and research professor of John B. Stetson University, told the Conference on Hispanic American Affairs of the George Washington University in a lecture on "Intellectual Cooperation" yesterday.

The speaker quoted various Hispanic American authors to show the feeling which exists against "the Colossus of the North." Correspondingly, he said, the man north of the Rio Grande too often thinks of the men below that stream in such unpleasant terms as "wop" and "greaser."

Cooperation Called For.

Dr. Robertson contended that by means of intellectual cooperation the truth might be brought home on both sides and the peoples of Anglo and Hispanic America might come into greater harmony.

"It is realized that the situation is serious, that there has been a great deal of misrepresentation of the motives of the United States," he said. "At the same time, manifestations of an imperialistic policy on the part of the United States give much ground for the fear of Hispanic America. Economic penetration by the United States, intervention in small countries about the Caribbean, and the threat to autonomy of all Hispanic America has led the peoples of those countries to believe that the United States definitely plans a virtual control from the Rio Grande to the Horn."

"American Type" Foreseen.

Dr. Robertson called attention to the fact that whereas the great period of immigration to the United States has ceased, the melting pot has practically just begun in South America. The future undoubtedly will see an approach toward homogeneity of population there, he thinks. He suggests that "it is not too much to believe that some day the populations of North and South America may approach a specific type to be known as 'the American type.'"

The speaker reviewed the work of various agencies which have been at work toward intellectual cooperation, including the Pan-American Union, whose efforts were highly praised; the Bureau of International Education, the International Conference of America and the organizations arising therefrom, and such organizations as the Inter-American Bibliographical Association, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and others.

The conference will close tomorrow with a concluding lecture by Dr. A. Curtis Wilgus, professor of Hispanic American History in the George Washington University.

Taxi Driver Is Cleared In Alabaman's Death

A verdict of accidental death was given yesterday by a coroner's jury in the death of William Lewis, 65, colored, of Montgomery, Ala., who was struck by a taxicab on Pennsylvania avenue, near Seventh street northwest, May 28.

Lewis died at Gallinger Hospital on Wednesday from pneumonia, brought on by his injuries. George Kissel, 2120 E street northwest, was the driver of the car, police reported.
